Back With Ideas.
Why Men Bathe.
Wicked Stuffed Shirts.
A Dreadful Crime.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is expected back in Washington not later than this coming Friday and new undertakings may be expected. His son and the reporters agree that President Roosevelt did not catch many fish, but undoubtedly caught some new ideas, and you will hear about them.

Would it be proper, constitutional and not bolshevistic, to establish some sort of commission to investigate possibilities of more efficient DISTRIBUTION?

Our present remedy for overproduction is suppression of production, plowing under cotton, cutting down wheat acreage, buying from farmers and slaughtering thousands of pigs.

Would it not be possible to solve the problem by organizing distribution, here and all over the world, encouraging every man to do his best, and finding a market for him somehow? We once took pride in our bumper crops. Must we permanently change, take pride is diminished production and increased prices that must make purchase difficult?

DOWN NEAR the South Pole, where Commander Byrd and his gallant comrades are spending the gloomy winter, bathing, you are told, is out of the question, not enough hot water to go around, Antarctic ice water too cold.

Someone adds mistakenly: "As there is no dirt of any kind near the South Pole, bathing doesn't matter."

It does matter, for men bathe, not merely to get rid of "dirt" from the outside, but also, and even more important, to get rid of internal refuse which comes out through the skin's hundreds of millions of pores.

When pores become clogged, as they do if bathing is neglected, and there is no violent perspiration to take its place, the whole body suffers. Workers in many countries to whom regular baths are unknown continue in good health because hard labor and attendant perspiration keep the pores clear.

THE IMPORTANCE of clear pores was demonstrated long ago during a religious procession in Rome when young children with little wings fastened to their shoulders, representing angels, had their bodies gilded or bronzed from head to toe. They died, to the surprise of everybody except the extraordinarily acute Leonardo da Vinci. He saved one of the children by taking him promptly and washing off the gilding with alcohol, freeing the pores, letting them "breathe."

DONALD R. RICHBERG, who does forceful legal and other thinking for the NRA, discovers dangerous "stuffed shirts," old-fashioned business men, affected with a "post depression psychosis," inventing hobgoblins in their attack on the "new deal."

These men were those that "mortgaged our future to create the illusion of wealth, back in 1929, not worrying about the deluge of misery which they were preparing for us."

The illusion of wealth calamity has been hitherto attributed to millions that bid up prices of stocks. If stuffed shirts did it, they should be punished.

Mr. Richberg thinks "the league of stuffed shirts is the greatest menace to economic recovery today." Perhaps he has a hobgoblin or two of his own.

FROM CHICAGO comes a sickening story of youthful crime, a thirteen-year-old boy, George Rogalski, luring away a two-year-old girl, taking her to the attic of an ice house, where he stripped her of all clothing, without otherwise injuring her. After twenty-four hours, he returned to see the child again, left her, naked in the cold, and did not return.

Doctors hoped to save her life when police found her, but were unable to do so.

THE CHILD is dead, the thirteen-year-old criminal in jail. What is to be done with the boy, whose record shows him to be viciously criminal?

In old days, he would have been killed without waiting, thus making sure that he would not reproduce criminal tendencies. Our law and human decency forbid the execution of a child. It would appear to be a case for sterilization, and perpetual imprisonment with escape made impossible.

DR. WIRT, whose conscience made him reveal his belief that somebody was "keeping President Roosevelt in office merely as a Kerensky, while waiting for the real Stalin to come, on horseback," reveals a suspicion that Professor Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, is "the leader in a movement to undermine the Constitution."

It is impossible to believe that any educated man could dream of tearing down one bridge, before constructing another to take its place. Professor Tugwell refuses to take the thing seriously.

GUNMEN JAB EYES OF VICTIM

Bowling Alley Owner Blinded for Life, Doctors Fear

George Stratigos, 49, proprietor of an Oakland bowling alley, was jabbed in the eyes and probably blinded for life by three men staging a $15 holdup today.

The holdup occurred shortly after 11 a. m., when Stratigos was preparing for the day's business in his Stadium Building alleys, 3808 Fifth avenue.

As Stratigos was picking up papers from the floor, he felt a gun poked into his back. A voice he recognized as that of a man who had bowled there frequently ordered:

"Come on, George. Into the back room."

Stratigos told police he caught sight of three men, all between 20 and 25 years of age, behind him.

In the back room, while his pockets were being rifled, one of the thugs jabbed something into each of his eyes, he said.

Raquel Torres Ready to Marry

HOLLYWOOD, April 12.—(AP.)—Raquel Torres, Spanish actress, who has insisted she never would marry, said today she and Stephen Ames, wealthy broker, would be married "maybe tomorrow or the next day or a few days later."

She frequently had told friends that to marry "was foolish." Ames is the former husband of Adrienne Ames, film actress.

TURKS START INSULL TO U. S.

Hustled From Jail And Hurried to Boat by Guards

ISTANBUL, April 12.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull, Sr., was started on his long, involuntary journey back to the United States from a Turkish Jail today.

He was removed under guard from the Istanbul House of Detention to be taken to Smyrna where he will be placed on board the S. S. Exilona sailing Friday.

Formal extradition will be made aboard the steamer when Turkish police hand over the former Chicago utilities magnet to an American diplomat, Burton Y. Berry, third secretary of the United States Embassy to Turkey.

The late afternoon sun bathed the minarets of Istanbul with glory as the aged prisoner stepped out of the jail accompanied by detectives.

THRONGS GATHER

Insull was placed aboard the vessel Adana, which will carry him to Panderma. There he will be put on a train for Smyrna.

The party emerged from the old Turkish quarter a few minutes after leaving the jail and sped by automobile across the long Karkekeuy Bridge to the Galata section.

On the bridge the 74-year-old fugitive had the Golden Horn on the left and the Bosphorus on the right, rated as one of the world's most inspiring views.

HURRIED ABOARD

As the car whizzed along the streets to the dock the Maiotis, dingy little freighter on which Insull vainly fled from Greece, could be seen anchored at some distance.

At the Adana there was no more formality than at the jail. The prisoner was taken immediately aboard and a cabin was assigned to him.

Ask Mr. Richberg

THERE can be no real doubt that Dr. William A. Wirt, of Gary, Indiana, sincerely believes there is an element in the present administration, important in numbers and even more so in influence, which is aiming to bring about a social revolution in the United States.

Both in his letter of March 23, made public by James H. Rand, Jr., in testifying before the House Interestate Commerce Committee, and in his examination before the special committee of the House of Representatives, Dr. Wirt merely stated what is common talk in all circles in Washington and throughout the country.

His treatment by the House committee left much to be desired in courtesy and a just understanding of a respected citizen and a good American obviously attempting to perform what he considered a duty.

IT IS our belief, and we think that of most sound thinking Americans, that he has rendered a distinct and valuable public service, and is entitled to commendation.

The apparent determination of the special committee of the House to narrow the inquiry as much as possible by confining Dr. Wirt to a literal recital of precisely what was said to him, in what words and by whom, showed either a most unintelligent attitude toward the subject under examination, or a narrow and partisan effort to out-do zeal itself in punishing a man with the effrontery to call in question any phase of the national administration.

No one with regard for the truth will dispute the fact that the departments at Washington are full of rattle-brained college-boy advisers seeking to put into practice, and write into administrative measures and regulations, a lot of sickly Soviet bunk which their adolescent or half-baked minds have not been able to digest or sensibly appraise.

WHEN THE general counsel of the National Recovery Administration says in a public address—"THE LONG DISCUSSED REVOLUTION IS ACTUALLY UNDER WAY IN THE UNITED STATES. IT IS HERE. IT IS IN PROCESS."—what earthly reason is there for try-

Measure Amended by Committee Reported Favorably

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The House Banking Committee was charged with "sharp practice" by backers of the McLeod bill to aid closed bank depositors today after the committee had apparently resorted to parliamentary maneuver in an effort to block the measure.

The accusation followed a hastily called meeting of the committee at which it reported the McLeod bill with amendments. At the time a petition to discharge the committee had been signed by 133 members of the House.

Only 12 more names were needed to assure consideration of the bill on April 23.

The amended bill reported by the Banking Committee is designed to aid depositors of both national and state banks. It provides for full reimbursement of depositors in closed banks up to $2,500 and RFC loans up to 85 per cent on remaining claims.

MAKES CHARGE

Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, sponsor of the bill to reimburse depositors in closed national and Federal Reserve banks, charged that the Banking Committee resorted to this method—reporting the measure—to nullify the petition for his bill.

Because the Banking Committee, while retaining the title and number of the McLeod bill, substituted new provisions, McLeod declared that the committee had failed to accomplish its purpose.

Speaker Rainey, in the face of the bitter attack on the Banking Committee, said that he would withhold his ruling until the question is officially brought before him.

MEET SCHEDULED

The Banking Committee had been scheduled to meet at 2:30 p. m., but it was hastily assembled during the lunch hour and action taken on the bill.

YOUTH VANISHES IN LOVE ROW

Apparently having leaped into the Monongahela River from the Twenty-second Street Bridge, romantic Anthony Stukas, 22, of 225 Clover street, was sought by police today as the aftermath of a lovers' quarrel.

The youth was last seen as he climbed the bridge railing a moment after he left a taxicab early this morning, Earl Burkhardt, 120 Santrone street, cab driver, reported.

Inquiry revealed that Stukas had quarreled with Elinor Benotatis, 16, of 48 South Twentieth street, a Knoxville High School student, said to be his sweetheart.

They had visited the confectionery at Nineteenth and Carson street and, following the quarrel, Stukas called a cab to take Mrs. Anna Miltenberger, 22, of 1922 Fifth avenue, home. She and her sister, Blanche Pecutas, had joined the couple at the confectionery.

Graham Named U. S. Prosecutor In Ballot Cases

Attorney Louis E. Graham today was named by Attorney General Cummings in Washington as special prosecutor to handle the remaining election fraud cases in Federal Court here.

Graham, who until last September was United States attorney in this district, succeeds Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed, who resigned two weeks ago.

IMPORTANT CASES

Thus the former head of the office comes back to try what are regarded as the most important election prosecutions to follow the recent investigations. The remaining defendants, to be tried at May term, include State Senator James J. Coyne and Alderman John J. Verona.

Graham's home is in Beaver Falls. He was succeeded as United States Attorney by the incumbent, H. S. Dumbauld.

Reed, after many victories, resigned when the job interfered with his duties as counsel for E. T. Weir, whose Weirton Steel Company is involved in a court battle with the government over company unions.

MARSH TO ASSIST

He will be assisted by Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, who today returned from a conference with the Attorney General in Washington.

Of the 54 defendants already convicted 37 will be sentenced by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker tomorrow.

MORITZ TO KEEP 2 M'NAIR JOBS

Mayor McNair announced today that, so far as he is concerned, Theodore L. Moritz, his secretary, will remain a police magistrate permanently.

When Moritz was named a magistrate two weeks ago, the Mayor said it was a temporary appointment to relieve him of extra duties while there was a shortage of magistrates.

However, when the Council confirmed the appointment, the resolution passed was the same as for a permanent appointment. And today the Mayor said:

"Moritz will be a police magistrate until Council passes another resolution to put him out."

He also will continue as the Mayor's secretary, the Mayor said.

The Democratic organization, headed by County Chairman David L. Lawrence, county chairman and collector of internal revenue, has been opposed to Moritz since his first appointment as the Mayor's secretary.

Youths Kidnap, Rob Club Women

DETROIT, April 12.—(INS.)—Two youthful armed bandits, who kidnaped two Flat Rock (Mich.) clubwomen, robbed them of their jewelry and forced them to accompany their abductors on a wild automobile ride to Detroit, were sought by police here today.

WEIRTON RULE ISSUED ON U. S.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 12.—(AP.)—Judge John P. Nields in United States Court today denied, with one exception, the requests of the Weirton Steel Company for more specific particulars regarding the federal government's charges that the company had violated collective bargaining provisions of the steel code.

The one exception granted was the request that the government furnish further particulars setting forth the authority pursuant to which the National Labor Board was created and the organization and composition of the board at the time the matters complained of by the government were before the board.

Argument on the motion for fuller particulars was heard yesterday. Prior to the argument the court denied a motion by the government that the steel company make answer by next Saturday to the government's complaint, instead of April 27, as originally fixed.

The government in its original action asked the court to restrain the company from interfering with the workers in choosing representatives for collective bargaining. It alleged the company imposed upon the employes a company-dominated union which is ineffective as a means of collective bargaining.

Train Narrowly Misses Gen. Johnson and Party

Roosevelt Returning To Capital Confers With NRA Chief

MIAMI, Fla., April 12.—(AP.)—A narrowly averted accident involving members of his party today marked the departure of President Roosevelt for Washington at the conclusion of a two-week fishing trip in Bahaman waters.

A train narrowly missed striking a combination automobile-trailer, carrying Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, and other party members, as they were enroute to the docks to greet the President as he arrived on the yacht Nourmahal from the Gulf stream fishing grounds.

Besides Gen. Johnson, those in the machine included Donald Richberg, general counsel for the NRA; Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary and a number of White House corespondents and their wives.

A police escort darted across the tracks in front of the on-coming train. The driver of the automobile followed, despite the shrieking whistle of the locomotive, and just managed to get the machine across the tracks in time to avoid a collision.

CUMMINGS MUM ON MELLON SUIT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Indications that the government will compromise many pending cases against income tax violators were seen today at the Department of Justice where about 300 cases of this kind are under investigation.

Cummings said that a substantial number of offers of voluntary settlement had been received.

He approved several settlements on the basis of full payment, including that of Thomas L. Sidlo, of Cleveland.

At the time that the government announced it was proceeding against Sidlo it was also announced that proceedings were being taken against Andrew W. Mellon, ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York, and several others. Cummings was asked:

"What disposition will be made of these cases?"

He replied:

"You may draw your own inferences."

He declined to be more explicit.

The impression was obtained that Mellon has made no offer to settle his case.

DOCTORS HERE TO PROBE CHARGES

Druggists' Testimony Of Suffering Laid Before Board

Doctors, members of the Medical Advisory Committee to the Allegheny County Relief Board, today were preparing an investigation of charges that thousands of the ill unemployed in Allegheny County are suffering because the State Emergency Relief Board has failed to provide sufficient funds to purchase drugs.

The Employe Pharmacists' Association of Greater Pittsburgh made the charges. Seeking to take medical relief orders out of retail drug channels, druggists, members of the association, recommended a set-up of state public laboratories to fill prescriptions for the unemployed. The Medical Advisory Committee will investigate this proposal also.

ACTION EXPLAINED

Explaining the board's action, Lester Perry, executive secretary of the Allegheny County Medical Association, said:

"The doctors do not think they have sufficient first-hand facts to make any statement as yet, but they are resolved to investigate the charges. They will probably have something more to say at next Wednesday's meeting."

The druggists point out that the state relief board allows a maximum payment of 50 cents for a single prescription. In many cases, they say, this amount does not cover the cost of the drugs.

LOSS FOR DRUGGISTS

This means that druggists, ethically bound to prepare what physicians prescribe, must supply medicines to the needy at a loss to themselves.

The druggists also assert that the state is often 60 days behind in payments.

Ralph R. Kartub, president of the Employe Pharmacists' Association, proposes establishment of 20 drug stations in city and county owned buildings. He says that recommendations that the system be adopted will be made this week to Dr. Harold I. Miller, medical director for the state relief board in Harrisburg, Eric H. Biddle, executive director of the board, and George P. Mills, executive director of the county relief board.

His plan, Kartub estimates, would put 60 unemployed pharmacists to work, and save the state $2,800 per week in Allegheny County on the cost of medical supplies.

AUTO STRIKE SPREAD LOOMS

DETROIT, April 12.—(AP.)—Recurring reports of labor dissatisfaction with the procedure of the National Automobile Labor Board were climaxed today with announcement of plans for a meeting in Pontiac, Mich., next Sunday of representatives of union labor organizations from Michigan and Ohio cities at which working hours and wages will be discussed.

Whether the meeting at Pontiac would throw the automobile labor situation back into the status prevailing before the Washington agreement of March 25 at which the Automobile Labor Board was created was not disclosed by labor leaders.

The cities to be represented at the Pontiac meeting are Detroit, Lansing, Saginaw, Flint, Pontiac, Cleveland and possibly Toledo and Akron. The delegates will constitute the executive committee of the United Automobile Workers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

P. R. R. OFFICIAL BACKS LABOR

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Railroad employes should be free to organize in their own way, M. W. Clement, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today in advocating many proposed amendments to the railway labor act.

Payment of labor members on boards of adjustment by the railroads was questioned by Senator Dill (Dem.) of Washington, committee chairman. Clement said, however, that although that policy cost the Pennsylvania Railroad $300,000 a year, "it is worth it for it has brought perfect peace."

The general purport of the amendments was to discontinue entrance of so-called "outsiders" into disputes between railroads and their employes.

W. C. T. U. Sips 'Sawdust Specials' and Likes 'Em

NEWTOWN, Pa., April 12.—(AP.)—Members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union have been seeing green-eyed dragons. What's more, they've been drinking them. "Sawdust Specials," too.

The dragons, 3 specials were fruit drinks served to the delegates at a tri-county conference to demonstrate that drinks need not be alcoholic to contain a kick. They were passed around after Mrs. John D. Pennington, of Philadelphia, national director of the Department of Nonalcoholic Fruit Products, urged the drinks as a means to create a new thirst in America, before beverages.

Topics for discussion include creation of others and adoption of resolutions to urge control laws. The delegates are from Bucks, Bucks County, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia and Schuylkill counties.

down the gangplank of the Nourmahal and entered an automobile to be driven to the railroad station.

The route to the train lay past Bay Front Park where a year ago the assassin, Giuseppe Zangara, fatally wounded Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago, in an unsuccessful attempt on Mr. Roosevelt's life on the day the then President-elect landed here for another fishing trip. Zangara later was electrocuted.

President Roosevelt told newspapermen that he had a "perfectly marvelous time, just lazing around" on his two weeks' vacation cruise.

Johnson and Roosevelt Talk NRA Enforcement

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, said today after a conference with President Roosevelt that he was not sure but what recommendation might be made for extension of the drastic licensing provision of the National Recovery Act as a weapon of strict enforcement of the codes.

Johnson said:

"I think we have teeth enough without it, but there may be other reasons for continuation of the licensing power."

The general also disclosed that the President was in accordance with the general support of the Wagner bill establishing by law a quasi-supreme court of industrial relations.

Johnson gave an optimistic report on the general business situation to the Chief Executive on the way northward from the President's vacation cruise.

In return, Mr. Roosevelt ordered that Johnson and Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, take a few more days off in southern territory for a rest. Johnson seriously considered leaving the train at Charleston, S. C., tonight.

TURKS START INSULT TO U. S.

murky in the late afternoon, the sun filtered through the clouds as the former utilities magnate started back to the city where he once was mighty, to face trial on criminal charges.

ALLAH! ALLAH!

White-turbaned muezzings came out on balconies and high towers of the mosques to call the people to prayer. They sang:

That was the last which could be seen from the Adana as it sailed toward the open sea.

Earlier in the day the Turkish Court of Appeals had refused to consider his plea against extradition.

EXCHANGE BILL GETS 'TEETH'

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Corporate sections of the stock market control bill requiring regular reports from corporations with listed securities, which opponents of the bill said would place business under government control, were approved today by a Senate banking sub-committee.

The committee approved sections of the bill giving the regulatory commission authority to require annual audits and more frequent reports on the financial conditions and operations of companies with stocks listed on registered exchanges and to make rules for the use of proxies.

It also recommended restoring to the bill an introductory clause in revised language to bolster its constitutionality.

The sub-committee approved an amendment saying "nothing in this act shall be construed as authorizing the commission to interfere with the management of the affairs of an issuer."

The proxy section of the bill was revised to eliminate all statutory prohibitions. As approved it would vest the commission with power to make rules regulating the solicitation and use of proxies.

Court Orders Bank Assessments Paid

NEW YORK, April 12.—(Universal).—Some 6,000 stockholders in the closed Bank of United States must pay assessments aggregating $8,000,000, Supreme Court Justice Lydon ordered today. Payment of the assessments will hasten disbursements to 440,000 depositors in the institution, which failed December 11, 1930.

FRELINGHUYSEN GIFT BARED IN CANNON CASE

$10,000 Sent Bishop to Fight Smith, Asserts Prosecutor

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Evidence that Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former Senator from New Jersey, contributed $10,000 to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., for use in efforts to defeat Alfred E. Smith for President in 1932, was presented today in the trial of the Southern Methodist clergyman.

This was testified by Frank C. Ferguson, president of the Hudson County National Bank of Jersey City, over the objection of Robert H. McNeill, chief defense counsel, who said:

"This can be for one purpose only—to prejudice the general handling of these funds. Your honor will have to draw some line where these gentlemen will have to stop with their dragnet."

The Bishop and Miss Ada L. Burroughs are on trial on a charge of violating the Federal Corrupt Practics Act by failure to report all of a $65,300 contribution made by E. C. Jameson, New York insurance executive, for the anti-Smith campaign.

Ferguson testified in District of Columbia Supreme Court to drawing two officers' checks for $5,000 each to the order of Cannon after Frelinghuysen had sent him $10,000 and a note requesting that action.

Justice Peyton Gordon overruled the objection, after John J. Wilson, government prosecutor, said he would show the Frelinghuysen contributions were placed in Cannon's account as "anti-Smith chairman" in the Continental Trust Company of Washington.

He said he would show in later testimony that proceeds of the two checks were used to purchase a certificate of deposit, with which an account was opened by Cannon at Crewe, Virginia, as executor of an estate, and that funds supplied by Jameson also were deposited there.

3 TOMS 'FIX' CASE UP

Jack Tobin faced a hearing before Alderman A. M. Maloney today charged with trying to "fix" the star state witness in the trial of the "Three Toms," convicted proprietors of the notorious Monaca Club.

Tobin was said to have attempted to induce Robert Hershman, a former state trooper, to leave Tom Coyne's name out of the club's activities.

Tobin was arrested Tuesday, almost at the time Judge Thomas M. Marshall was sentencing Tom Dolan to a six months jail term. Tom (Goose) Goslin, the third Tom, was sentenced Monday to a similar term.

FAYETTE MINE STRIKE LOOMS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 12.—(AP.)—Stirred by fresh discord in the Fayette County coal fields, leaders of the United Mine Workers of America have summoned a special convention of District No. 4 for tonight.

The action was taken last night by William Hynes, district president, after several meetings in which miners discussed another "holiday" walkout. Speakers at these meetings said they seek to force the re-employment of certain miners who quit work at several of the H. C. Frick Coke Company pits during a recent dispute. They claim that these men were never re-hired.

a Operators Defiance

...INGTON, April 12.—...abama coal operators today fast on threats to start a ...war" in the bituminous fi... ...er than accept NRA's d... ...r a seven-hour day and h... ...ges.

...a startling climax to a storm-filled three-day hearing on the questions, Forney Johnston, representing the Alabama operators, last night charged Hugh S. Johnston with "arbitrary, illegal and unwarranted" action in approving the new schedule.

For a moment, fisticuffs between the Alabamian and John L. Lewis, heavy-set leader of the United Mine Workers, seemed imminent when Lewis accused Johnston of attempting to "browbeat" members of the union.

West Va. Operators, Miners in Accord

WHEELING, W. Va., April 12.—(AP.)—Union officials and operators of bituminous coal mines in the Northern Panhandle field had announced today they had reached a verbal agreement on all terms of a contract to supplement the basic $5- a-day seven-hour-work day.

CITIES MAY GET FINANCE AID

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—A proposal for legislation to set aside $300,000,000 of Reconstruction Corporation funds for aiding financially distressed cities was reported today in administration quarters to be ready for President Roosevelt's consideration.

The plan was understood to have the tentative approval of Secretary Morgenthau and Jesse Jones, RFC chairman. It represented the result of months of work by federal officials and mayors.

In its present form the plan was said to contemplate using the $300,000,000 as a revolving fund. The Reconstruction Corporation would be empowered to employ this fund in a number of ways—for direct loans to debt-ridden cities, for purchasing tax anticipation warrents and for discounting municipal paper.

Such advances would be limited to 14 months. The interest rate would be 4 per cent.

Cities would be loaned funds only to meet routine operating costs. None of the RFC money would be employed to retire existing debts to private institutions.

RIVAL AIR LINES LINKED IN QUIZ

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The Senate Air Mail Committee heard testimony today that the advice of a lawyer for an independent air mail company had been sought in selecting accountants for the committee's investigation of air mail contract awards during the Hoover administration.

W. E. Denning, Washington attorney, told the committee A. G. Patterson, chief investigator for the committee, had asked him to suggest accountants.

Denning identified a letter he subsequently wrote to Paul Braniff, independent airline operator, requesting his recommendations and cautioning that the letter should be treated confidentially.

Denning said Braniff suggested Gerald G. Clayton, of Oklahoma City for a position, but he did not forward the name to Patterson, because he doubted the propriety of such action.

Senator Austin (Rep.), of Vermont, asked:

"You found it necessary to keep that letter confidential because it would not sound well?"

"That is correct."

The latest phase of the inquiry, being directed by Austin, is dealing with whether independent operators influenced the present administration to cancel the contracts.

3 Men Hurt, 17 Held In Strike Riot on Car

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—(AP.)—Three men were injured and 17 others arrested in a battle between striking and non-striking employes of a ball bearing plant.

The clash took place on a street car last night as non-strikers switched from taxicabs to the cars to reach the plant.

SENATE VOTES TO INCREASE ESTATE TAX

'Rate Boosters' Find Opposition Gaining In House

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The Senate today voted for a big increase in inheritance taxes, designed to raise $92,000,000 a year in additional revenue.

It adopted an amendment to the revenue bill by Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, making the range of super inheritance or estate levies 1 to 60 per cent as against 1 to 45 in existing law and 1 to 50 in the Finance Committee schedule. Exemptions on gross estates were reduced from $50,000 to $40,000.

Taxes paid under the super estate schedule are not subject to the 80 per cent credit for similar taxes paid to states.

TWO SCHEDULES

There are two schedules to estate rates under present law, the first running from 1 to 20 per cent against which the 80 per cent credit is allowed. The La Follette rates do not affect the first schedule.

The newly adopted rates begin on net estates under $20,000, compared with $10,000 in existing law, and graduate upward to 60 per cent on those over $10,000,000, with an exemption of $40,000 on gross estates against $50,000 in existing law. The estate tax is paid on the value of estates transferred after death.

La Follette explained the composite rates on estates under his amendment would amount only to about 44 per cent over $10,000,000. He said the 6 per cent probably would not apply until $100,000,000 was reached.

VOTE 65 TO 14

The vote for the La Follette inheritance levies was 65 to 14.

To make gift taxes conform to the companion estate levies, the Senate approved without a roll-call another La Follette amendment increasing these rates, which amount to three-quarters of estate taxes.

Meanwhile House leaders look dubiously at prospects for acceptance of the 10 per cent supertax on incomes adopted yesterday by the Senate.

Speaker Rainey said he thought "there is quite a bit of opposition to it in the House."

Representative Byrns, Democratic leader, said:

"They'll have to show need for this tax to get the House to accept it."

VETO THREATENED

In the face of House opposition the Senate threw overboard a previous vote against the Couzens amendment to increase all individual tax returns next year, and then voted, despite President Roosevelt's objections, for a three cents a pound domestic processing tax on imported vegetable and marine animal oils.

As to the income tax boost, Couzens emphasized the bill as it now stands provided much relief for small income tax payers and the additional 10 per cent he proposes would not require a taxpayer to pay more than under existing law until net incomes of $9,000 were reached.

A married man with no dependents and with a net income of $3,000 would pay $20 income tax under the present law. Under the Senate and House schedules, which allow a 10 per cent credit for earned income, he would pay only $8 and with the Couzens amendment only $8.80.

Escaped Convict Sentenced in Break

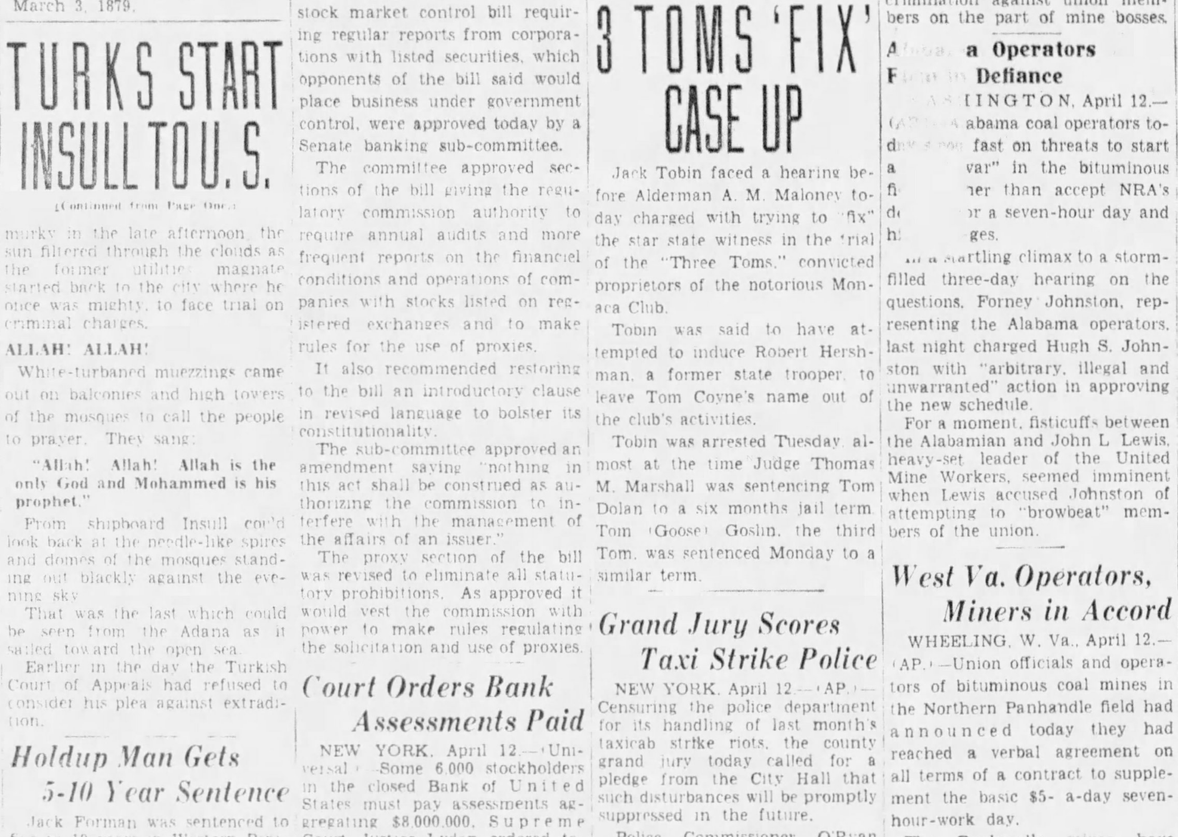
John Martin, alias Roy Filmore, trusty who escaped from Western Penitentiary January 6, pleaded guilty and today was sentenced to two years in the same prison. But Judge W. Heber Dithrich ruled that he could serve this sentence concurrently with a 20-40 year sentence imposed five years ago for robbery. Martin was captured in Kingwood, W. Va., 10 weeks after his escape.

Darkness Ends Hunt For Fliers in China

SHANGHAI, April 12.—(AP.)—Darkness forced nine planes piloted by American fliers to land tonight without seeing a trace of three fellow countrymen lost in a plane somewhere on Hangchow Bay.

Frank Hawks, American speed pilot, cruised in a land bomber for hours without results, while eight flying boats searched other areas.

Fliers in Pittsburgh to Arrange Ocean Race



PILOT ROBERT F. LAPE (LEFT) AND CAPT. HARRY W. LYON . . . THEIR PLAN: TO FLY FROM LONDON TO MELBOURNE

Southern Cross Flier Seeks $50,000 Prize

Capt. Harry W. Lyon, crack airman who navigated the Southern Cross on its non-stop dash from Oakland, Cal., to Australia in 1928, is in Pittsburgh today making arrangements for participation in a race over the air-mail route from London to Melbourne, Australia.

The race, sponsored by the London Daily Mail to determine the most advantageous air route from London to Melbourne, will begin October 20, Capt. Lyon said yesterday that each plane entered the race must be checked into and out of five ports during the flight—Bagdad, Calcutta, Singapore, Port Darwin and Charliville. Prizes, he said, total approximately $100,000, with a first prize of about $50,000.

Confident that he will get first money, Capt. Lyon said:

"If you drive an automobile, you know that the driver who hits 60 miles for a few miles and then drops down to 30 miles for the next few will not make the time the steady driver does.

"I expect to maintain a steady speed and come in first."

The purpose of his visit to Pittsburgh, he said, is to arrange financial backing and examine airplane parts and equipment offered by the Pittsburgh market.

Capt. Lyon was to speak today at a luncheon meeting of the Aero Club in the William Penn Hotel. He was also to speak on the Globe Trotter's progam, over WCAE at 12:15 p. m. today.

JUVENILE BOARD ALERT TO HOME'S FIRE HAZARDS

SAFETY DEVICES IN PLACE, SAYS CHAIRMAN

County Commissioners Blamed for New Building Delay

Declaring that the board of directors of the Juvenile Detention Home recognizes the dangers of the old building, Mrs. J. B. Roessing, chairman, said today that all efforts possible are being made to avert an outbreak of fire there.

She said:

"Immediately after this present board took office the first of the year we ordered a general clean-up as a safety measure. There are fire escapes on the building, but we also know that the floors are wood and the trimmings are wood.

"We plan to take every precaution to prevent an outbreak of fire until we can safely put the children in a new structure."

COMMISSIONERS BLAMED

Mrs. Roessing blamed the County Commissioners for the delay to replace the present structure at 3336 Fifth avenue with a modern, fireproof building.

She praised the work of A. L. Wills, who resigned yesterday rather than retain the responsibility of the lives of children housed in the institution.

Walter Rome, 30, new head, who will take up his duties on May 15, has had the organization work needed among the boys in the institution, Mrs. Roessing said.

ON STAFF AT PITT

Rome has been the assistant dean of men at Pitt.

Wills explained his resignation:

"For five years I have been responsible for the lives of children housed in a veritable fire trap.

"It will be at least two, and perhaps three years before the new buildings are completed and the children can be housed in them, and I felt I could not carry that responsibility any longer."

Wills praised the present board. He said he planned to take a graduate course at the University of Chicago.

MOTHER PLEADS FOR BOY IN BABY DEATH

Faces Murder Count, He Expects to Get 'Couple of Years'

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—George Rogalski, held for murder at the age of 13 years, thinks he ought to get "a couple of years" for kidnaping little Dorette Zeitlow. The child, 2½ years old, died yesterday from exposure after being imprisoned in an attic.

Master George

Resisting the idea of sending her son to an institution, the boy's mother, Mrs. Michael Rogalski, said:

"I don't think he needs to be sent away. I can take care of him."

His father, however, said he never wished to see his son again, adding:

"If he can't help doing these things he should be kept in an institution."

FACES SANITY TEST

A coroners jury has recommended the boy be held for murder.

Rogalski, facing a sanity test, told Dr. Harry Hoffman, chief of the behavior clinic of the Criminal Court:

"I guess I'm to blame that she died. I shouldn't have left her there. I think I ought to get a couple of years."

The doctor asked:

"Do you know what you're charged with?"

The boy replied:

"Sure! Kidnaping, or maybe murder. I ain't sure which."

Asked if he ever cried, the boy said:

"I used to when I was a baby, but I'm too smart to do that any more."

STUDY BOY'S NATURE

While psychiatrists sought to uncover the true nature of the character of the boy, prosecutors disclosed that an indictment for murder or manslaughter would be asked, and that a jury would be called to pass on his sanity.

If found insane he will be sent to the Chester State Hospital for the criminally insane, Richard Regan, assistant State's Attorney said.

Dr. Hoffman said he believed young Rogalski is sane from the legal point of view, in that he can distinguish between right and wrong.

"I don't know."

That was the boy's reply when Dr. Hoffman asked him why he lured the baby from her home on the promise that he would give her a nickel.

FILM LOVE SUIT SCHEDULED TO REACH JURY

Brown Admits Giving Miss Gay $1,000 on Eve of Journey

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Following testimony by a galaxy of Hollywood celebrities, a jury today was scheduled to receive the $100,000 heart balm suit of Marjorie Whiteis, known in films as Marjorie Gay, against Harry Joe Brown, film director and husband of Sally Eilers, blonde star.

Miss Whiteis claimed that Brown jilted her to marry Miss Eilers. Brown denied it and said that he was "just a friend."

The Hollywood celebrities, including pretty Arline Judge, film actress, testified in effect that it was Miss Eilers and not Miss Whiteis with whom Brown was seen during the summer of 1933.

WED IN SEPTEMBER

Miss Whiteis testified that Brown had been in her company most of the summer. He married Miss Eilers last September. Said Miss Judge:

"I've known Harry Joe Brown for three years. Last summer I saw him and Sally together six times at parties. I never saw him with Marjorie Gay."

Mrs. Hal Roach, wife of the film producer; Mrs. Milton Bren, wife of a film agent; Bebe Daniels' mother, Mrs. Phyllis Daniels; Russell Mack, noted director, and Richard (Skeets) Gallagher, actor, all testified that they frequently had seen Miss Eilers and Brown together, but never had seen Miss Whiteis with him.

QUIZZED ON RIDE

Brown, under direct cross-examination by his own attorney, was asked concerning a ride to Laguna Beach, during which Miss Whiteis claimed he pushed her from the automobile.

"Where did you get her that night?"

"At her home."

"Did you have a conversation that night with Miss Gay wherein she told you you should marry her right then because she was about to become a mother?"

"Never."

Brown admitted that the night he departed for Europe he gave Miss Whiteis $1,000 and kissed her goodbye.

"Mr. Brown had me call Miss Gay for him almost every day during the period before he went to Europe."

She testified further that Brown told her not to tell Miss Gay he was going to Europe.

BARGAIN SALES AT RUM STORES

Effective tomorrow, nine brands of blended whisky will be reduced 25 cents a pint, three blended quarts will be cut 50 cents a bottle and two brands of gins in pints will be cut 15 and 12 cents.

P. W. Gundelfinger, superintendent of stores, explained that these reductions will be in force only until an oversupply of these brands is eliminated.

FLAMES 'BUZZ' BELL; 2 SAVED

Early today in the Beech home at 212 Eighth street, Oakmont, the doorbell set up a persistent ringing.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Beech, roused from their sleep, investigated.

They found their two and one-half-story house being swept by flames. The flames had created a contact which caused the doorbell to ring—a ring which probably saved them serious injury.

Volunteer firemen were called. Damage was estimated at $4,000 by Capt. Edward Helwig.

Burial Beside Sister Asked in Death Note

'I Can't Be Without Her,' Final Plea Declares

In accordance with a request in a suicide note found this morning near her crucifix, Mary Kelly, 23, will be buried next to the sister without whom she could not live.

The note was found by police in their search of the digny little room at 1528 Penn avenue, occupied until last Easter Sunday by Mary and her sister, Annie, 26, who died Easter night.

The note was addressed to James Campbell, undertaker. It read:

"Please bury me from your place, as you did our Annie, in Calvary Cemetery, and from Epiphany Church.

"If Father O'Connell won't take me, tell him to pray for me. I can't rest without her."

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, Campbell said. The question of whether she will be buried from Epiphany Church will be laid before Bishop Hugh Boyle, who will decide if Mary was mentally unbalanced when she took her life by eating rat poison, in grief over her sister's death.

A brother, James, who read of the tragic death of his sister in the newspapers, appeared today at Campbell's undertaking parlors and then vanished again, Campbell said.

The undertaker, who buried Mary's mother in 1918 and her sister last Easter, said he did not know until today that the two girls had a brother

But the brother said he will attend Mary's funeral, the undertaker declared.

DAYLIGHT PLEAS SWAMP MAYOR

While Mayor McNair announced today he is nearly ready to proclaim a victory for daylight saving time, he revealed he had failed in an attempt to obtain help from the Federal Relief Works Division in tabulating his postcard poll returns.

The Mayor's staff, swamped by ballots in the postcard plebescite, has been unable to keep pace with the returns, the Mayor said. He appealed for workers from the RWD, but was told none was available.

Unless there is a decided reversal in later returns, which stood at 13,198 to 6,579 in favor of daylight saving, the Mayor said he would issue the necessary proclamation within a few days.

Council President Robert Garland, for 17 years the advocate of daylight saving, beamed when told the figures. He has predicted from the start that Mayor McNair will sign a proclamation to turn clocks forward April 29.

THEATER MAN'S MANSION BURNS

LARCHMONT, N. Y., April 12.—(AP.)—The ornate home of A. C. Blumenthal, wealthy New York theatrcal producer and real estate operator, was destroyed by fire early today at a loss estimated to be somewhere between $300,000 and $500,000.

The 22-room mansion, noted for its luxurious appointments including a gold-leafed bathroom installed at a cost of nearly $20,000, was one of the show places of Westchester County.

Blumenthal and his estranged wife, Peggy Fears, of Broadway musical comedy fame, have not been living there for nearly six months and neither was present when the fire broke out.

The flames, which drove firemen back repeatedly, completely destroyed the interior and left only the walls standing. Many valuable antiques, oil paintings, a pipe organ and expensive furnishings were lost.

OFFICIALS RUN IN TAX FIGHT

POTTSVILLE, April 12.—(AP.)—Protesting taxpayers from West Mahanoy Township broke windows in the Schuylkill County Court House annex today and drove County Commissioners from their office.

State police were called from Tamaqua and Hazleton to assist Pottsville police in halting a demonstration that included hurling clubs and stones.

The County Commissioners, meeting to fix the triennial assessment, were driven from their committee room to a courtroom by the fighting crowd. Police estimated the number at more than 500.

Liquor Display Uses Dry Era Precautions

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 11.—(AP.)—Manager George Bockel of Clinton Street state liquor store is employing an old bootleggers' trick—use of caramel as coloring—to advertise real liquor.

The windows of the storeroom were stocked today with rows of bottles, each filled and labeled. A huge sign, posted to discourage any one considering breaking the plate glass and helping himself reads:

"Warning! These bottles are filled with a solution containing poisonous formaldehyde."

$300 Fine, Tax of $60 Paid in Rum Case

The maximum fine of $300 was levied today against Louis Certo of 4560 Carroll street, after he pleaded guilty in Criminal Court to the possession of untaxed liquor. Judge W. Heber Dithrich, who sentenced him, also ordered him to pay $60 floor tax on the 30 gallons of liquor found in his possession.

Certo claimed that the liquor belonged to a friend, who had intrusted it to him at the time of repeal.

Cherry Blossoms Out Despite Snow

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—A scattering of snowflakes in early morning hindered the blooming cherry blossoms not at all today, and soon the tidal basin was being circled by that annual, seemingly unending train of automobiles.

Hint 'Poison Plot' In Woman's Death

CLEVELAND, O., April 12.—(AP.)—A chemist's report was awaited today as police and Coroner A. J. Pearse continued an investigation to determine whether Mrs. Mildred Ellis, 40, was the victim of a poison murder plot.

The woman, an employe of the United States Veterans' Bureau here for many years, was assailed by an unknown enemy in a number of "poison pen" letters mailed to her employers and friends last September, presumably in an attempt to have her ousted.

Lots of Pictures Of President But Where's the Fish

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

In all the news pictures of the President's fishing we never saw a picture of a fish.

We know there was a trial by jury. But the fish must have jumped his bail.

Senator Couzens didn't do much better with his tax fishing expedition. He wanted to use the rich for bait. The only real fishing story of the week was Professor Wirt's. He said, "It dragged me in but I got away."

The best yarn is from Canada, where the jackfish are so vicious the boys fish on hossback. We got this from a reliable witness to something that never happened.

SPRING SNOW CHILLS CITY

That is, he turned on the snow and pushed down the thermometer. Consequently Pittsburgh experienced another spring snow.

The thermometer dropped more than 20 points in 24 hours and today was in the low thirties.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that caused the showery condition over this section yesterday, and the snow flurries last night and this morning is now centered over Eastern Pennsylvania and extends northward to the St. Lawrence Valley. High pressure, centered over the Dakotas is dominanting the weather over the West, and, as a result, the skies are clear from Western Ohio to the Rocky Mountains, and temperatures at or slightly below freezing over the northern states. It is colder than yesterday over practically the entire country, and indications are that the cold weather will continue over this section until Saturday. Precipitation for the country as a whole was light, and was limited to the states east of the Mississippi River.

River Conditions.

The rivers are rising. Stage at Franklin is 7.7 feet; Parkers Landing, 7.0; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 14.8; Pittsburgh, 14.3; Dam No. 4, 10.4; No. 6, 12.0; No. 10, 12.1, and No. 12, 13.2. The dams are down. The rivers will continue to rise. Between 16 and 16.5 foot stage indicated at Pittsburgh by Friday morning.

22 More Saved, Six Still Remain on Arctic Ice

MOSCOW, April 12.—(AP.)—The Government Rescue Commission announced that 22 more Russians, stranded since February 13 on a drifting ice pack in the Bering Sea, were rescued by airplane today. Only six persons remain on the pack.

Flights to save the six remaining men were planned today or tonight if the weather remained favorable.

A graphic first hand account of the perilous situation facing the castaways when huge icebergs crushed into their pack was given by the Government Rescue Commission.

Reporting by radio from Cape Van Karem, M. Ushakov, who is directing relief operations and who flew to the camp April 7—the day on which the first five men were taken off, said:

"When I arrived at the camp, surrounded by floating ice blocks, the Cheliuskiners were living in heated and lighted log barracks. But despite their reasonably comfortabe quarters they existed as if on the slope of a volcano.

"The camp was faced with constant dangers as drifting icebergs continually bore down on it."

Blames Moral 'Code' For 'Sissy' Teachers

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—School teachers must be either sissies or hypocrites to adhere to the moral standards prescribed by many school boards, Dr. John Carr Duff, of New York University, declared today. He said:

"If American teachers are sissies, it is not from choice. They have become sissified in conformity to the public demand that they act in a way that is too good to be true.

"This is more true in the small towns than in the cities, and in the villages and rural districts they have to live up to a moral standard which would put a strain on a thirty-second degree saint."

Dr. Duff is not so irked because a teacher is required "to be a paragon of virtue while he is in the classroom." He continued:

"It is required of him all the time. In many districts a teacher is not employed until he has given his word of honor that he does not smoke or drink or use strong language or stay out late at night.

"The first time he slips up he is railroaded. Even in large cities there is a tacit understanding that teachers must at least pretend to be morally superior to other people."

SANTA HAS HOST OF NEW TOYS FOR 1934

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Santa Claus was summoned to New York today to confer with the toy dealers of the country about toys for the children next Christmas.

The Old Man from the North, who has to work the year around now to keep up with conditions, brought samples of $200,000,000 worth of toys. That is the amount of money his American agents expect they will handle in 1934.

To show the 1,200 dealers, gathered from every section of the country, that he is keeping on his toes, Santa Claus pulled the following brand new toys from his bag:

A knee action penguin, along with a complete assortment of farm and circus animals that set a new record in agility.

EATABLE CRAYONS

An automobile that runs a hundred feet a minute, breaking all playroom speed records.

An airplane that will fly for three minutes.

GEARED 'BIKE'

A new bicycle with two gears.

Sleds, equipped with wheels, for snowless sledding.

Stream-lined roller skates with two wheels.

Said William Lehman, President of the Toy Manufacturers of the United States:

"Because the NRA has concentrated juvenile interest on grown-up business, American toys this year will feature the largest number of toys that actually perform industrial and housekeeping tasks ever assembled.

"Every American industry has been reproduced this year in toys—from baking to copper plating and skyscraper building. We also have little electric vacuum cleaners for the children, chromium stoves that cook, and miniature electric washing machines."

FOE OF GUFFEY STANDS PAT

ERIE, Pa., April 12.—(AP.)—Senator Robert F. Wagner's letter denying that Joseph F. Guffey had attempted to influence the National Labor Board in behalf of Ernest T. Weir, steel magnate, hasn't convinced him that the charge is untrue, Norbert J. Fitzgerald, Democratic candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs, said yesterday. He added:

"I won't change my opinion on that subject until the syndicated column, which printed the assertion on February 21, is corrected."

Senator Wagner, chairman of the Labor Board, wrote Fitzgerald that Guffey had not interferred with the government's actions in the Weirton labor case.

HOLDUP FOILED, ROBBERS FLEE

Two Negroes, who attempted to flee in a car they had stolen after they attempted to hold up a Hill grocer, were being sought by police today.

They escaped, police were told, when Sam Kendall, proprietor of a grocery at 2424 Reed street, called for help. They scrambled into the motor, but fled on foot when they were unable to start the car, police reported.

The automobile was reported stolen from H. J. Welling, 1831 Morningside avenue, a few minutes before the holdup, police said.

NEW 'DEAD SEA' DISCOVERED

CAMBRIDGE, England, April 12.—(AP.)—Another "Dead Sea" has been discovered. Unlike the one in Palestine, it is not open to the sky and in its murky and mysterious depths no living thing moves.

It is far down in the ocean between Arabia and India. To depths of from 50 to 100 feet below the surface, the waters teem with marine life. Below those levels life does not exist.

The discovery is due to the research of the expedition financed by the late Sir John Murray. The commander has sent a fresh report to Prof. Stanley Gardiner, expedition secretary.

Crowds Brave Rain At McDowell Rites

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 12.—(AP.)—Despite a heavy downpour of rain, the little Baptist Church here was crowded today for a memorial service to William Wallace McDowell, the late United States Minister to the Irish Free State, who died of a heart attack Monday night.

The Diplomatic Corps was fully represented.

JUROR-WITNESS CAUSES MIXUP

Some confusion in Common Pleas Court had been avoided today with Ralph R. Siegel, of 1516 Fallowfield avenue, serving as a witness instead of a juror.

Siegel had been sworn in as a juror in a damage suit against the city brought by Attorney S. A. Weiss on behalf of a client. As the case went to trial before Visiting Judge J. A. McCann, Weiss recognized Siegel as one of his witnesses.

The attorney requested leave to withdraw Siegel as a juror and use him as his witness. The request was granted.

DUCHESS LAUDS MAE WEST

Universal Service.

PARIS, April 12.—Curvesome Mae West, with her deep-toned voice, her hip-swinging walk, is the Duchess de Clermonttonnere's selection as typifying the new American woman.

The Duchess, member of one of France's oldest and most aristocratic families, has just returned from a tour of the United States. Writing in a Parisian newspaper, the Duchess says of Miss West:

NUDE SUBJECTS MOST POPULAR IN ART SHOW

NEW YORK, April 12.—Feminine nudes continue to be the most popular subject for artists, the depression is next, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt runs third, it was revealed today at the largest temporary art exhibition in the world at Rockefeller Center.

Some 5,000 paintings hung five deep stretched out into practically a mile of pictures. The 1,530 artists ranged from Harry M. Watrous, president of the National Academy of Design, to elevator operators and caretakers in Rockefeller Center.

'ART WAR' OPENING

The show is the first gun in an "art war" starting this week. Worried about possible Rockefeller censorship, the Society of Independent Artists declined to hold its annual free-for-all at the Center and is opening at another gallery tomorrow. So the Salons of America, whose members seceded from the Independents in 1921, took its place and opened earlier. Holger Cahill, director said:

"Our show illustrates democracy in art. We have John Kane, the Pittsburgh house painter, and Princess Nina Chavchavadze. We have a dozen Academicians and lots of well-known Modernists, but about half the artists are unknown. Some of their work is very good, too. There was no censorship whatever by the Rockefellers."

ROOSEVELT PORTRAITS

There are nine portraits of President Roosevelt in the show, seven of Lincoln, five of Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia and two each of George Washington and Virgil Thompson, composer.

The large, pink nudes of other years have turned yellow this spring and are thinner. There are more pictures of flowers than of machinery and more of happy Negroes than of class-conscious proleterians. Ships and seascapes were also favorites.

In "Depression, 1932," Orencio Maras has depicted a "gangsters' and financiers' hotel, dancing 24 hours a day" amid pushcarts, skyscrapers, and other objects.

Benjamin Gordon painted President Roosevelt with Christ and Moses and labelled the whole "Sons of God."

COUNTY PICKS MACHINES

The mechanical bookkeeping system, which, when installed, will eliminate nearly 70 employes in the country transcribing room, will be set up for work within three months, it was indicated today.

County Commissioners awarded the contracts to the Burroughs and Addressograph companies for equipment. The total cost exceeds $80,000, but is expected to save the expenditure within a few years.

Commissioners C. C. McGovern and William D. Mansfield yesterday inspected the machines, in company with a committee representing county offices, and decided on the types of machines.

The committee has been studying the plan for two years.

TECH TEACHER'S FALL FATAL

Jacob D. Utech, 66, for 20 years a member of the faculty of Carnegie Tech, died late last night in Pittsburgh Hospital.

Two weeks ago, Mr. Utech fell from a tree in his yard at 336 Carnegie place, fracturing a shoulder. Pneumonia developed, causing his death.

A great favorite of engineering students, Mr. Utech was familiarly known on Tech's campus as "Pop." He was an ardent athletic fan, never missing any of Tech's intercollegiate sports contests at home.

Born in Meadville, Pa., Utech spent 12 years with the Westinghouse Company before joining Tech's faculty.

Huey Ruled Out As Senate's Nudist

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(INS.)—Senator Huey (Kingfish) Long, (Dem.), of Louisiana, said today he did not know there was a "real nudist" in the United States Senate.

When the kingfish was informed that the Rev. Ilsley Boone, head of the International Nudist Conference, had stated in New York that a senator had enlisted in the nudist cause, he said:

"I can't give you any names, but we have a number of mental nudists in the Senate who are eager to get at the bare facts."

The kingfish ruled himself out and amateur Senate sleuths held that another senator had eliminated himself from consideration because of his luxuriant, pink whiskers. He was Senator James Hamilton Lewis, (Dem.), of Illinois.

Excessive dignity and angular build have disqualified fully half of the upper house, according to the views of these Senate detectives.

W. Va. Public Utility Hearings Scheduled

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 12.—(AP.)—The Board of Public Works today fixed May 1, 2 and 3 for the annual hearing upon public utility assessments.

Representatives of steam railroads and express companies will be heard the first day; street railroads, car lines, toll bridges and water, electric and power plants the second day, and on the third day oil and gas lines, telephone, telegraph and bus lines.

'Trip Around World' For Passenger Club

Victor Paul Kolasinski, known as the "Humoristocrat," will give a travel talk before the Pittsburgh Passenger Club at the Keystone Athletic Club Monday evening. His "trip around the world" will be presented in full color sketches as part of a special program arranged in connection with the installation of officers.

Pitt Man to Speak At Tax Discussion

An open forum meeting to discuss tax reduction, sponsored by the Governmental Economy League of Pittsburgh, will be held in the Allegheny County Taxpayers' headquarters, 117 Highland avenue, East Liberty, at 8:30 p. m. today. Prof. Marion Mackay, of the University of Pittsburgh, will be one of the guest speakers. Attorney H. Lee Ratner will preside.

Fulton Homestead Destroyed by Fire

The house, a landmark, was unoccupied.

Fire Chief P. S. Cinenek, of Reserve Township, said an automobile had parked in the driveway of the house a short time before the blaze was discovered. The loss was estimated at $3,500.

Vet, Bride Killer, Given Life Term

EL RENO, Okla., April 12.—(INS.)—Virgil Brown, World War veteran, was convicted early today of the murder of his secret bride, Mrs. Marie Elmsley Brown, and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Brown, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Mayhew, of Windsor, Canada, was found clubbed to death on a roadside near El Reno, October 17.

Rosa Ponselle Concert Postponed

Because Rosa Ponselle, who was to have been guest soloist for the Pittsburgh Symphony Society concert on April 29, will be unable to appear, the concert has been postponed until May 16, it was announced today. Miss Ponselle will appear on the latter date. Tickets for the concert sold for the original date will be honored on May 16.

Through the Spyglass

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

The subject of our conversational efforts today is going to be Rain . . . its effect upon the new fabrics. The answer to which is . . . if said fabrics have been treated with the new process . . . NOTHING!

For we have just finished attending a lecture by the creator of this wonderful new process for making water-repellent fabrics and we have a whole head full of ideas on the subject. The first being that . . .

They are shower-proof . . . spot-proof . . . perspiration-proof . . . and dust-resistant! And isn't that something pretty nice—this safe, unconcerned feeling about one's clothes and hosiery! After 15 minutes plodding about in the rain what a relief to look at one's hose and find them spotless! After galloping madly about the dance floor on a warmish night . . . how calming to know that the back of one's Sunday-go-to-meeting frock is free from perspiration stains and crushes! We for one are handing not one, but a whole sheaf of "orchids" (a Winchellism!) to the papa of this process that lifts ordinary fabrics to heights we had never dreamed of!

We watched him pour water over a pair of fine marquisette curtains . . . and nary a drop soaked in! We peeked over his shoulder whilst he dipped a piece of fine metal brocade into a bowl of water and not a drop showed. AND . . . this process will last through several cleanings and about 12 washings (this last in the case of hosiery.)

The best of it all, being that you don't pay extra for fabrics treated in this manner . . . the manufacturer has to stand the brunt of it all.

* * *

And to stop being serious-minded for the moment . . . how about a dish of ice cream. You can make it now in your electric refrigerator with as little trouble as stirring something in a bowl and letting it freeze. Just use the new ice cream "goo" that you add to milk and whipped cream. And freeze. Two cans for 25 cents . . . one can makes enough for six people . . . and there are six flavors.

* * *

And so that there may be light . . . and more light . . . another suggestion! Squatty little lamps complete for $2 . . . with their bases of pottery fashioned to look like vegetables . . . eggplants . . . squashes, and so forth. Have your vegetable patch in your house instead of your garden!

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No Wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From Germany's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen, purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such rosy vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.

FISHER PRAISES M'LEOD BILL AS CREDIT AID

Former Gov. John S. Fisher, president of the Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the board of the National Union Fire Insurance Company, today indorsed the McLeod bill. In a letter to Representative Clyde Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, he wrote:

"This measure will at once make available to the people of the country at large hundreds of millions of dollars of bank deposits and start a flood of purchasing. The man who can devise a plan that will start all types of business going and relieve the country will be regarded as a real salesman. I urge that the bill be speedily reported and enacted."

WOULD FREE MILLIONS

Speaking of the bill in Pittsburgh, the former Governor said:

"I want to say here that the bill has my fullest support. It will restore credit to a normal level and free millions of dollars, at present needed by thousands of our citizens. From this will come buying power that will in turn stimulate activity in the steel mills and factories. In general, it will bring us back to our former business pace, with a clean slate to start over again."

Frank F. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, said that he had not read the bill, but declared:

"I think that anything that can reasonably be done to release frozen funds in closed banks certainly should be done; that we should be willing to stretch a point, if that is necessary, to free them."

SCULPTOR PRAISES PLAN

Frank Vittor, internationally known sculptor, declared:

"The freeing of bank deposits at this particular time would vastly help toward the return of a stabilized economic industrial recovery. Much working capital of business organizations is tied up in closed banks. This crippling condition is reflected directly in our business.

"It is needless to say that the small depositor would welcome the return of bank deposits and life savings. Here is the major problem of personal satisfaction. Here would be a salient movement in assisting the nation's relief program. Thousands of small depositors, now on relief, have worthless pass books.

"The McLeod bill should have the support of every Congressman and Senator. If passed, it would become one of the historic pieces of federal legislation."

CONSTRUCTIVE AID

Frank J. Zappala, attorney-at-law, said:

"I am wiring my congressman to support the McLeod bill for the freeing of bank deposits through federal legislation. I know of no single piece of legislation that will do more to assist the ultimate recovery of this nation and restore public confidence in our government. No mere politics should be induced to guide this splendid thought into legislative operation. The McLeod bill, if passed, will mean more constructive governmental assistance to the individual as a citizen, to business and the stimulating of industry and business, than any other of the many fundamental aids that have come from the Roosevelt administration.

"The Hearst newspapers and your publisher, William Randolph Hearst, must be roundly complimented for their nation-wide campaign to help America, its people and its commerce."

PAYOFF BACKED BY ELLENBOGEN

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Among the signers of a petition for a House vote on the McLeod bank payoff bill was Representative Henry Ellenbogen (Dem.), of Pittsburgh. Ellenbogen previously had opposed some features of the bill.

In a letter to his colleagues, Representative John D. Dingell (Dem.), of Michigan, pointed out that amendments could be made on the floor of the House which would permit the same privileges to be extended to depositors of closed state banks, and other changes which had been suggested during the committee hearings and which would be agreeable to Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Dem.), of Michigan, author of the measure.

Other members of the Pennsylvania delegation who have signed the petition are Representatives Clyde Kelly, Matthew A. Dunn, J. Howard Swick, Nathan L. Strong, C. Murray Turpin, G. W. Edmonds, Edward I. Stokes, P. J. Boland, James Wolfenden.

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urges passage of the McLeod Bill, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end I urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

BANK BILL WINS MULDOWNEY

Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, here on a brief trip, planned to be in Washington today to add his signature to the McLeod bill petition. The Congressman said he was making all haste to return to the capital in order to sign.

Other Western Pennsylvania Congressmen said they would be unable to be in Washington until Saturday. J. Twing Brooks, of Sewickley, said he was in favor of the measure, but that he could not return to the capital in order to sign the petition today.

Charles N. Crosby, of Meadville, said he heartily approved the bill, but speaking engagements prevented his immediate appearance in Washington. Congressman William M. Berlin was at home in Greensburg, but he could not be reached to determine his position on the measure.

Leo Brothers Seek Lingle Case Parole

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 12.—(INS.)—The State Board of Pardons and Paroles today had under advisement a plea for clemency by Leo Brothers, St. Louis hoodlum, serving a 14-year sentence for the murder of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter.

In his plea Brothers declares his innocence of the crime. Brothers has served 25 months.

RESTRICT BANK PAYOFF BILL

of Michigan, a member of the committee, assailed Chairman Steagall (Dem.), of Alabama, for his action. He said:

"I was not notified to be present. I had been told that the committee would not meet until 2:30 p. m.

NULLIFIES PETITION

The committee action was takwen as backers of the original McLeod bill were about to complete a petition of 145 names which would have assured consideration of the bill in the House on April 23.

The action had the effect of nullifying the McLeod petition and delaying action on the measure at least 30 days unless Democratic leaders approve the bill.

Only a few names were necessary on the petition to discharge the banking committee from consideration of the McLeod bill when the banking committee acted. The committee had put the bill in a pigeonhole for weeks despite the apparent growing sentiment for it.

Supporters of the McLeod bill now will demand that the Rules Committee grant them permission to bring the bill to the floor. Failing that, they can file a petition to discharge the Rules Committee after 30 days.

DEMAND 'GAG' REPEAL

Meanwhile the uproarious House heard demands for repeal of the "anti-gag" rule on the McLeod bill and criticism of publication of names of signers of the petition for the bill.

Speaker Rainey rejected demands that he seek to "punish" members for revealing names of signers of the petition.

Representative Warren (Dem.), of North Carolina, precipitated the row by demanding to know what employe or members of the House gave out names to the petition, which appeared in newspapers.

Representative McDuffie (Dem.), of Alabama, sprang forward with a demand that House Democratic leaders take action to repeal the "anti-gag" rule and require signatures of 218 members, or a majority.

Republicans chided the Democrats, who voted the "anti-gag" rule when they came into power in 1930. The rule was voted because of charges that House committees had smothered important legislation.

URGES PROBE

During the free-for-all debate, Tom Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, urged that a committee be named to investigate the publication of names.

'WIRT IN JAIL' CHARGE OUT IN RECORD

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—A direct charge that Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary (Ind.) educator, was confined in jail because of pro-German activities during the World War was removed from the speech of Representative Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, as it appeared in the Congressional Record today.

After a flat denial was made in the House following Bulwinkle's speech yesterday by Representative McGugin (Rep.), of Kansas, Bulwinkle obtained permission to revise his remarks.

As the speech appeared in the Congressional Record, Bulwinkle said that he would have brought from Dr. Wirt the fact "wether or not" he was confined in jail because of pro-German activities.

PROBERS IN RECESS

Representative Swick (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, in an extension of remarks, asserted that a complete investigation should be made. Swick said:

"Leaders of this House and of the administration have seen fit to discredit this accuser, even to the extent of claiming it is all a partisan political move and yet, to the consternation of the minority members of the committee, there appeared in the role of counsel for Dr. Wirt none other than Jim Reed, of Missouri, who is undoubtedly one of, if not the outstanding, Democrat in the United States."

SITUATION HELD SERIOUS

While not attempting to say whether the Wirt charges were true or false, Swick added that "the fact that Senator Reed has associated himself with the accuser is to any patriotic American proof that the situation is a serious one."

Meantime, the six persons named by Dr. Wirt as having attended the dinner party in Virginia, where the obtained part of the information on which he based his charges, were preparing to appear next Tuesday.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Retort To Dr. Wirt Defended

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt drew support today for the comeback she made at Dr. William A. Wirt for calling her pet subsistence homstead plans "a Communistic effort."

Referring to the Reedsville, W. Va., subsistence homestead project in which Mrs. Roosevelt has been interested, Randolph said she was helping mountaineers who "have been down for the count of nine." He promised her support by the hill people.

Ask Mr. Richberg

How comic an old political war-horse like Speaker Rainey appears, with his mock indignation against Dr. Wirt, when Secretary Wallace, of the President's cabinet is on record as holding that, "OUR PEOPLE ON THE STREET AND ON THE SOIL MUST CHANGE THEIR ATTITUDE CONCERNING THE NATURE OF MEN AND THE NATURE OF HUMAN SOCIETY," and discusses at great length, the "ENDURING SOCIAL TRANSFORMATION, SUCH AS OUR NEW DEAL," interspersing his thesis with arguments for the necessity of a "regimented" public opinion, which if it means anything, means the suppression of free speech and a free press.

Disquieting and significant as such statements may be, they are nothing compared with the outgivings of Dr. Rexford Tugwell, whose influence and intimacy as advisor of the President is perhaps as great as that of any one within the presidential circle.

TUGWELL is now busy explaining and disavowing, but the frequency and unmistakable tolerance with which he cites the principles and the practices of the Soviet Republic render his disclaimers unconvincing.

If Congress is really desirous of finding out how dangerously radical some of the college-boy advisers of the administration are, it could do so readily by asking Mr. Richberg, Gen. Johnson's chief adviser and aide, what he meant when he said, "THE REVOLUTION IS ALREADY HERE."

But as we said, the investigating committee is evidently anxious to smother the whole discussion and is determined to do so, as was shown in its cavalier treatment of that fine American and distinguished ex-Senator James A. Reed, who attempted unsuccessfully, as counsel, to secure for Dr. Wirt a genuine and proper hearing.

Whether the radicalism of the administration is really dangerous or not will be disclosed, however, sooner or later.

And there will be no doubt about it, if we have any more incidents like the air-mail fiasco.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS :-: By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 12. — Down deep underneath, the administration's master political minds are getting a little bit worried about the Wirt revolution yarn and all its phases. It no longer is a joke.

They are keeping up a smiling front, but among themselves they are beginning to recall what a fantastic bugaboo did to Al Smith in 1928.

The mail being received by congressmen indicates that the radical revolution story is rapidly getting in that class. Typical is the letter received by a Senator the other day from a Missourian. This citizen had all the lowdown on the revolution. He stated he knew that 168,000 rifles were hidden at a certain spot in Chicago; also that trenches were being dug around the city of Toledo and were being reinforced with concrete. He wanted to come on here to testify about it.

ADVICE

The Roosevelt political watchmen realize there is a vast number of voters who do not read the newspapers and keep abreast of the times and who will fall for ridiculous stories like that. In the backwoods and the canebrakes, you can never stamp out such fairy tales when they get started.

The moment President Roosevelt steps off the train here, he will be advised to do something strong about it.

It is a far more important inner problem than the current opposition put up against the administration by business in connection with the stock market and securities bills. Business is not so highly respected as a political force, but the backwoods—well, that story has got to be stopped.

You can readily see that such a situation may have an influence for moderation on current administration policy.

OTHER SIDE

Mr. Roosevelt is going to get some advice also from the other side of the fence.

In New York, last Sunday, there was a quiet little conference between a representative of the Senate stock market committee, one of the authors of the original regulation bill and a close adviser to the President. They agreed that the adviser should go to the President and ask him to make a public radio appeal for a stronger regulation bill than the Senate is writing.

EXPLANATION

The most amazing thing about Dr. Wirt's public appearance here was the fact that he was counselled by former Senator Jim Reed. All Washington started speculating as to how Jim Reed ever got mixed up in that thing.

The fact seems to be that Wirt's crowd asked Reed's assistance after reading dispatches from Washington indicating that the House committe was going to pillory the school superintendent from Gary. Resistance against that sort of thing appealed to Reed. He has never cared for the Roosevelt boys anyway.

Reed was a good man for the job. He was a master in the gentle art of legal pillorying when he was in Congress. No more hard-boiled, adroit and relentless cross examiner ever sat on a congressional committee. Joe Grundy will testify to that.

POLITICS

Backstage, the Wirt examination was a spectacular political sideshow.

Speaker Rainey chose three of the hardest shelled examiners in the House as Democratic members of the committee. The Republicans named their two members with similar appreciation of the political aspects of the situation.

The Democrats tried to make Wirt appear ridiculous. The Republicans tried to make him a Napoleon. Neither quite succeeded.

NOTES

The Senate Banking Committee spent most of its secret session Tuesday crying about the press reports interpreting its action on the stock market bill as "acceding to Wall street demands." The man who undermined the committee against the Liberals was not a Wall streeter, but Senator Carter Glass, who is supposed to harbor within his soul considerable disgust at just about everything the Liberals are trying to do. The two absentees from the Monday vote on the stock bill were Gore and Barkley, both of whom are supposed to favor the action taken. That would make the real margin in the committee 12 to eight instead of 10 to eight, as recorded. The main policy which Dr. Wirt opposed on the grounds of Communism was the subsistence homestead program in which Mrs. Roosevelt has been most actively interested. The name which the Liberals privately have for Mr. Roosevelt now is "Big Bertha. The only reason for that appellation apparently is the fact that the big gun of the World War was designated that way by the soldiers, and the idea is that Mr. Roosevelt's shooting is on a similar expansive plane.

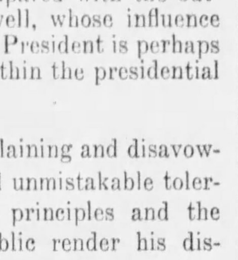
66 I KNOW YOU CAN'T HELP THE TIME, MY DEAR, BUT YOU CAN HELP THE PAIN 99



It's unnecessary to have "regular" pain, or even any discomfort at such a time. That's true, and it's just too bad for the girl who does not realize it. All you have to do is this:

Watch the calendar. Just before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should relieve it in seven to ten minutes. That is how rapidly this remedy works!

Midol relieves even those who have always had a difficult time. Relief is such that two tablets should see you through the worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for calendar pain. Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

TRANSFER OF 20 RIOTERS ASKED

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—(AP.)—Transfer of 20 convicts who began a hunger strike a week ago is sought by William B. Mills, warden of the Philadelphia County Prison.

The strikers must be removed if they are not to influence 1,400 other persons, the warden warned in an appeal to the State Welfare Department yesterday. The 20, alleged ringleaders in riots at the Eastern State Penitentiary last year, were brought to the county institution last December.

Starting their strike after attempting to riot, the prisoners blamed their outbreak on poor food and short exercise periods. Mills said none of the other prisoners complained.

AT ALL MAY DRUG STORES

If you want the NEWEST and BEST in Automatic Refrigeration you MUST choose the GAS REFRIGERATOR

because of these THREE FACTS:

1 Permanently Silent

Because there is nothing in it that can possibly make noise, ever.

2 Only 2c a day to Operate

3 No Moving Parts

No humming noise that gets louder month by month—no vibration, no parts to wear out and require costly repair, adjustment or replacement.

And, Of Course, All These Modern Features, Too!

Rubber tray insets, easily adjustable split shelves, temperature control, trigger release trays, interior lighting, vegetable freshener, large ice-cube capacity, modern chromium hardware, exceptionally beautiful design and finish. Full range of sizes. Convenient terms of purchase.

When you see the new GAS Refrigerator, you'll scrap all your previous ideas of what a refrigerator should be. For here is a refrigerator that not only gives you everything that the best refrigerators of other types will give you, but in addition gives you three important features that you simply cannot hope to get in any other refrigerator on the market.

These three features are: First, an operating cost that is far and away the lowest in the entire refrigeration field. Second, permanent silence of operation because there is nothing inside the refrigerator that can make noise, ever. Third, no moving parts to vibrate, to become noisy, to wear out and to require costly repairs, adjustments or replacements. A tiny gas flame does all the work—automatically, of course.

Before you buy any refrigerator, see the new GAS Refrigerator at your dealer's, or at your Gas Company's salesroom. Compare it point by point with other refrigerators. Then you'll see why, if you want the newest and best in automatic refrigeration, you MUST choose the GAS Refrigerator.

MAGIC: Freezing ice with a gas flame may seem like magic—but actually the refrigeration system in the GAS Refrigerator is extremely simple. And this simplicity accounts for its low cost, its silent and trouble-free operation, and its long life.

FEROCIOUS LION COWERS UNDER BEATTY STARE

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 12.—"Cute little fellow, isn't he?"

Clyde Beatty, the wiry, curly-haired young man who twice daily faces death in the form of 30 snarling lions and tigers in the circus arena at Madison Square Garden, smiled as he patted a tawny jungle beast on the nose, and withdrew his hand just in time to avoid the gleaming rows of wicked teeth.

EYES TRAINER

Beatty spoke soothingly to the beast, and watched him anxiously as he was released to pace the exercise tunnel.

Sammy paced restlessly up and down the tunnel, with the eye of his trainer upon him. Two minutes of tense observation, and Beatty announced:

A half hour later the ringmaster's voice filled the echoing stretches of the garden, as a thousand excited youngsters sat forward in their seats, and adults straightened up tensely:

"Presenting that fearless young trainer of wild animals, Clyde Beatty, who will demonstrate man's power over the most fee-rocious beasts of the jungle in the most stupendous and death-defying feat ever attempted on any stage."

CRACKS HIS WHIP

The slim young man in white helmet bowed briefly, and the crack of his whip rang out as he entered the cage.

Only the attendants and the ringmaster knew that this was the first time the ill-tempered Sammy had been permitted in the act since his murderous attack of a few weeks ago.

Then Beatty's whip cracked. Sammy crouched as if to spring. The whip again, and then the bark of the pistol, loaded with blank cartridges.

SIGH OF RELIEF

Beatty turned to the other animals filing into the cage.

The act was on, and Sammy had learned who was master.

Ten long minutes later, after the crowd had alternately sat breathless and applauded wildly, Clyde Beatty was back in his dressing room, stripped to the waist, mopping the perspiration that coursed in rivers down his face and shoulders.

He smiled gaily, said:

"Bit of nervous strain, sometimes."

And then:

DANDRUFF
Ends Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get some plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring, using enough to moisten the scalp and rubbing it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents (35c). This simple remedy never fails.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

No more pain! No more itching or scratching! No more torture when you sit or walk! No more torment at the stool! The relief of Piles has now been solved. No matter what the form of Piles you suffer from—painful, itching, bleeding, blind or protruding—genuine relief for you lies in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo not only stops the pain and itching and makes defecation easy, but it tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. This is because Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus, it not only allays the inflammation and repairs torn tissue, but actually reduces the swollen blood vessels, which are Piles. The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective. Perforated Pile Pipe attached to tube reaches high up in the rectum and thoroughly medicates all affected parts. Get Pazo today at any drug store and see the relief it means. You will be more than amazed, more than grateful.

The Sun-Telegraph contest, offering $1,000 and lesser sums to those who supply the best inscription to be carved with the great stone faces of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln on Mt. Rushmore, has caught the fancy of the Columbia radio network.

Tonight at 8:30, on CBS-WJAS, the Voice of America program presents the first of a series of American history dramas, designed to help Mt. Rushmore prize contestants in writing their inscription suggestions.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The carrier pigeons are on the loose again. One swooped from the skies at Walker Mills the other day and now is resting up at the home of William J. McGrogan. Around its leg is a band bearing the legend A. U. 30 S. H.

I have often heard that when these carriers do come down because of injuries or exhaustion they should be cared for a couple of days until they have recuperated and then loosed. They will fly to their proper destination.

* * *

Here is one bird though that won't fly home. It is a parrot that picked the most inappropriate time imaginable to leave home in Ross Township. It belongs to Mrs. Frank Schweiger. It has been a pet for more than 12 years and never has been sick a day in its life.

Mrs. Schweiger would like to have any information concerning its whereabouts.

E. C. Nolt, Warren, O., has an old family Bible printed in Germany in the year 1828.

I have had other items about ancient Bibles but so far have not heard of anyone interested in their purchase or examination.

* * *

Thanks, Richard Frick, of Verona, for your artistic card depicting the Globe Trotter. Do I look like that? I won't forget your birthday.

* * *

Mrs. Fillmore—Cherry Blossom week in Washington is from April 14 to April 21.

Hospital Authority On Air Tonight

Michael M. Davis, director of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, Chicago, and an authority on hospital financing, is heard over WCAE and WJAS at 6:30 this evening on the Aircaster program as an exponent of sweeping reforms in hospital charges.

The Globe Trotter broadcasts over WCAE at 12:15 and 2:15 this afternoon.

Legion Head Discusses Defense

By AIRCASTER

American Legion members and everyone else interested in national security and peace will be dialing New York and Richmond radio stations on the NBC Red network at 7 o'clock, to hear the address on "National Defense of the League Court," broadcast by Edward A. Hayes, the Legion's National Commander.

The subject is one of vital interest to every American citizen, and Legion Posts from coast to coast are holding special meetings to hear what is probably the most important address the National Commander will make during his term of office.

It may be heard on WEAF, 660 kilocycles and WRVA, 1110 kilocycles.

* * *

There seems to be some clash of opinion between two members of the local Critics' Clan as to who writes Joe Penner's puns—a preacher or a professional gagster.

Me, I bet it's a Mayor!

* * *

Sound waves travel about 1,000 feet per second. Radio waves travel about 100,000,000 feet in that time. (Seven times around the world.)

Gossip still runs circles around both.

* * *

LITTLE SOPRANO

Charlotte Shallenberger (Mrs. Frank Mulloy), is at home these days tending her knitting—and practising cradle songs.

P. S.—She was, when I wrote the paragraph. But Frank is passing out cigars today. It's an eight-pound Charlotte Junior.

* * *

Frequencies most often used on the Antarctic transmitter are 6,650, 8,840, 11,830, 13,200, 15,270, 17,600 and 21,600 kilocycles, according to atmospheric conditions at the time.

* * *

* * *

Dick Koch started at WCAE two years ago as an occasional and excellent baritone singer. In an emergency, he substituted for one of the announcers, and hasn't sung over the air since.

* * *

The Harry Bixbees, father and son, engineers at WCAE, wouldn't mind it a bit if Fred Weston, new station manager, would move the transmitter over to Marblehead, on the Massachusetts coast (their native home), for the summer.

* * *

IT PAYS THE BILL

I wonder why so many people prate so much about hating to listen to the advertising on the air. I think, like everything else, it's a question of follow the leader. They go on in this way because it's the fashion, because they think it's the thing to say.

* * *

Margaret West, NBC's Texas cowgirl, not only was raised on a Texas ranch but she actually is part owner of the real Rafter S Ranch at Batesville, Tex.

Miss West says that she is her father's business partner. She uses the name Rafter S in her NBC programs also.

* * *

Enlarged East End Furniture Store

REMODELED E. E. STORE OPENS

Remodeling and enlarging of the Spear & Co., East Liberty store, has been completed, giving the store nearly twice its previous floor space, Nathaniel Spear, president, announced today.

Mr. Nussbaum

The store is located at Broad street and Collins avenue. The enlarged unit, established 12 years ago, now has 170 feet of show windows. The exterior has been remodeled in keeping with modern design, with Allegheny metal and black Carara glass facing for the first floor.

With electric daylight lighting throughout the entire building, the store is well suited for display of modern home furnishings, Mr. Spear said. The unit is a branch of the Spear downtown store, located at 911-921 Penn avenue.

Mr. Spear also announced that Walter Nussbaum would be continued as the manager of the East Liberty store and that the company's newest store in Jamaica, Long Island, will be opened in June.

The business was established in 1893 in Pittsburgh by Mr. Spear, who from that time has been its president. Today he said:

"That East Liberty has shown its need and capacity for such a large store is proof of this district's fundamental prosperity and greater buying power.

"Trade is attracted from over a hundred nearby towns and suburbs.

"The store is comparable in size, stocks and service to the leading stores in this country, with 37,000 square feet of floor space, immense selections are shown in furniture, rugs, bedding, ranges, and other home furnishings."

Woman Leaves $500 For Funeral Costs

In her will filed for probate today Dora Reinking stipulated that $500 of her $6,000 estate be paid to "the person in whose home I may die and from whose house I may be buried, to cover expenses incident to my death and funeral."

The executor of the estate, C. C. Erhard, said today the money was to be paid to Arthur Weber, 1136 Madeline avenue, Carrick, in whose home Miss Reinking had lived for almost three years before her death. The balance of the estate goes to a niece, Mary Klingsiech, of Indianapolis, Ind.

KELLY OF STRIP, 16 PAY FINES

Seventeen men, including Carl DeBasi, or Kelly, youngest of the Strip's Kelly clan, paid fines in Magistrate J. W. McGowan's court this morning for participating in a numbers lottery raided yesterday at 1319 Penn avenue.

Joseph Ograbek, 26, of 2320 Spring way, paid a $100 fine as keeper of the lottery, although the police were inclined to believe that DeBasi was the actual boss. He is facing trial in Criminal Court next week for operating another lottery raided three months ago.

DeBasi and 15 others each was fined $10. Joseph Doyle, 23, of 1305 Penn avenue, was discharged.

PLUTO WATER PROMPTLY OPENS THE PYLORUS VALVE
THAT'S WHY YOU GET QUICK ACTION

Doctors Warn Against Irritating Drugs

One way to start action is by irritating the delicate membranes of the digestive tract with harsh medicine-laxatives (often disguised as candy).

That works for a time. Then the muscles become sluggish—you have to increase the dose. Soon the laxative-constipation habit has you in its grip!

Nature's Way—a Flush (The Water Way)

Nature's way is far more simple. It is merely to flush out the wastes and poisons—without impairing the intestinal muscles in the least.

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour—cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle—but speedy. That's because the proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water—promptly opens the pylorus valve...permits the flush to enter the intestines and complete its work without anxious hours of waiting.

Shake off Asthenia!

If you feel achy, listless, only half-alive, that's nature's warning of Asthenia—a condition usually caused by the poisons of constipation. Pluto's famous ten-day treatment ends it promptly—makes you feel like a different person.

Get a bottle today from your nearest druggist. In two sizes: Splits 25c—large bottles (3 times as much), 50c.

MAN WHO SHOT T. R. STUDENT OF POLITICS

WAUPAN, Wis., April 12.—(AP)—John Schrank, 52, the man who shot and wounded Theodore Roosevelt at Milwaukee where the former President appeared in the campaign of 1912, today discussed politics, morality and the state of the nation with committees investigating conditions at the Hospital for Criminal Lunatics here.

Schrank, now a mild, gray man, has been an inmate for 20 years. He was called before the committees to give legislators and representatives of the Governor an insight into the character of persons confined at the institution.

Schrank still believes he was justified in shooting Roosevelt. He said:

"I was justified in what I did, and it should have been done. Roosevelt should not have sought a third term as President. It was up to some patriot to preserve the two-term tradition, and I felt myself appointed to the mission.

"But understand, I have no personal ill will toward anyone, living or dead."

Schrank was eager to give impressions of present political affairs. He declared:

"The Roosevelt now in the Presidency is a great patriot, and under him there need be no fear of a dictatorship."

Theodore Roosevelt was shot in front of the Milwaukee hotel. A bullet lodged in his breast, but despite the wound he delivered a political address before he submitted to medical attention.

PEACE VALUED ABOVE PROFITS

International News Service.

LONDON, April 12.—Peace is much to be preferred to profits Lady Doria Lois Childe, daughter of the Duke of Newcastle, declared today in announcing her abandonment of a business venture she recently undertook. She said:

"Business once was an attractive glamor, and it was an interesting exerience.

"But I have had no peace. I felt like I was being on show all the time. I want to live in peace."

Lady Doria created a sensation some years ago by leaving her father's ducal castle and journeying to New York, where she obtained a job as salesgirl in a department store and lived in a tiny Greenwich Village apartment until discovered by reporters.

'I'VE PAID,' SAYS RIDINGMASTER

International News Service.

TAPPAN, N. Y., April 12.—

"God knows I've suffered. I've paid."

So said Sidney Homewood, in Wallkill prison today.

But Robert Gibson, white-haired father of Charlotte Ariel Gibson, is making a fight to deny parole to the English riding master who chose prison rather than marry his daughter and legitimize her child. The child was born two weeks after Homewood entered prison, December 13, 1932, and died a few days later.

Gibson has protested the action of Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor, Jr., who sentenced Homewood, in remitting half of the riding master's $500 fine. Says Gibson:

"It cost Rockland County a lot more than $500 to convict him."

On May 18 Homewood will have completed the minimum term and be eligible for parole.

UTILITY BATTLE SPREADS IN NEW YORK

ALBANY, N. Y., April 12.—(AP.)—Swift developments brought the proposed general New York utilities investigation and Gov. Lehman's program for tightening the state's control over utility companies nearer realization today.

Developments within the last few hours are:

1—The Senate voted 44-0 for a utilities inquiry broader than even Gov. Lehman had asked. The resolution was sent to the Assembly.

2—The Assembly passed one of the Lehman program bills for for state jurisdiction over gas and electric transmission lines, and advanced eight others toward a vote Monday night. Among these is the municipal ownership bill.

3—The Senate advanced the Watertown municipal ownership bill toward a vote Monday night. This gives the city of Watertown a right by a four-fifths vote of the Council and approval of a majority of taxpayers to take over the Northern New York Utility plant and sell electricity to its citizens. The bill recently passed the Assembly.

CHARGES POLITICS

Meanwhile, Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens, Putnam County Republican, declared that a letter read to the Federal Trade Commission yesterday as having been written by him to an official of the Associated Gas and Electric Company in his district in 1927 was perfectly proper. He charged that the "broadcasting" of this letter was "contemptible" politics and an attempt to influence Assembly votes on the utility program.

The Senate Judiciary Committee announced it had retained Paul McCauley, former chief assistant state's attorney general, to represent it as counsel in the Thayer investigation. This investigation, requested by State Senator Warren T. Thayer himself, will pry into the authenticity of letters represented to the Trade Commission as having been written by Senator Thayer to the Associated System in 1927 and 1928 when he was chairman of the Senate Public Service Committee.

Trade Nationalism Scored by Child

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 12.—(AP.)—Richard Washburn Child, here on a European tour of economic investigation for the United States, criticized what he called "exaggerated economic nationalism, now so rampant throughout the world." He said:

"Like the measles, it is with us and it will have to be got over."

He added that in the United States people would like to have trade barriers broken down.

'Independent' Prober Linked To Power Trust

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Judson C. Dickerman, Federal Trade Commission engineer, testified today that Edward J. Cheney, "commonly understood" to be an independent engineer, has been since 1921 "part and parcel" of the Associated Gas and Electric System.

He made this statement in the commission's utilities inquiry.

In a summary of his examination on the South Carolina electric and gas properties of the Associated Gas and Electric System, read into the record of the Trade Commission, Dickerman said:

"While it has been commonly understood that Edward J. Cheney, upon whose appraisal the book accounts were adjusted, operated as an independent consulting engineer, photostats of agreements between Edward J. Cheney and H. C. Hopson (Associated vice president), resolutions passed by organizations bearing the name of H. C. Hopson, and correspondence signed by H. C. Hopson and his known employes . . . indicate that beginning on January 17, 1921, and continuing at least to July 9, 1932, the business and financial affairs of Edward P. Cheney were absolutely under the control of H. C. Hopson and his nominees . . .

"In other words, Edward P. Cheney, engineer, has been since 1921 part and parcel of H. C. Hopson's organization devoted to the control of the Associated Gas and Electric System and allied properties and organizations."

After Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, had introduced Dickerman's summary, Patrick J. Hurley, Associated counsel, who was Secretary of War in the Hoover cabinet, read into the record a statement protesting against "the examiner's attempt to discredit Mr. Cheney's valuation (referring to appraisals of Associated companies) by reference to a financial arrangement between Mr. Cheney and Mr. Hopson.

Hurley said:

"That arrangement was entered into long before Mr. Hopson had any interest in the Associated Gas and Electric Company or any other utility. It was made originally for the purpose of financing an independent engineering business which Mr. Cheney was about to undertake and providing him with funds for that purpose."

Cheney maintains offices as an independent consulting engineer at 61 Broadway, New York, which also is the address of Associated Gas.

Dickerman's summary referred particularly to the Broad River Power Company, an operating utility furnishing manufactured gas and electric services in Columbia, S. C., and also in various smaller communities up and down the Broad River and nearby. The company is a direct subsidiary of one of the holding companies of the Associated system.

PECORA TO HEAD UTILITY QUIZ

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Ferdinand Pecora, dynamic legislative investigator, stated today he will be "perfectly willing" to accept the post of counsel to a legislative committee inquiring into all phases of utility operations if the job is offered him.

A resolution creating an investigation broad enough to meet Pecora's requirements has passed the State Senate and is expected to be adopted by the Assembly Monday.

Pecora is now counsel to the United States Senate Committee on Banking and Finance.

Jailed Musicians Win Freedom For Concert

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Renditions of "Meditation" from "Thais" and "Home on the Range" resulted in suspended sentences for five musicians, arrested for soliciting coins on the subway.

Told what the men had been taken into custody for, Magistrate McKiniry in Morrisania Court asked them to put on a program.

David Litwak, 52, then played "Meditation" on the violin. Gene Carpentier, 35, sang "Home on the Range," accompanied by Russo Bellanca, 25, on the guitar, and Joseph Palicastri, 28, on the accordion.

GIRL'S SAILING STORY TOLD

From Australia around Cape Horn to England on a sailing vessel was the gruelling experience of Betty Jacobson, 19-year-old American girl, said to be the first girl to make such a voyage as an apprentice.

Betty got water blisters sewing sails, ate salt horse meat, encountered a heavy storm, was becalmed at the Equator, but arrived ahead of time despite the sailors' estimate of her as a Jonah.

Newlyweds Happy Despite Tribulations Ahead

Mr. Everyday Man had been married. He was a newlywed. His car was waiting for him outside the hotel, and the paint was not as fresh on it as it might have been.

The young bride was there. She was little and slim and had an eager face, and on her neat blue suit was pinned a bouquet of sweet peas.

They had been married, there in the reception room of an East End hotel, and there were a very few of their best friends, all young, watching them as they got into the car belonging to Mr. Everyday Man.

And how they threw the RICE!

And how the color rose and surged on the cheeks of both Mr. and Mrs. Everyday Man.

There was nothing showy about that wedding. No great headlines in the news. No doubt after they returned, the two of them, from their wedding trip, which they evidently intended taking in the anything but new car, there would be difficulties ahead . . . sweet peas wouldn't be pinned to the young wife's coat everyday.

But they were willing to try it. And happy about it.

The world was young, and they were young. And they were sports enough to join in with the ballyhoo.

Mr. Everyday Man, chances are, has no topnotcher job. He goes to his work early and stays late. And doesn't get a raise very often. Maybe even has suffered several cuts. He'll be cross sometimes, even peevish. And when the babies begin arriving, he'll often wonder why he ever was married. Doctor bills and grocery bills and certified milk every day, that he hadn't reckoned to buy. He'll wonder if it's worth all the trouble, and will wish he was free once in awhile. And he'll see that trim little figure in the blue suit not always looking so pretty as she did the other day coming out of that hotel.

Mrs. Everyday Man will have her disappointments, too. She'll suffer and be tired and see the nice, pleasant things she saves up swept right out from under her eyes. And for horrid, old necessities.

BUDGETS FAIL

Budgets will not turn out right. And happiness will all but go out of the door.

Yet that noon hour in Pittsburgh, when there was a slight threat of another cold spell, and when Fifth avenue looked so broad, and when the facade of the hotel seemed to smile down upon her, and when those few friends gathered will be a GREEN SPOT to her. Like comforting pastures it will be.

Mr. and Mrs. Everyday Man. There are plenty of them. Maybe you are that very couple. Out in Dormont. In Wilkinsburg. Somewhere off the Babcock boulevard. Or just somewhere in the East End. You occupy a small apartment, or a little house with high steps leading to the doorway.

Inside that door are difficulties to face. Salaries have a way of shrinking when stretched in too many ways. Tempers boil over. Unkind words are said. Children cry at night, or get the measles. Vigils have to be kept when everything seems dark, and when even the death angel draws dangerously near. There are times when tallow candles flicker, and when maybe those same friends who so joyously joined in your wedding feast, will tiptoe sadly about.

WORTH WHILE EXPERIENCE

But each couple finds it worth while, having been sporty enough to make a home of their own, and being enough in love to try out married life.

It is a grand and glorious feeling, love in the spring of the year. Snow gone. Ice split up in the Allegheny River. Those dismal, chilly mornings when one has to rise before daybreak, a thing of the past.

And buds soon on the trees. Birds soon on the ground. A hurdy-gurdy playing somewhere. The grocer putting his vegetables outside again. Windows open, and the noise coming in along with the sunshine and the more balmy air.

There is no time like the spring. A young man's FANCY. Yes, he takes it walking out with him . . . at his side. He must have that FANCY for his very own. He can't live another day without the promise of a lasting kind.

For BETTER or for WORSE. And it may be the latter. But who cares, when April is here, and winter has gone, and there is no more need of the snow shovel.

So it is WHOOP-LA for the Mr. and Mrs. Everyday Man. They're willing to do their share. They're good citizens of Pa Pitt, I say.

Better than you or I, sister.

For what have either of us done for SPRING.

What have we done for LOVE.

Beauty and Romance Women's Field of Success Says Fay King

BEAUTY AND ROMANCE INTEREST ALL WOMEN MOST!
ALL THE GREAT AND GOOD MEN WHO HAVE DONE MUCH FOR THE WORLD WERE ONCE THE LITTLE BOYS OF GOOD MOTHERS
THE WORLD COULD GO FORWARD JUST AS WELL WITHOUT ANY WOMEN IN WORLDLY CAREERS
FAY KING

By FAY KING

The only successful women who really interest all women are those who have achieved fame and fortune through beauty and romance.

All women will look with interest at a famous beauty, a woman of fashion, or a noted actress.

Few women would walk a block out of their way to see a woman said to be as clever as a man in politics, science, business or art.

Why should they? For countless centuries women have known through their sons the highest success in all careers. The greatest men in every line of endeavor have been but little boys mothers held to their hearts.

No women will ever excel men in these careers. At best they can be but imitators, and remarkable because they are women.

Given in Marriage :-: A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Puzzled by Philip's Interest in Romance

What did Philip Veritzen mean by this apparent sudden resolution to rouse the interest of Avis Arlen's mother in Hugh Grantland, with a view to a possible matrimonial alliance between the daughter of his dead friend and business partner and the wealthy and distinguished army officer?

This was the question which caromed around in my brain, even as I fought with rasped nerves to restrain my anger against the great theatrical producer, which his last sly sally had aroused.

"Praise from Sir Hubert," he had said, when I had been goaded by Mrs. Arlen's slurs into defending and praising Hugh Grantland. And in his tone, even more than his words, I had read the intimation that I was speaking from a knowledge of Hugh's ways wider than that possessed by anyone else.

As always with me, when a problem is presented to my brain, emotions flee until I have solved it, if possible, or given it up for the time as unsolvable. I no longer was thinking of the gibe he had directed at me. Instead, my thoughts were scurrying hither and thither, trying to determine the reasons for the astounding and rather crass advice he had given to Fanny Arlen.

REVENGE SEEN

It had not been so very long ago that he had been trying to contrive an alliance between Avis and his own son. He had professed disgust with the girl upon the occasion of my dinner, and apparently had given up his scheme and become reconciled to Noel's betrothal to Mary. But later on, after his scheme to send Mary to Paris had been thwarted by my claiming his promise to let the young lovers be married, I had wondered if traces of his "fine Italian hand" could not be seen in the determined attempts of Avis, first, to see Noel and get him away from Mary and, failing that, to interfere with the harmony of the wedding plans as much as she possibly could.

Thanks to my own vigilance, and that of every other person in the farmhouse family, she had failed in both projects, and I had felt a certain stirring of pity for her as she watched the wedding ceremony which took Noel completely out of her world. It had been patent, or so I had decided, that she cared for Philip Veritzen's son as much as it was in her shallow nature to care for anyone.

PITY VANISHES

That pity had vanished when she had asked Hugh Grantland to take her to the ocean, but not because Hugh has been her objective. I was honest in my belief that my compassion would have fled had she used the same tactics with any man or boy of our farmhouse family. Patently with Avis, it was a case of "any man from eight to eighty," Noel's image, I was sure, had completely vanished from her mind, as she sat by Hugh Grantland's side and reveled triumphantly in the thought that—

I brought myself up with a round turn. I was sure that the girl had asked Hugh to take her with the malicious hope that I would not like either her invitation or his acceptance. But I must not think of that side of this problem again. It certainly was not worth a second's consideration—the probable motives of a sly and revengeful girl.

But the thought had brought another, even more disturbing, in its train. Suddenly I knew why Philip Veritzen was stirring Fanny Arlen's maternal ambition, and my face flamed with the knowledge.

"Oh!" Fanny Arlen said, theatrically clasping her hands, "there's Maj. Grantland's car now. My baby is safely back again! Thank God!"

Hints for the Household

Wash and dry wine glasses and tumblers with tissue paper, and the glass will sparkle like crystal.

Add a drop of cold water to the white of an egg before whisking, and it will froth in half the time and be stiffer.

Mildew on leather goods can be removed by rubbing first with vaseline and then with a soft cloth.

Pears for stewing will be improved by adding a little golden syrup as well as sugar. Cook slowly in a covered jar.

Lace curtains can be stretched by pulling gently in all directions while they are drying.

Boiled cabbage is less sodden and needs no squeezing if put on in a saucepan of cold water to which has been added a pinch of bicarbonate of soda.

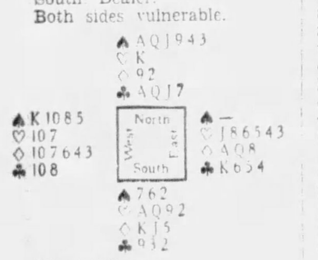
Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Choice of a Discard

It happened just after the players sitting East and West on the hand below had taken a 1,400 penalty on what had looked to West, who had held three honor-tricks, to be a perfectly safe Overcall of an opposing bid, and naturally the air was somewhat tense, as East strongly felt that West's bid had been much too ambitious. So the partnership morale was perhaps at a low ebb, and the chance to defeat the contract which North undertook was overlooked.

South Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	3 ♠ (1)	Pass
4 ♠ (2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

It will be observed that East has a rather difficult hand from which to choose a good lead. His choice was a low heart. North, seeing nine spades in sight, decided to play for a 2-2 break in the spade suit and hope that a spade in the South hand would prove an entry for a later finesse of the clubs. He therefore went up with the heart Ace, upon which, of course, his own King fell, led another round of hearts and discarded a low diamond. This play, if the defense had realized it, gave them their chance to defeat the contract. Being now assured that he would lose but one diamond, South led a spade from the Dummy and finessed the Queen. When East failed to follow suit it was apparent that the contract was, to say the least, a difficult one to fulfill, and North went into a long conference with himself over ways and means. Finally he led his singleton diamond; East won with the Ace and returned another heart. Perhaps he would have been better advised to have discarded his small club as East would then have been more or less on the spot for a lead.

At this point the Declarer laid down the club Ace, and followed with the club Knave. East refused to win the trick, fearing, in view of West's play of the club 8, that he held the club Queen. This play permitted North to fulfill his contract. He now laid down the Ace of trumps, leaving West with two trump tricks, and from this point on played the cards with faultless precision. He led another round of trumps, putting West in the lead, and West had nothing to do but to take his remaining trump trick and then lead a diamond to the Dummy.

TOMORROW'S HAND

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Fingers O. K.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When loaf sugar is served with coffee and no sugar tongs are supplied, is it proper to pick up a loaf and place it in the cup, using the fingers, or should a teaspoon be used?

ADMIRER.

Under the circumstances, it is quite correct for us to take the lump of sugar in our fingers, as carefully as possible, so that we avoid touching any of the other lumps.

Position of Napkin

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When setting a table where is the napkin placed? If it is placed at the side of the plate, on which side is it placed. M.

I like best placing the napkin at the side of the plate, on the left side, parallel with the forks and at the left of the forks. Some people place the napkin on the plate, but, this to my way of thinking, interferes with the harmony of the design on the plate, especially if the plate is a handsome service plate.

BRIDES AIDED BY PRIZE RECIPES

You're going to be a spring bride and the one thing that's keeping you awake nights is how to become a good cook in three, or maybe three and a half, lessons? Of course, you know that isn't possible, but still in this day of plentiful aids there's no reason on earth for you to emulate the blackened steak horrors of moving picture brides.

More than one young lady has turned to Prudence Penny and her prize recipe column for not only what, but how to cook. One of them writes in:

"I am a young bride of not quite a year and I have been watching your paper every day in that time, for it's great to know what different people cook. Now, I would like an older bride to send in a good recipe for home-made rye bread."

Can't you help her? If you don't have a rye bread recipe, some of your other favorites may prove a great aid to her and other readers of the column. Send in your recipes, as many as you want, to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. No recipes are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. ALBERT PRICE,
518 Baltimore street, Belle Vernon.
FILLED CHICKEN

Cook one or more fair-sized chickens. Cool, slice nicely from the breast and joints; set these slices aside. Chop or grind the rest and add to bread crumbs which have been soaked in milk, also chopped mushrooms. Bind together with an egg. Make sandwiches of two slices of chicken with this filling between, using the slices the same as you would bread. Dip these in crumbs and egg and fry in deep fat until brown.

Five $1 Prize Winners

MRS. GEORGE G. HAY,
320 Kenny avenue, Pitcairn.
BAKED FISH EXTRAORDINARY

Wash and dry two halibut steaks. Butter a long, flat pan. Lay thin slice of pork on it. Place a fish steak on the pork, pour lemon juice over it and dust with salt and pepper. Dip one-half pint of oysters in melted butter and cracker crumbs and place on fish.

Lay second steak of fish over the oysters and season. Lay more slices of pork on top. Bake 30 or 40 minutes, basting three or four times with the juice in the pan and lastly with the melted butter, then cover top with buttered crumbs. Serve when crumbs are brown. Garnish with puree of peas or hollandaise sauce.

MRS. JESSIE L. LEWIS,
215 Bowlby Street, Waynesburg.
PRUNE ICE CREAM

One pound prunes,
Juice one lemon,
One and one-half cups sugar.
Three cups milk.
One cup cream.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Wash the prunes, soak overnight, and cook slowly, in water to cover, until tender. Then add the sugar and lemon juice. Allow to simmer 10 minutes; strain the juice. Put the prunes and strain the pulp through a potato ricer. Add to the milk and cream combined with the salt, cook and freeze.

MRS. J. JARVIS,
Ninth Street, Irwin.
RHUBARD AND STRAWBERRY PIE.

One and one-half cups rhubarb, cut in pieces.
One and one-half tablespoons flour.
One and one-half cups strawberries.
One cup sugar.
Few grains salt.

Cover the bottom of an unbaked pie shell with the rhubarb and strawberries. Combine the flour, sugar and salt, and sprinkle a layer over the rhubarb and strawberries. Continue until the pie shell is full. Put the top crust on and seal edges firmly. Bake in hot oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat and bake about 15 minutes longer.

MRS. NAOMI McDOWELL,
R. F. D., Verona, Rosedale.
FRUIT MACEDOINE (JAR COOKED)

A combination of light colored fruits makes an attractive pack and it is a convenient product to have at hand, since it is ready to serve as fruit cocktail, salad or dessert. For fancy packs the fruit may be packed in alternate layers, or arranged in other attractive designs.

Pleasing combinations:
1—Green gage plums, pears, white grapes.
2—Peaches, pears, blue plums.
3—Pineapples, kumquats, figs.

Pack cold into hot jars, cover with syrup made with three parts sugar to two parts water, partly seal and process for 20 minutes in a hot water bath. Seal immediately.

MISS CATHERINE BAIER,
44 Obey avenue, Crafton Heights.
HAM A LA KING

One cup diced, cooked ham.
Three tablespoons butter.
Four tablespoons flour.
One-half cup browned mushrooms.
One-fourth teaspoon paprika.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One egg, beaten.
One tablespoon chopped green peppers.
Two tablespoons chopped pimientos.
Two cups of milk.

Melt butter and add flour. When blended add milk and cook until creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly until well blended. Add seasonings, ham and mushrooms. Cook two minutes. Add egg, beat well and serve at once, poured over buttered toast. This makes a very desirable dish, especially at noon-day lunch.

Hitler Doom Seen In Attacks on Jews

Addressing the Pitt Engineering and Mines Alumni Association in the Downtown Y. M. C. A., the Rev. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, declared that Adolph Hitler is scheduled for a quick descent because of his attacks on Jews. He said in part:

"The most recent news from Berlin indicates that Hitler is becoming irritable and conscious of the extreme difficulty of his position."

JUNIOR PATROL

Men will work hard when they have a good reason, fellows!

Our city of Pittsburgh is a good example. There are so many big hills, ravines, rivers and cliffs that it is hard to find a level place big enough to build a house.

Probably no other large city in the world had to overcome so many "Natural obstacles to become big and great. But there were great rivers on all sides, and there was coal and sand for making glass, and stone for making cement and building stone, and so men saw that this would be a good place to build a city. They have constructed mills, big buildings churches, schools and colleges, and now the city is very great indeed.

But it had to be built on the hills. And many bridges had to be built to take the streets across the rivers and ravines. And the roads had to be cut out of the hillsides. Strong walls had to be built to hold these roads up and to keep the hills from sliding down. And tunnels had to be driven through the hills, where it was too difficult to build a road over them.

And the buildings and houses themselves had to be built on hillsides much of the time, so that is is more expensive and takes more work to build many of Pittsburgh's houses. Foundations had to be stronger and deeper.

Also, in many other ways, the engineers have tried to overcome the hills and ravines. They built the inclines up the hillsides and long flights of steps up the steep slopes.

So you see that men built Pittsburgh in spite of many troubles. They wanted a city here, because there were so many other good reasons for having one.

Many of the days are rainy this month—April showers, you know. But the April showers bring May flowers, they say, and so we don't mind the rain now and then.

But in rainy weather it's more fun to have Junior Patrol meetings indoors somewhere. Maybe you could spend part of the time adding pictures and things to your scrap books. Or you could talk about one of the new books one of your members has.

BOYS! GIRLS! JOIN AS A CHARTER MEMBER OF THE JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

The Junior Birdmen of America, a new nation-wide organization sponsored by William Randolph Hearst, through the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers, for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 is now ready to enroll membership.

Mr. Hearst originally sponsored the American organization of the Boy Scouts in collaboration with his friend, Sir Robert Baden-Powell. He believes the Junior Birdmen of America is now just as important and even more interesting to boys and girls of America.

This new nation wide youth movement will be conducted through the medium of a daily newspaper column to be published in the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers beginning Sunday and appearing every week day and Sunday.

You can become a CHARTER MEMBER of the Junior Birdmen of America now by clipping the attached coupon and forwarding it to the Junior Birdmen of America, care of the Sun-Telegraph, giving your full name, age and address, and enclosing a dime (10 cents) in cash for your Junior Birdmen wing-pin and membership card. Be sure you state your age so that you can be placed in the proper age group, and, of course, don't forget your 10 cents in one coin, which covers the cost of your membership materials, including postage and mailing.

Full information will be given in this column about model plane building activities and competitions, aviation features, flying articles by prominent fliers, annual banquets, popular pilot polls, contests, trips to airports and airplane factories, and all sorts of live wire activities for the boys and girls, to be conducted under the sponsorship of the Junior Birdmen of America.

Boys and girls sending the attached coupon with their name, address, age and 10 cents in cash will have "charter membership" stamped across their membership cards. Wing-pins, gilt for the Group A members (16 to 21), and silvered pins for the Group B members (10 to 15), will be enameled in red, white and blue. Membership cards will be gold or silver, corresponding to the age group to which you belong.

Membership cards and Junior Birdmen wing-pins will not, however, be mailed to charter members until after the daily Junior Birdmen column begins in the Sun-Telegraph. But you must send for your membership—using the attached coupon—before the column starts—if you want to become a CHARTER MEMBER.

The daily column, in addition to publishing Junior Birdmen news, feature articles and club activities, will tell you how every boy and girl will be able to organize a Junior Birdmen FLIGHT SQUADRON in his or her city, town or neighborhood.

Commissioners Back Rival Candidates

By MARK SHIELDS

The fight in the Fortieth Senatorial District for the Republican nomination has developed into something of a contest between two members of the Board of County Commissioners. They are not candidates, though one actually is a Senator and the other a former Senator, having served in the district.

Mr. Shields

It is like this:

Two of the outstanding contenders for the nomination are Senator Herman Brandt, attempting to succeed himself, and former Representative Louis W. Hagmeier, defeated in the primary two years ago.

Behind Brandt is County Commissioner William D. Mansfield, finishing a term as Senator from the Forty-fourth District.

Behind Hagmeier is County Commissioner C. M. Barr, at one time a Senator from the district now represented by Brandt.

Barr controls many jobs on the county payroll in this district, due to the manner in which the county was divided into three parts for patronage purposes, and these jobholders have been told their benefactor's preference.

Naturally he took as his portion the section in which he had been a Senator, while Mansfield confined himself principally to the district embracing McKeesport and the territory within the Forty-fourth District.

Attorney General William A. Schnader, whose campaign in Western Pennsylvania for the Republican gubernatorial nomination has not attained much headway, except in Erie County, visited Pittsburgh yesterday for a bit of fence fixing.

He first met with Attorney David Glick, a deputy attorney general, and brother of Peter Glick, who was Secretary of Labor and Industry in the cabinet of former Gov. John S. Fisher.

Mr. Schnader made no effort to see any number of political figures on his short visit, but did confer for a few minutes with Judge Ralph H. Smith, who was a deputy in the Department of Justice under Mr. Schnader.

Judge Smith is recognized as the Pinchot leader in this section, but the meeting could by no stretch of the imagination be construed as intimating a connection between the campaigns of Gov. Pinchot and his Attorney General.

* * *

Schnader in Parley With Judge Smith

The Governor has been very careful not to indicate any preference among the 16 gentlemen seeking the Republican nomination for Governor, and has informed his lieutenants that he has no commitments.

Representatives of the Attorney General here contend that there is plenty of latent sentiment for the principles he supports, and that this sentiment can be whipped up to his aid by some active campaigning.

The conversation yesterday between Judge Smith and Mr. Schnader was productive of no agreement or commitment, it is understood.

Surface indications today are that Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon has an advantageous position, principally because his candidacy has been actively pushed by some soldier groups headed by County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, County Controller Robert G. Woodside and Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster, while the other candidates have been quiet.

* * *

When and if the other candidates get actively in the race the picture may change.

There is little difficulty in being a front runner when there is no competition. And actually there has been no concerted competition from any source for Gen. Shannon to date.

In Punxsutawney tonight Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, who has law offices here, kicks off his campaign with a radio speech. He selected Jefferson County for his opening because that is his birthplace. After tonight's speech it is assumed Mr. Margiotti will get down to active campaigning.

UTILITY PARLEY BAN ASSAILED BY COUNCIL

P. S. C. Meeting Called 'Star Session' By Garland

Informal conferences between public utilities and the Public Service Commission have been labeled "star chamber sessions" by Council President Robert Garland.

A letter from Louis Tevell, secretary of the commission, notifying Council that for the present the attendance of representatives of the city at the rate conference is not desirable has been made a part of Council's record.

Council, on a resolution by Walter R. Demmler, had offered to send a special assistant city solicitor to Harrisburg to assist the commission in any way possible in its efforts to install the new maximum of 6 per cent earnings rather than the 7 per cent on valuation, which has been allowed the utilities.

The Commission replied the most satisfactory results could be obtained only if the conferences are limited to representatives of the commission and the utilities.

Demmler had pointed out wide possibilities for reductions in utility rates affecting the city and all consumers. He had suggested that other municipalities co-operate, and the Commission's letter is a rebuff for them as well as the city.

Special Assistant City Solicitor John J. Kennedy was to have represented the city at Harrisburg.

CHARGES MATE SHUNNED WORK

Her husband was in bed when she left for work in the morning and was there when she returned home in the evening, is what Mrs. Ellen McCutcheon, 25, of 1145 North Negley avenue, told Judge John P. Egan today in her suit for divorce against David McCutcheon.

The young Mrs. McCutcheon told Judge Egan she and McCutcheon eloped in 1928 and married in Wellsburg, W. Va., but after the wedding the young husband went to South America for three months. Returning he entered Penn State College, she said.

Mrs. McCutcheon also told of finding telephone numbers and addresses of her husband's alleged girl friends.

They separated last November—a few months after their baby was born. Mrs. McCutcheon was a student at Thurston School when she married.

Sterilization Urged For Young Slayer

POWELL RIVER, British Columbia, April 12.—(AP.)—Sterilization of a 14-year-old boy accused of killing a schoolmate, in the event he is found mentally defective, was recommended by a Coroner's jury.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 12.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

We got the moving picture theater owners out here on a big convention. They all report business much better all over. Now what better barometer can you get than them. Their convention informed the producers that as about everything in the way of sex had been produced, and that the audience didn't care to see it over again, they suggested that for a change they thought the audience would like to see just an old-fashioned movie. And they also want to eliminate the sensational and suggestive advertising used for pictures. You cant make a picture as bad as the ads lead you to believe it is.

Yours,
WILL.

Alimony Due Her

ANNA MARIE M'GUIRE

ALIMONY PERILS DOGS' HIGH LIFE

Unless Franklin M. McGuire forgets his dogs for a while and pays the alimony due Anna Marie McGuire, he will find himself in contempt of court.

Judge John P. Egan has set April 24 as the date for McGuire, dog fancier and quarry executive, to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt.

Mrs. McGuire, who filed suit for divorce last January, charging her husband gave his pets a better home than he provided for her, was awarded $25 a week alimony by Judge Egan March 6, the payments retroactive to January 1.

In court yesterday, counsel for Mrs. McGuire, of 5857 Douglas avenue, charged that her husband not only had failed to make any payments, but had "concealed himself in hiding and thwarted every attempt to serve him."

In her suit against the dog fancier, the wife said he spent $100 a month on his pets, but McGuire denied this in his answer. They were wed in Maryland last September.

PAYROLL PROBE STIRS CABINET

Councilman William A. Magee's resolution, compelling city department heads to submit lists of persons dismissed since January 1, has caused a flurry in the McNair cabinet.

The Magee move, which carried 5 to 4 over the opposition of the Democratic bloc, forces directors to make all of their payroll cutting activities a matter of record each month.

Its effect on the cabinet yesterday was the calling of a closed meeting in Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully's office. Mayor McNair, who has always declared against secret meetings of any kind, was present for a short time.

Later he declined to talk about what happened.

Other directors who were present also declined to comment.

The reason given by Magee for pushing the resolution was that Council should know about dismissals, since it might have to pay the bill if a discharge were in violation of the Civil Service law.

EMMA GOLDMAN CALLS CITY 'FEUDAL'

Famed Woman 'Red' Cites History Of Unrest

North Side Carnegie Hall still stands today.

That's Emma Goldman's proof that she isn't as bad as she's painted.

Emma Goldman is the anarchist deported from America after the war and now touring this country on a British passport and a New Deal visa.

She spoke in North Side Carnegie Hall last night—spoke on Emma Goldman, and anarchism and Communism. She had been refused permission to speak in 16 halls, she claimed, until City Council allowed her her last night's meeting place.

RECALLS SHOOTING

Miss Goldman—short and stout, her hair graying and her mouth fallen into grim lines that become sardonic when she smiles—sketched the history of social unrest in this country from the days of the Haymarket riots and the Homestead steel strike.

She called Pittsburgh "one of the most feudalistic cities in the country" and told of the days when her friend, Alexander Berkman, shot the late Henry Clay Frick during the Homestead steel strike.

Then she told of her later crusades, of authorities' suspicion that she aided in the assassination of President McKinley. She carried her listeners to the year 1916, when, she said:

"I lectured on birth control—now a respectable subject. Even the House of Lords in England has now come out for birth control.

"But then I was fined $100 or 10 days in jail—I took jail because I had some lectures to compose and there's no place like jail in which to compose lectures."

NAMES 'DECLINERS'

Attorney Jacob Margolis "lauded" Dr. Ben G. Graham for his "encouragement of the ideal of free speech in his pupils" when he refused him a school auditorium for the Goldman speech.

Other decliners, Margolis said, were the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association, the Schenley Hotel and the Irene Kaufmann Settlement.

Sidney Teller, director of the settlement, present at the meeting, squirmed beneath the criticism and told newspapermen his halls were all full that night.

DR. L. WALLACE OHL, CAP AND GOWNER OF 1908, SHOWING HIS SON HOW IT WAS DONE THEN

Cap and Gown Cast In Second Generation

Pitt Cap and Gown alumni have started a hunt for gray hairs. They heard today that a member of the cast for "Hello Again," twenty-seventh annual show, represents the second generation of Cap and Gown players.

He is Richard Ohl, son of Dr. L. Wallace Ohl, of 35 Wheeler avenue, Ingram, who had a part in the first show, "In Wupland," held in 1908. Dr. Ohl was a freshman at Pitt then and played in the next three shows before his graduation from the dental school in 1911.

His son had a part in last year's show, "All to the Point," and will be featured in several of the skits in this year's student-written revue.

As he tried a few dance steps at home with his son, who is rehearsing now for the opening night at the Nixon April 19, Dr. Ohl recalled his own student days in Cap and Gown. He said:

"In those days, our shows weren't so elaborate, but there was plenty of fun. We traveled to other towns around, and I remember that in one small town we confiscated all the signs. And we had some mighty funny skits, too. The biggest man on the football team played the part of a small child!"

WANTED: CASE FOR TARTAN'S CUP

Tech Editors First in Contest With 25 School Papers

Editors of the Carnegie Tartan, student newspaper at Carnegie Tech, are hunting now for a trophy case to house their first trophy, a first-prize cup for editorial excellence won in competition with 25 other college papers.

Competing for the first time, the Tartan won the honor at the recent spring convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States, held at Temple University, Philadelphia.

The Tartan also tied with the Temple News for first prize in the news contest. The Pitt News won third place.

Five papers were tied for first place in the editorial contest. They include Carnegie Tartan, Bucknell Bucknellian, Lehigh Brown and White, Pitt News and Gettysburg Gettysburgian. The Tartan was the only paper receiving two mentions. Edmund J. McCormick is editor-in-chief.

The Tartan reports that one of the contest judges, Alexander Gardiner, associate editor of the American Legion Monthly and contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, said:

COUNTY'S PLANS GET VIRTUAL APPROVAL

Ickes Aide Advises Delegation Outlook 'Is Favorable'

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Nearly two score Allegheny County businessmen and officials were virtually assured of a Public Works loan of $30,000,000 today, based on two contingencies.

These were that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania declare constitutional the authority bill which the last Legislature passed and which set up a board of three men, empowered to borrow and direct the projected improvements on a self-liquidating basis.

The other contingency is that Congress appropriate necessary money, or sufficient money comes back to Public Works from other projects which fail.

The projects, it developed at a hearing before Col. E. W. Clark, executive assistant to Administrator Harold L. Ickes, have passed the finance and engineering divisions of the administration, and only await agreement on legal technicalities.

COURT RULE NEEDED

Clarence McDonough, a Pittsburgher, and chief engineer of the administration, declared that only the opinion of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court holds up the final contract.

J. P. Fife, county solictior, told the gathering that the taxpayers' suit would go before the court the week of May 21.

Robert E. Lee, special counsel, declared that once the Supreme Court decides, it will be only a matter of a few months until men are at work on the projects. He said:

CAN'T PROMISE

Col. Clark, who appeared in the absence of Ickes, when asked point blank if the county would get the loan, answered:

"The federal government cannot promise definitely."

Asked if conditions were favorable, he replied:

"Yes."

Col. C. C. McGovern led the delegation into the Interior Building to present their case, and speakers representing business and industrial and official circles as well as taxpayers, presented the needs of the county, and why such a loan should be given.

McDonough declared that there was no formal presentation of Allegheny County's project until Gov. Pinchot signed the authority bill. McDonough said:

"I'm certain the legal technicalities that stand in the way can be straightened out.

"Important for the Pennsylvania courts to decide, for example, is whether tolls can be charged on the Liberty tubes as well as any new project. I think they can, but this must be decided."

Also included in the party were Robert W. Grange, W. T. Grange, R. E. Moser, Eugene Hunting, Dan Dougherty, Myles McConnon, Hal Bazley, Press C. Dowler and William McK. Reed.

Mr. Trees, former chairman of the PWA in Pennsylvania, explained to Secretary Ickes' representatives that the county plan was one of the first submitted to the federal government, but that until the authority was signed, the plans were not formal.

Flinn pointed out the wealth of the community, and declared that the appeal from the county was like that of a customer to a bank.

Then Mr. Flannery, in a brief talk, demanded that the government let the county know where it stands. He said:

"The plans submitted, such as bridge and other improvements, are not haphazard improvements, but include many that have been studied for 20 or 30 years. They fall in line with the government's plan to build constructive things."

CITY PROTESTS RWD DELAY

The city is losing $1,060 a day due to failure of the Relief Works Division to re-assign men to jobs started by the Civil Works Administration, according to Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston.

He has asked James L. Stuart, relief works director, to take immediate steps to have the city jobs manned in full so that the waste of public funds may cease. Only 1,800 men out of a required 5,700 have been re-asigned, Johnston stated.

The CWA ceased to function March 29, and the RWD was to take over the projects which had been started. The city, providing supervision, materials and equipment, finds itself with overhead piling up and little work being done.

J. B. Coates, of Altoona, was appointed temporarily today to replace Maj. Ralph W. Gibbs as head of the State-Federal Employment Bureau. Gibbs resigned yesterday to run for Congress.

Democrats in Phila. Gain in Registration

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—(INS.)—Widespread shifting of party allegiances marked the heavy registration of voters for the May 15 state primaries yesterday, scattered returns indicated today.

Numerous defections from the Republican to the Democratic Party were noted in hitherto dominant G. O. P. South Philadelphia Wards, while in western and northern districts a comparatively heavy desertion of Democrats who registered Republicans was noted.

WAR CHAPLAINS WARN AGAINST PACIFISM

CLEVELAND, April 12.—(AP)—Internationalism drew the fire of World War chaplains and ministers now in active Army service as the Chaplains Association opened its ninth annual convention.

Chaplain Howard E. Snyder, of Washington, association president, denounced the wave of internationalism and pacifism which he warned was sweeping the country as the convention sessions started last night. He said:

"I am thoroughly convinced, personally, that this internationalism, this idealism, which has been foisted upon us is the biggest bunk."

He added that he did not doubt the sincerity of the "internationalists," but held to the belief they are underestimating their task.

STONE DIRECTS KAUFMAN DRIVE

Former Judge Stephen Stone has been named chairman of an Independent Lawyers' Committee which will stage the local drive for David E. Kaufman, of Bradford County, for Lieutenant Governor.

Kaufman was former United States minister to Siam and Bolivia.

In announcing acceptance of the chairmanship, Stone, son of former Gov. William Stone, said:

"Seldom do the people of Pennsylvania have a chance to vote for men of such high ability as that of David E. Kaufman.

"Mr. Kaufman is a man of outstanding ability and integrity and his fearlessness in standing for the right things of life is the basis for the formation of the Independent Lawyers' Committee."

A bill on President Roosevelt's desk, waiting to be signed, will reduce the cost of certificates for naturalization papers from $13 to $1, it was announced today by the Registration Commission.

The total registration on the first day of last year, September 7, was 61,482, and the total registration of last year was 160,202 Republicans and 36,523 Democrats—a ratio of over 4 to 1. This year the ratio is 10 to 9.

WARNING to EXPECTANT MOTHERS

If you have ever been a patient in any hospital, you are probably familiar with the advantages of a liquid laxative.

Doctors know the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit your individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have now learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without discomfort at the time, or after. Dr. Caldwell's long experience with mothers and babies, and his remarkable record of nearly three thousand births without the loss of one mother or child, should give anybody complete confidence in any prescription which he wrote!

But most important of all, a gentle liquid laxative does not cause bowel strain to the most delicate system, and this is of the utmost importance to expectant mothers and to every child.

Expectant mothers are urged to try gentle regulation of bowels with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a delightful tasting laxative of delightful action, made of fresh herbs, pure pepsin and active senna. Not a single mineral drug; nothing to cause strain, or irritate the kidneys.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved preparation and kept ready for use by all druggists.

Copyright, 1934, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company

W. E. Richards, Jr. of Lansford, Pa., who rode nearly 20,000 miles in his car last year, says:

"I'm a real tennis fan, Mr. Tilden, and I know it takes healthy nerves to play championship tennis year after year. But don't forget, it takes healthy nerves to drive a car, too. Trying to see your way in blinding fog or rain...skids...other drivers taking quick, unexpected turns—all are enough to give any man 'traffic jitters'! And yet driving never bothers me a bit. Smoke? I'll say I do. Morning, noon, and night. But I stick to Camels because then I know I can forget all about nerves. And Camels sure taste great!"

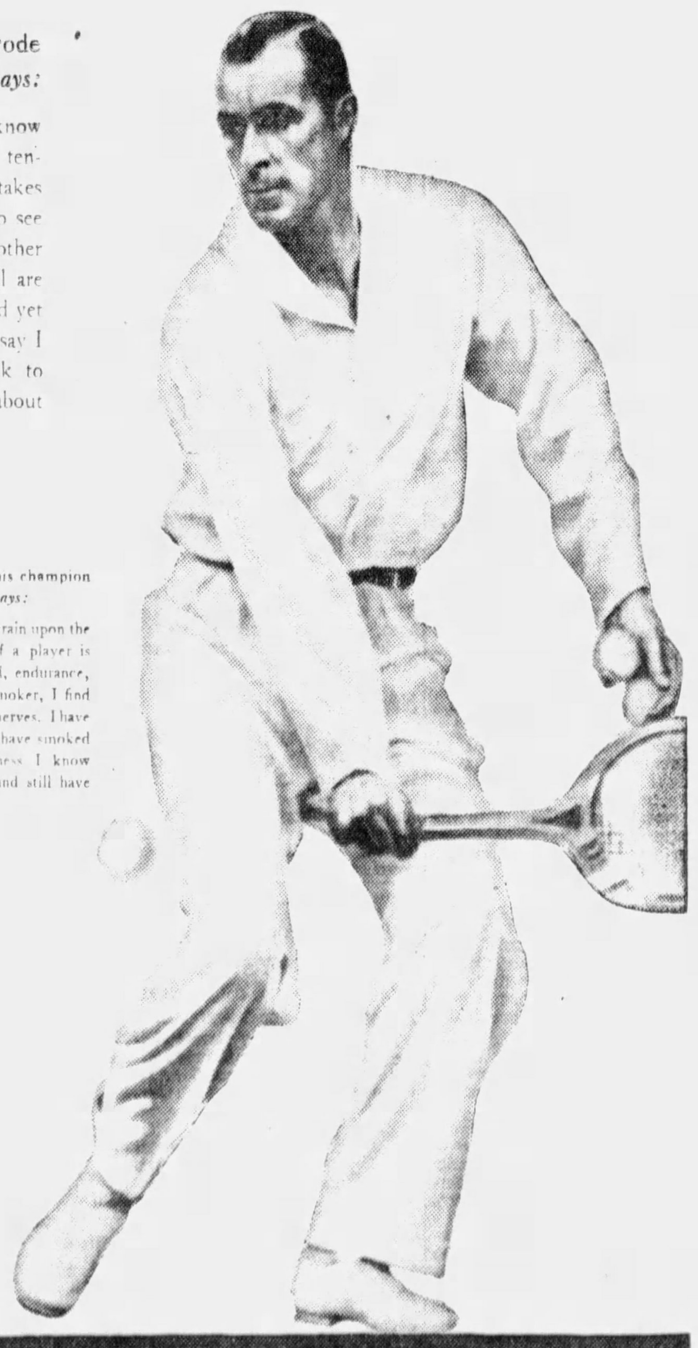
"Tournament play in tennis imposes a terrific strain upon the nervous system. Healthy nerves are essential if a player is going to be successful in maintaining his speed, endurance, and the psychology of victory. As a steady smoker, I find that cigarettes vary a lot in their effect upon the nerves. I have tried all the other popular brands, but for years I have smoked Camels. Because of their extraordinary mildness I know that I can smoke Camels as freely as I wish and still have healthy nerves."



How Are YOUR Nerves?

Jittery nerves are everywhere in modern life. You know them by such signs as these—foot-tapping, key-rattling, nail-biting—frowning and worrying.

If your nerves are not all they should be, study your habits that might affect them—your eating, your sleeping, your recreations. And get a fresh slant on your smoking by starting on Camels.

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

Camels never get on your nerves. You can smoke one after another...with increasing enjoyment. Camels are so mild, so delicate—packed with the pleasure of finer, costlier tobaccos! The more you smoke them the more you'll like them.

PLANKS LISTED BY MARGIOTTI

In advance of a radio talk tonight, in which he will outline his platform, Charles J. Margiotti, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, gave out some of its planks, stressing the payment of school teachers' salaries by the state to relieve the tax burden on local school districts.

He approves the principle of unemployment insurance and promises a commission to study the systems used in other countries to determine a method best suited for Pennsylvania. He favors the immediate reduction of exorbitant utility rates and the "regulation of public utilities for public service" through an effective Public Service Commission. He pledges the elimination of unnecessary state agencies and bureaus and the reduction in the cost of government through the abolition of surplus jobs.

He emphatically opposed diversion of motor license fund money for purposes other than road construction, but would have some of the money collected used for city streets. A convention is urged to revise the Constitution "in conformity with the spirit of the times and to make it adaptable to modern needs." He promised attention to the needs of farmers and a continuing assistance to ex-service men.

A real old-age pension law, the elimination of sweatshops, abolition of privately paid deputy sheriffs, clean election laws, and wage boards to establish minimum hour and wage regulations for women and children in industry are some of the other planks in the Margiotti platform.

M'SPARRAN SEES NEW PARTY

HARRISBURG, April 12.—(AP.)—John A. McSparran, State Secretary of Agriculture and champion of prohibition, in his platform as candidate for Governor says that a new political party may be born if "present tendencies" are not corrected.

Voicing opposition to "government by unsound experimentation," McSparran said:

"Fear of hidden radicalism in the public mind is a bar to sane progress."

He is running in both Republican and Democratic primary contests.

He predicted:

"The new party, if created, will be formed by the great middle class of America, together with all those who are friends of freedom and the orderly processes of government to the expression of the public will."

McSparran said he favored public utility rate reductions, more rigid control of liquor traffic "looking to the abolition" of it, "keeping the Sabbath as a holy day," and old age pensions.

into the open. Of course, some of this reluctance to move, especially within organization ranks, is due to uncertainty as to whom the professionals will favor on a showdown.

The Democrats have been a bit more active, though no actual campaigning has developed.

George H. Earle, Philadelphia, candidate of the regular Democratic organization, was in Pittsburgh yesterday, met Democrats from seven or eight adjoining counties, and shook hands with the faithful of Allegheny County.

His headquarters in the Hotel Pittsburgher were well filled all day and into the evening, when Earle went back to Philadelphia.

He will return here April 17 and on that and two following days will cover Western Pennsylvania counties. In some places speeches will be made, and in others he will merely meet the folks.

Headquarters for Judge E. C. Bonniwell have been opened on Grant street. Maj. E. Lowry Humes and his associates have hit a few licks for Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, and Mayor William N. McNair is speaking almost nightly.

But, so far as the governorship is concerned, the campaign for both parties is yet to start in this region—and it is less than five weeks to primary day. That is a short time in which to become acquainted with candidates, most of whom are not known throughout the state.

HUMES FLAYS PINCHOT, REED

The election of Roland S. Morris to the United States Senate is necessary if Pennsylvania Democrats wish to render real service to President Roosevelt, Maj. E. Lowry Humes has declared.

Humes, in a meeting at the Morris-Copeland headquarters in Wilkinsburg, eliminated Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic senatorial candidate, by stating he could not be elected if nominated.

As for the Republican candidates, Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Senator David A. Reed, Humes said:

"Senator Reed is traveling over the state denouncing President Roosevelt and the program of the NRA. Gov. Pinchot, through his wife, is denouncing the leadership and conduct of the NRA, charging it with Wall street affiliation.

"One of these enemies of the recovery program will be the Republican candidate for the Senate. Their elimination is necessary if Pennsylvania is to give its whole-hearted support to the Roosevelt program."

Oxydol Saves "Fuel, Time, Energy, Clothing"

And—"Goes Twice As Far," Says Indiana Woman

SO, YOUNG LADY! OUT GADDING ON WASHDAY!
BUT I WASHED IN HALF THE TIME TODAY— WITH OXYDOL! AND YOUR THINGS ARE SO CLEAN AND WHITE YOU'LL BE PROUD OF ME!

READ MRS. CASPER'S LETTER

Mrs. Charles Casper
Huntington, Ind.

"I knew I had to be as economical as possible. So by using Oxydol I save fuel, time, energy and clothing. It goes twice as far, therefore costs less than the many other brands I have tried. Have had many compliments on my washing and I owe it all to Oxydol!"

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Casper has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft, finger nails lustrous and uncracked.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. OXYDOL SOAKS dirt out in 15 minutes. So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The New and Improved OXYDOL will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. And the OXYDOL you get here contains just the right amount of softener to fit it.

You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds—suds as rich as whipped dairy cream! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

Equally important is the fact that OXYDOL, by dissolving completely, rinses out completely. Thus banishes "soap streaks" from ironing.

And OXYDOL is economical. In buying many ordinary granulated or flake soaps you may have to spend as much as 8% to 30% more to get the same amount of soap. By buying OXYDOL, you get, in some cases, as much as one-third more soap for the same money.

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL today from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler measure OXYDOL's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does soak out the dirt in 15 minutes!

THE NEW AND IMPROVED OXYDOL MULTIPLIES 500 TIMES IN SUDS

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Air Program Mt. Rushmore Contest Aid

Millions of Americans who are striving these days to win the awards offered by the Hearst newspapers for the best 600-word text for the Mount Rushmore National Memorial will have an opportunity tonight to hear over the radio one of the episodes constituting the subject matter of the text.

The thousands of aspiring entrants in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, participating through more than 150 organizations, hundreds of public and parish schools and as individuals submitting their texts direct to the Pittsburgh regional judging committee, will hear this broadcast at 8:30 o'clock over Station WJAS.

SPECIAL AWARDS

Through the courtesy of Underwood-Elliott-Fisher, the "Voice of America" program will embody the principal scenes in its regular Thursday night broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System. In addition to the prizes offered by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers, Underwood-Elliott-Fisher is offering 22 typewriters as special awards in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Inscription competition.

Participants listening to tonight's broadcast will hear the conference between Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, Robert Livingston, John Adams and Roger Sherman over the drafting of the Declaration of Independence.

This co-operation in the national competition, in which President Franklin D. Roosevelt is chairman of the national committee of award, simply means that by filing your 600-word text through the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher channels, which you will hear completely detailed in the "Voice of America" broadcast, you may win a prize in addition to the regular awards. All of the texts submitted in the auxiliary campaign will be submitted to the regional committee nearest the home of the competitor, whether they are winners or not in the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher competition. That means, entrants in the tri-state district will have their entries returned to the Pittsburgh Memorial Committee.

ACTUAL WORDS USED

You may be aided very much in the preparation of your own text, if you hear, as you have the opportunity to do tonight, the actual words used in the discussion. Every statement made in the radio presentation has historical authenticity. The words and references are all matters of history. Tune in the "Voice of America" telling America the story of its development—and then join America in writing its own epic.

Remember that simplicity is paramount. Generations yet to come will be read the deep-cut letters, graven in the South Dakota mountainside by Gutzon Borglum. Even more than a million years from now they will be legible, geologists say.

Rules of the competition with the nine specific episodes that must be the basis of the text are printed in an adjoining column. Read them and watch the Sun-Telegraph every day for more helpful hints.

There is a special folder giving all details that can be had free at the Sun-Telegraph downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street. It will be mailed to anyone whose request is accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Mail the request to the Pittsburgh Rushmore Memorial Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

A DASH OF THE MILITARY SMARTENS COATS

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS SEASON is offering more coats than it has for a long time to the woman who finds the polo model or the redingote not quite what she needs. Her ideal is a softly tailored affair which will sit well over her contract table frocks, and one which will serve her in the suburbs or the city. In fact, she wants something to be as useful and as dressy at the same time as the fur coat she has just laid away from the moths.

* * *

THE GUARDSMAN coat for this spring fits into her scheme very nicely, for it is not quite so masculine as last year's models, rather less like the original from which it stems. Cheviot and tweed are no longer its only mediums; novelty woolens, silk trimmings and giddy buttons have been adapted for it. Directoire is its new mood, and feminine its effect.

* * *

THERE IS this to be noticed about coats of the guardsman type: they have lines which make a short woman taller and a tall woman more impressive. And their V neck is universally more becoming than trick muffled effects which interfere with good shoulder and bust lines.

(Copyright, 1934 King Features Synd., Inc.)

The model at the left is Schiaparelli's new guardsman coat with a directoire flavor to dress it up

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Science Has Conquered Anthrax

Several hundred residents of a small mill village were recently warned against a threatened anthrax epidemic. I am glad to say that because of these precautions the epidemic was soon controlled. At present there is no fear of the spread of this unusual disease. Fear of the epidemic was traced to the affliction of four men suffering from anthrax, workers in a local woolen mill.

Dr. Copeland.

Anthrax is a disease which affects cattle. But it can be transmitted to humans by the handling of skins, hair or diseased animals. At one time, it was a common disease among workers in the hide, hair, bristle, wool, horn and bone industries, as well as among butchers, veterinarians and farm laborers.

The disease is also known as "wool sorters' disease," "splenic fever" and "malignant pustule." It is caused by a germ called the "bacillus anthracis." There are two forms of the disease, an internal and an external form.

In the external form, or anthrax of the skin, the germ enters through an abrasion, scratch or wound, usually involving the forearm, hand, neck or face. The infection first appears as a minute swelling, but soon develops into a large carbuncle about the size of a 25-cent piece.

The internal form is caused by the inhalation of the germs of the disease. This is the more severe form and may be fatal.

Fortunately, laws have been passed which help prevent the disease. For example, in certain industries where men are exposed to anthrax infection, they are protected from the disease by the compulsory use of rubber gloves and rubber aprons and by proper ventilation. The laws require the wearing of masks when the workers are exposed to dust laden with hair and wool.

Formerly, one of the hazardous occupations was in the manufacture of shaving brushes. Likewise, the brushes proved to be a serious menace to the health of the public. I am glad to say this is no longer the case. Federal and local authorities carefully inspect these industrial plants and insure thorough disinfection of the hair used in the manufacture of brushes.

All brushes are now stamped with the trade mark of the manufacturer who must comply with certain requirements. Avoid all brushes that do not clearly show the seal of a reliable manufacturer. If you are in doubt about the cleanliness of a brush, sterilize it for four hours in a 10 per cent formaldehyde solution.

Another important advance in the control of anthrax has been the development of a prophylactic remedy, a vaccine.

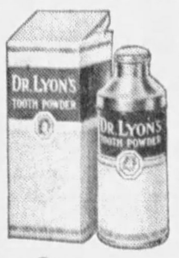
POWDER CLEANS AND WHITENS TEETH—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.



Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

+ ON BROADWAY +

The locals just returning from Hollywood think this is very amusing, but I don't. It strikes me as being first-rate tragedy. It is supposed to have actually happened recently, at a cocktail party, when a Hollywood gossip writer for the magazines walked into a garden of a home and encountered a movie actor and a woman necking.

"Oh," explained the actor, "please don't say anything about this. It would ruin me!"

Gag

After "The Deep Purple" closed here a hit, the co-author, Wilson Mizner, followed it to San Francisco for its opening there. He came to be hailed as the local lad, with Paul Armstrong, who set Broadway on fire. The first night in the foyer he overheard his brother, an attorney, talking to the critics.

"The show is marvelous," his brother was saying. "It amazes me!"

Mizner swelled with pride
Finally one critic queried:

"Just what is there about this show that makes it so good?"

"It amazes me," replied Mizner's brother, "that it took two apparently intelligent men to write one such lousy play!"

Nice Story

They tell of the time Gertrude Stein, author of "No Sense in Three Acts" was studying philosophy at Radcliffe Hall. The late William James, brother of Henry, was professoring. At exam time Gertrude had to prepare a paper on philosophy. She just wrote:

"I don't feel like writing about philosophy today," and turned it in.

James sent back a note saying:

"I often feel that way myself," and gave her an "A!"

Prefer to dance instead of eat?
They make their dates for after dinner
And day by day I'm getting thinner

Sure Death

A critic, who is as phoney as an eleven-dollar bill, recently took a hard rap at Rudy Vallee in a magazine. Rudy was bitter about it.

Lesson in Painting

Charles G. Shaw, whose oils of Manhattan are on exhibit at the Valentine Galleries, isn't sure what his medium is yet, paint and canvas or prose.

In response to the query, however, he thinks his retort would be that of George Moore, who said:

"It does not matter how badly you paint, so long as you don't paint badly like other people."

King a Dramatic Actor Before He Ever Sang In Musical Play

By GEORGE SEIBEL

There is a current impression that Dennis King, who is playing in "Richard of Bordeaux" in the Nixon this week, deserted musical romance for straight drama. This is wrong, for his whole career has been on the speaking stage, with the exception of four heroic tenor roles. These were in "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King," "The Three Musketeers," and "Show Boat." But the hit he made in these musical romances overshadowed the work he had done before, so that theatergoers came to think of him as a musical star rather than an actor.

Mr. Seibel

King has a fine record in straight drama. He was two seasons with the Theater Guild, playing the role of Cain in Shaw's "Back to Methuselah," and the leading role in a Milne play. After that he was Jane Cowl's Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet."

He tells the story of that engagement amusingly. He was the twenty-first actor considered for the role, Leslie Howard having been the twentieth. "They concluded they couldn't do any worse," he says, "so they took me."

Since his retirement from musical romances, he has also appeared in a revival of "Peter Ibbetson," and the critical comment was better than that accorded to John Barrymore, who created the role in the original production.

BORN IN COVENTRY

Dennis King is an Englishman and was born in Coventry, the city made famous by Peeping Tom, Lady Godiva, George Eliot and Ellen Terry. He went on the stage at the mature age of 14, being call-boy in a company managed by John Drinkwater. To Drinkwater, who later wrote "Abraham Lincoln" and "Bird in Hand," he owes his primary education for the stage. He came to America at the age of 22, and appeared first in a minor part in the musical version of "Monsieur Beaucaire."

Having been born at Coventry, he should feel quite at home in "Richard of Bordeaux," for it was "at Coventry upon St. Lambert's Day" that the joust or duel takes place between Norfolk and Bolingbroke—but that's in Shakespeare's play of "Richard II."

It may be seriously questioned whether Dennis King might not have done better to take the Shakespeare tragedy, which has scenes of great poetic passion. But the play that ran over a year in London certainly has rich literary value, besides affording opportunity for a fine characterization in the modern psychologic manner.

Shakespeare also has his Richard killed in the closing scenes by Sir Pierce Exton, though no one knows what really happened to Richard. When his body was exhumed years ago, no wounds were found upon the skull. He may have been starved or frozen to death, but certainly he was not killed with a battle axe.

HE MET THE AUTHOR

Another link of Dennis King, Coventry and "Richard of Bordeaux," is that Gordon Daviot, the author, is really a woman, who assumed this pen-name to hide her identity—just like George Eliot. Dennis King has met the lady and describes her as a charming Scottish spinster on the bright side of spinsterhood. She has written novels and short stories for years, beginning literary work at the age of 17. She lives on the site of Macbeth's Castle, near Inverness, up in the Highlands. Her real name is Elizabeth MacIntosh.

She has put a powerful plea for peace among nations into her drama, and this suits Dennis King, who fought in the English army in Flanders at the age of 16. He knows what war is, and feels that he is rendering a service to civilization by voicing King Richard's sentiments about peace and international amity.

But most of all and first of all, Dennis King is an ambitious actor, who will go on to finer and higher things if the public will let him have his way.

Burning City On Screen

One of the most disastrous fires on record is pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. It swept the city of Hakodate, Japan, an important seaport north of Tokio, cost 1,500 lives, destroyed 23,000 buildings and rendered 200,000 homeless.

The Globe Trotter describes the tragedy.

Army day is marked by a spectacular exhibition by the Chemical Corps at Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland. At West Point the cadets put on a brilliant review for visiting Congressmen.

After having seen motion pictures of Clyde Barrow, notorious bandit, and his gun-moll, Bonnie Parker, William Schieffer, Texas farmer, believes them to be the two who participated in the killing of the two highway motorcycle policemen, near Dallas. The farmer reenacted the dramatic story.

Chippewa Falls and Alma, both in Wisconsin, suffer from spring floods, the latter threatened by the rising of the Mississippi, endangering the town's new dam.

The world's biggest bridge party is held at St. Petersburg, Fla., where 4,800 players participate.

Congressman Clarence J. McLeod, of Michigan, outlines his bill, which provides that RFC moneys be used to take over frozen assets of closed banks and pay off depositors 100 per cent. "In return, the government would receive the assets of these closed banks, which are fundamentally sound," he said.

Note: Because of the necessity upon theater managers to arrange programs to their audiences, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

Homing Chickens Convict Their Vendor

A Maywood produce dealer purchased some chickens from Earl V. Nelson. Berry thought them his, was unable to identified having stolen them having stolen them.

So Hudson took the chickens to a point half way between the Berry farm and the house occupied by Nelson, and turned them loose. Came dusk and the 14 fowls went to the Berry hen house to roost.

Bridegroom Says Hollywood Talk Sours Marriages

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 12.—Hello! "Hollywood won't let you be happily married if it can help it!" Bruce Cabot, one of the film colony's bridegrooms, was speaking.

Cabot has been married just six months to Adrienne Ames, and he made it clear that he intends to remain happily married to her several times that many years.

"But," he added, "it will not be because of Hollywood, but rather despite it. The movie village isn't intentionally malicious. It is just the nature of the place, where every screen player's private business is common property.

"Many a divorce has been started on its way to the courts through some apparently harmless remark or a bit of gossip which was magnified as it passed along until it assumed startling proportions."

Screen married couples can't act like ordinary husbands and wives, Cabot pointed out. They must consider the spotlight which beats upon them.

"They can't even enjoy the luxury of an occasional 'love spat'," said he. "It's apt to get into the headlines and start divorce rumors.

"Fortunately, we did not have to face one hazard which sometimes endangers Hollywood marriages. There was, and is, no career jealousy between us. I want Adrienne to continue her picture work and she is vastly interested in mine. It is still our great ambition to appear in a film together. We both feel we could do our finest work playing opposite each other."

And that is Mr. Cabot's way of telling those "I-knew-they-wouldn't-stay-married long" gossips a thing or two!

Love's Sweet Nightmare

OVER IN the West Forties, today's heroine runs a boarding house. Her name in this story is Gertrude Scrunch—and she is 50, fat and failing. But did these things stop her from falling in love? Ah, my friends, think not so. All humans are the same. Were Miss Scrunch 70, snappy and sick, she would still have heeded the call of romance.

For this lady had craved love ever since she was able to remember, and that was plenty long. But if Cupid had shot an arrow at her, it had landed in the wrong spot. For she had never been any closer to a romance than a balcony seat in a picture house. And that isn't much satisfaction when the Winter nights are long and cold.

For 20 years, Gertrude Scrunch had slaved in her boarding house. For 20 years, she had scrubbed floors, washed dishes, cooked meals and pacified irascible roomers. And for more than 20 years she had longed for the moment when an eager suitor would come to claim her as his own true love.

But nothing ever happened. Absolutely nothing. Until one morning not so very long ago when Phineas Walsh stepped into her boarding house—and into her life.

Although Gertrude was no prize package, Phineas didn't quite reach her level. He looked like the booby prize in a grab bag. He was small, nervous, squinty-eyed and a trifle simple-minded. He had a bald spot, a few gold teeth and a nose that seemed to travel in different directions.

To Gertrude, however, he was Mr. Physical Culture of 1933. Romance plays stranger tricks than Houdini ever thought of. A few days of Phineas Walsh, and Gertrude Scrunch was convinced that this man was her dream prince. Here was love with a capital L. And romance with a capital "Ah."

The evenings, after Phineas arrived, were much different from those of the past. Immediately after supper, the man parked himself in the most comfortable chair in the living room, until it was time to hit the hay. True, it wasn't much of a way to spend an evening. But Gertrude didn't care. She was completely happy.

Phineas kissed her one night—and Gertrude almost gave the boarding house to the Salvation Army. As he held her in his arms, Phineas told her about his stocks.

"Yes, sir," he admitted shyly, "I may not have much now, but it ain't always gonna be like this. Some day, I'm gonna be a rich man. A mighty rich man."

Gertrude gazed at him inquiringly.

"Just wait an' see," the little man boasted. "Them stocks I put my cash into will bring me some real money one of these days. I know what I'm talking about. Want I should show them to you?"

He raced upstairs and came down a few moments later with a fistful of beautifully engraved sheets of paper. Gertrude's heart sank when she saw them. They were shares in something known as the "Gin Blossom Gold Mine"—and even the woman's limited experience assured her that they weren't worth the price of the engraving. But Phineas seemed to think he was holding the Bank of England in his hands.

"When I get rich with these," he assured her, "I'm gonna ask you to—to marry me. Not till then, though, 'cause I got nothin' now but a little job. But it won't be long, Gertrude. One of these days, I'll be a mighty rich man." . . .

A few days later, Gertrude sat in her lawyer's office. He wasn't much of a lawyer, and he had round heels (I fooled you) from chasing ambulances. He was the type of attorney you'd expect Gertrude to have.

He hung up the phone, and wheeled around to his client. His office was so small that, if he had taken one more wheel, he'd have been in the corridor.

"'Gin Blossom' stock is practically worthless," he announced. "Half a cent a share will buy all you want."

"Just what I thought," replied Gertrude. "Now you listen to me. For the first time in my life I'm in love with a man. His name is Phineas Walsh, and he don't look like much. But he's my man, and I love him.

"I've been savin' all my life, and I've got about $8,000. I've brought it with me. I could just as well give it to Phineas outright, but, bein' the kind of man he is, he wouldn't take it. So I got to do it this way.

"He's gat a bunch of shares in that phoney 'Gin Blossom' mine. You're gonna call him down here an' give him my $8,000 for his stock. He'll think he made the money legitimate—and we'll get married on it.

"Don't tell me I'm crazy. I'm in love, and that's all there is to it. Here's the $8,000—and don't try any funny business 'cause I had the dough all counted and the numbers wrote down in the bank. You get $100 for the job. You understand?"

The attorney nodded excitedly. For $100 he would have guaranteed the building of a statue to each of the defendants in the Scottsboro case in every state in the South . . .

Exactly 24 hours later, Phineas rushed into the kitchen of Gertrude Scrunch's boarding house. He clasped his fair lady to his heart.

"Them gold stocks," he panted. "You didn't really think I'd make no money on 'em, did you? Well, I sold 'em this afternoon to a big lawyer what wanted 'em an' I made a fine profit. Nearly eight thousand dollars!"

"That's fine, darling," returned Gertrude happily. "But you'd better put the money away in some safe place. We'll be needin' it, you know."

Phineas' smile grew still brighter.

"Oh," he grinned, "the money is safe enough. You know what, Gert? I had such good luck with them stocks, and it was so easy, I didn't see why I couldn't do it again. So I put that eight thousand right back in some more of them 'Gin Blossom' gold mine stocks!" . . .

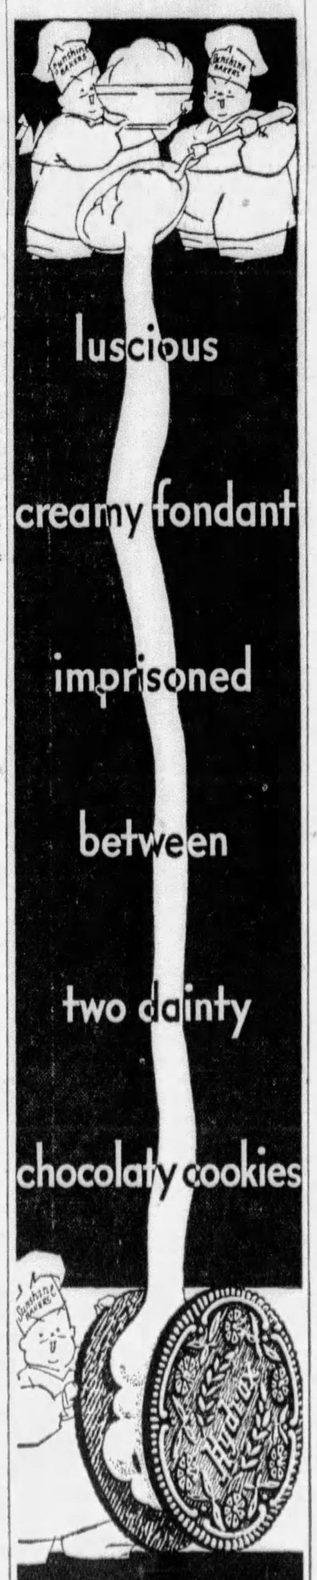
British to Honor Harvard Scientist

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 12.—(INS.)—Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Astronomical Observatory, has been granted a three weeks' leave of absence to go to England to receive the gold medal of the London Royal Astronomical Society on May 11, it was announced today.

The gold medal is the highest distinction given in England for astronomical research, and is awarded to Dr. Shapley for his work on the galaxies.



Farce to Be Offered By Newman Group

As the fourth production of their current series the Newman Players will present "Master Pierre Patelin," an old French farce, April 15, 16 and 17 in the Cathedral High School auditorium, Craig street. Madeleine Skelly Foust is stage director and Gerald A. Doran is technical director. The cast includes Roy Henry, Clarissa Gailliot, John McQuade, Joseph Mackil and Don Sanker.

Chaplin Film Outlined

That reported break between Paulette Goddard and Charles Chaplin must have afforded the comedian a good deal of quiet amusement. The whole thing seems to have had no more foundation than the fact that Charlie had a visitor in tow and Paulette went to spend a few days in the desert with her mother.

Charlie's visitor was E. V. Lucas, now on his way back to England.

Lucas, who is the editor of the British humorous magazine, "Punch," came all the way from London to California to do research on the essayist, Charles Lamb. The Huntington Library in Pasadena has a store of material on the early English author.

Chaplin's associates believe the comedian may soon begin work upon his new picture. He has an outline of the story and has had his cameraman, Rollie Totheroh, and his art director, Danny Hall, on salary since last September.

BUCCANEER HURLERS APPEAR READY FOR FLAG CHASE

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Pirate Pitching Improves
Lucas' Brace Gratifying
Carey Never in Control
Denies Approving Deals
Marathon Nurmi's Goal
Tendler Ranks Fighters

George Gibson evidently went after some of his lagging pitchers with a stout stick, judging by the way they have buckled down to business. Of course, it did not mean any change in form when Larry French came through with a victory over the White Sox on Tuesday. French, the only dependable of the spring, has been doing that right along. He has won six games, going the route twice, and in his only other start the Bucs were leading when he withdrew in the fifth inning. But it spelled a marked improvement in the work of two other pitchers when Waite Hoyt and Red Lucas yesterday let the Pale Hose down without a run.

Red Lucas

The sudden change for the better gives much encouragement to a fan community that was finding it increasingly difficult to fight off a feeling of anxiety in connection with the Pirate pitching outlook. Particularly pleasing is the improved form of Lucas. Red occupies a place of special prominence and importance in the Pittsburgh picture. Hopes for 1934 are based largely on him as the ace right-hander of the staff and the man who is expected to share the main hurling burden with French, and signs that he has finally arrived at the form counted on are highly gratifying to all Pirate followers.

MILLVALE FAN SENDS IN SOME QUERIES

Writing from Millvale, "Veritas" requests answers to these queries: 1. Did Honus Wagner start his baseball career as a left-hand pitcher? 2. Didn't the hit-and-run game develop during Jimmy Galvin's days, or was it originated by the Baltimore Orioles? 3. Was Rube Waddell the original spitball pitcher?

Wagner did some pitching, as well as shortstop and outfield playing in his days with the old Mansfield club in what is now Carnegie in 1891-92-93, but never after he became a professional, and at no time did he pitch left-handed. While the Baltimore Orioles were credited with perfecting the hit-and-run play, the late Arthur Irwin once assured Pittsburgh interviewers that not only the hit-and-run, but the squeeze play, supposed to have come in later, had been used by the Providence Grays, of which club Irwin was a member for four years, when they won the National League pennant in 1884. Rube Waddell never was a spitball pitcher. The spitball was discovered by Frank Corriden and perfected by Elmer Stricklett.

CAREY NEVER REAL MANAGER OF DODGERS

Still bitter against the Brooklyn club, Max Carey asserts in his latest outburst that he never was given actual control of the Dodgers as manager, and that everything was run from the business office. Max charges that Joe Hutcheson, the $19,000 lemon from Memphis, was purchased without a say-so from him. And he repeats that he did not approve the trade of Lefty O'Doul and Watson Clark for Sam Leslie, saying that he never liked Leslie as a first baseman. The deal was made by the front office, Carey avers, in spite of a long-distance telephone call he made from Philadelphia in an effort to stop it.

Max Carey

Max intends to fish all summer in Miami and let the Brooklyn club pay for the bait out of the $12,500 he received for the breaking of his contract. He has received several offers to coach in the minors or to scout for major league clubs, but has something bigger on the fire. This is a baseball school which he plans to open next winter in Miami. Carey says it will be a bigger school than Ray Doan's in Hot Springs, or Kid Elberfeld's in Fort Myers. There will be two classes, one for youngsters of 16 or under, and the other for legitimate prospects that have a chance of getting somewhere in organized ball. Carey will ask such players as Chuck Klein, Jimmy Foxx, Carl Hubbell and Al Lopez to teach an hour or two each day for the chance of wintering in Miami without expense.

NURMI STILL AIMS AT OLYMPIC MARATHON

The popular notion that Paavo Nurmi had been irrevocably ruled a professional and would not again be eligible for amateur running competition may have to be discarded. As far as Finland is concerned, Nurmi is still an amateur. Moreover, he is said to be running as well as ever, and the Finns are hoping that when the Olympic Congress sits in Stockholm the coming summer Paavo will be reinstated with a clean bill of health and given a chance at Berlin in 1936 to realize his life-long ambition, the winning of the Olympic marathon.

It is Nurmi's aim not only to win that event, but to run it in the fastest time ever known. He has had his mind on a new record ever since Juan Zabala, of Argentina, pattered into the Los Angeles stadium in 1932 to win the marathon in 2 hours, 31 minutes and 36 seconds, the best mark ever made in the Olympic Games. And now Nurmi's ambition has been fired anew by the fact that Zabala's time has been beaten by somebody else, for while the length of the course was disputed, William Steiner, of the German-American A. C., was credited with the all-time mark of 2 hours, 23 minutes and 5 seconds in defeating Paul DeBruyn recently. Paavo craves a chance to set a record in the next Olympics that will end all debate.

TENDLER'S VIEWS ON GREATEST FIGHTERS

Lefty Lew Tendler, who probably would have become world lightweight champion if Benny Leonard had not been hanging around at the same time, takes a commonsense stand in selecting a list of the best fighters in the various divisions. He doesn't go back to the days of Bob Fitzsimmons, Terry McGovern and other greats of that time or earlier, because he knows of them only by hearsay, preferring to confine his selections to the men whom he actually saw in action.

Lew Tendler

Tendler names Jack Johnson as the greatest heavyweight ever to come under his observation. He saw Jack Dempsey at the latter's best, but thinks the Negro was superior. Lew declined to consider Gene Tunney for the top ranking among the heavyweights, but does not hesitate to pronounce Tunney the king of the light-heavies. The middleweight division leaves Tendler stumped. He says he can't decide whether Harry Greb or Mickey Walker was the better 160-pounder. Lew gives Walker the decision among the welterweights, however, and says he knows from personal experience that Benny Leonard was the greatest lightweight. Johnny Kilbane gets the featherweight award, and Kid Williams is ranked first among the bantams. Tendler does not assert that the fighters of his day were better in every way than the current crop, but expresses the opinion that Williams, Kilbane, Leonard, Walker, Greb, Tunney and Johnson at their best would lick any men at their weights among the leading battlers now active in the ring.

GREEN BATTLE SPURNED BY FOUTTS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Leave it to the unruffled Ray Foutts, manager of Ted Yarosz, the boxer, to handle situations as they crop up without going into hysterics about them.

With everybody seemingly trying to panic him into signing his Yarosz man for a fight with One Punch Anson Green, the Dark Destroyer, of Homestead, and telling him how much money the fight will draw at Forbes Field and how he can get himself and Teddy a nice, big, fat, juicy $5,000 guarantee, etc., etc., and still one more of the same, the calm and collected first citizen of East Liverpool, O., jingles the change from that last dollar bill in his jeans and says in measured tones and not the accents wild in which a fight manager is supposed to declaim whether or not he has anything to say:

"So they want Teddy to fight Anson, do they? And for $5,000? Well, well, that's a lot of money, but it's not enough. I'm not trying to steam up this match, but, if anybody wants it, let him pay for it.

CAN'T SEE MATCH

"It's this way as I see it. Green has yet to fight his first main bout, and, therefore, still is a preliminary boy, while Yarosz is supposed to be the uncrowned middleweight champion of the world. The only recommendation Green has for the match is the one chance in a thousand that he might catch Teddy napping, as he did Danny Hassett and Al Rossi, two out-of-town fighters who knew nothing of his style, and knock Teddy out. If he didn't do that, Teddy would beat him so badly the promoters would have to leave town for putting on such a ridiculous match.

"Now that's the cold truth about the whole thing and I am sure anybody who knows anything at all about boxing will see it that way if he only takes time to cool off and think things over.

SETS PRICE HIGH

"Neither Teddy nor I cares to be a part of such a one-sided affair in which Teddy, on the threshold of winning the championship of the world after five years of effort, would be risking everything and would stand to gain nothing but dollars, while Green would be full of ambition with the chance to land one swing that would lift him from the preliminaries to a titular match overnight. We both think they are rushing Green along too fast. However, if they insist and start to accuse Teddy of being afraid of Green we may have to take them up.

"If we do it will be on these conditions—that the promoter will have to be a responsible man with plenty of money in the bank, that he guarantee Teddy $7,500 with a privilege of 40 per cent of the gate receipts and that he put up $1,000 to guarantee good faith when the articles are signed. I want this for protection, because I believe the drawing powers of such a match are being exaggerated, and we are not going to suffer for a flop, and I can't see how a match between a champion and a fellow who has yet to fight his first main bout can be otherwise when the public starts to thinking it over."

PLAY FAIR WITH FANS

Spoken like one of the real Foutts-es. It is generally agreed that Ray is just about the shrewdest manager of fighters in these parts when it comes to getting everything there is in sight for his man and exercising judgment in matching him. For his fight with Jimmy Smith at Motor Square Garden, Foutts got Teddy 35 per cent of the gate, and for fighting a former champion, Ben Jeby, at Duquesne Garden last week, Teddy drew down 32½ per cent. And he's worth it because he's the only local drawing card we have for the larger arenas.

Foutts is honest, and his fighter is earnest. They could just as easily grab that dough for a fight with Green and keep quiet about it, but they know as well as the promoters that Green isn't ready and won't be until he gets a few more good fights under his belt. Granted that he can punch, he'd have to be lucky to tag the fast-moving and experienced Yarosz, who knows what to avoid. Maybe late in the summer it will be different, but not now.

Yarosz' manager deserves some orchids, if they are not out of place in the fight game, for his frankness and adroitness in handling the situation as he does in his statement. In telling the promoters to tell Green to go and get a reputation or to improve on the one he is gradually building for himself, he is doing the boxing game and the fans a service, if not the willing Anson himself. There are a lot of fellows Anson can fight before he will be ready to be sent in there to be sacrificed to Yarosz with only one chance in a thousand of winning.

Ray Eberle, the Aliquippa lightweight boxer, turns professional against Johnny Birek in a six-round preliminary to a Mose Butch-Jimmy Gilligan bout at Salem, O., Friday night of next week.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A MIRACLE OF RECOVERY—Bradley Burson's recovery after he was shot through the head in an accident, the bullet passing behind both eyes, has been termed a miracle and a "one-in-a-million" case by the attending physician. The accident was the result of somebody "playfully" aiming a gun at Bradley's head, a practice that cannot be sufficiently warned against. Although brain fibers were pressed into Bradley's blood by the impact of the bullet, the eyeballs were not shattered and, except for blindness in one eye, he is in perfect physical condition.

TULSA, Okla., April 12.—The airtight form shown by several of his first choice hurlers gave Pirate Manager Gibson a feeling of comfort today as his flag-hunters reached the penultimate stop on their long springtime training grind.

Gibby was rejoicing as a result of the slab feat turned in yesterday at Oklahoma City by Waite Hoyt and Red Lucas, a pair of seasoned righthanders who had so much stuff to show the White Sox, the American Leaguers had to suffer the humiliation of a shutout defeat. Buccaneer bats, meantime, were working overtime and the National Leaguers copped the game by a 13-0 count. It was the first whitewash party put on by the Pirates this spring.

GIBSON SATISFIED

On the previous afternoon, Southpaw Larry French was in a similar stride until his club made so many tallies he deemed it the better part of judgment to let up in his stuff. So Gibby feels he has three or four sharpshooters anyone of whom would welcome the mound assignment when the Freebooters jump off next Tuesday at St. Louis.

Schoolboy Hoyt was in such form at Oklahoma City he permitted only two hits in five frames. Sorrel-top Lucas picked up Waite's baton in the sixth and directed the shutout score through four more stanzas while giving up only five hits.

Boss Gibson has Bill Swift groomed for slab action today. Bill will go as far as he feels like moving and when he retires Heinie Meine will go to the slab, provided his back is not bothering him.

Meine, being a nemesis to the Cardinals, would be a natural choice for duty Tuesday, but Heinie strained a muscle in his back while working a game in Los Angeles. He has been a bit slow to recover from the twist, but he thinks he will be O. K. in a few days.

BUCS HIT HARD

The Buccos piled up 17 hits in trimming the White Sox for the seventh time in a dozen games. Gus Suhr led the attack with a triple, a double and two singles. Heving and Gaston were the victims of the violent batting.

The contest at Oklahoma City was played on a windswept field which placed a premium on fielding. More than 4,000 fans were out despite the stiff breezes, the presence of the Waner boys being a big attraction. The little Pirate stars are natives of the sector.

CHILLYSAUCE

George Gibson is greatly pleased with Catcher Art Veltman. Earl Grace is hitting the ball like a star, but will have to stay at a fast clip to hold his first-string honors while the San Antonio boy is around. Several of the team's first-string pitchers like Veltman's style as a receiver.

Despite Gibby's impression of his new catcher, however, Grace is likely to hold to his honors in view of his left-hand batting stance. Earl is extremely dangerous at the plate when the right-handers work against the Pirates and his punch may be essential to the club's success.

Meantime, Earl and Art have put Hal Finney and Tom Padden into almost total eclipse. One of the two will be placed with a minor league club of high classification.

The ill effect of rushing a young ball player appears to have been illustrated in the case of Finney. Hal came from a horse-and-buggy league of the South to the Bucco several years ago. He was far removed from the class needed by a major receiver, but the youngster had so much natural ability he was kept around. Hal erred, and he was sadly in need of actual experience. In other words, a year in Class AA League would have polished him. He did not get this and now he has to fight for a third string job.

Gibby and other veterans of the Pirate squad have a lot of fun with Cookie Lavagetto. The boss and his aides think the kid will make a fine player, and when he isn't around they rave over his clever steps. In Tuesday's fray the youngster turned in a one-hand stop of a drive over second and got his first putout by a brilliant recovery. When the youngster approached the manager in left, Gibson shouted:

Luke Appling has a big reputation among the shortstops of the American League, but Luke has had tough sailing on the present journey. Appling gets over a lot of ground and he snaps the ball hard and accurately from many angles, but he has a pronounced weakness on ground balls. At least this is the impression one gets form watching the boy on the hardscrabble grounds of the West.

The famous Waner act of the Pirates listened to homegrown applause on the Oklahoma City ball park as the Bucco and White Sox clashed yesterday afternoon. The mother and father of Paul and Lloyd were among those present. The first named has recently recovered from pneumonia.

CARD SPORT CARNIVAL

The annual indoor winter sports carnival at the Arnold School will be held this weekend. The junior school will stage its program of sports carried out tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the gym. Saturday morning, starting at 9 o'clock, the upper classes will go through their stunts. The program includes boxing, wrestling, dashes, the high jump and shot put.

STATE SHOOT SET

READING, April 12.—(AP.)—The forty-fourth annual Pennsylvania state shoot will be held at Reading, June 13-16, under the auspices of the South End Gun Club, of Reading. More than 400 target shots are expected to face the Lorane traps.

ASSOCIATION MEETS HERE TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

George J. McKee, of the Oakmont Country Club, will be inducted into office as president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association at its annual meeting at the Duquesne Club this evening.

The Oakmonter will succeed Robert Smith, popular Greensburg barrister, in the presidential chair. His executive board will include Edward E. McCoy, Longue Vue Country Club, vice president; George A. Ormiston, Oakmont, secretary, and James A. Barber, Alcoma Country Club, treasurer.

The work of the nominating committee will be completed with the presentation of the names of Thomas S. Jamison, Hannastown Country Club; John McGraw, Pittsburgh Field Club; J. Bernd Rose, Allegheny Country Club, and Park Alexander, Oakmont Country Club, as the board of governors to serve three years.

A number of important problems faces the organization, including dates for the outstanding tourneys sponsored by the local body. The West Penn open, amateur, father and sons, junior, senior and caddie tourneys will be discussed. The setting of probable venues and the dates likely will be put off for a couple of weeks.

The caddie tourney was abandoned last year, but Ed McCoy, vice president, never fails the caddies, and part of the welfare work that he sponsors is the caddie championship.

With the national dates already set and the schedule making of the Pennsylvania State Golf Association also completed, the allotting of dates should not cause the executive committee much trouble.

Next Monday night, at the William Penn Hotel, the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association will hold its annual meeting.

French Net Stars Down U. S. Aces

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 12.—(AP.)—Henri Cochet, French tennis star, triumphed over Vincent Richards, American pro expert, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, before a small crowd here last night.

Martin Plaa, another Frenchman, easily defeated Bruce Barnes, Texan, 6-2, 6-1; and the foreign team conquered Richards and Barnes, 6-3, 6-3, in a doubles match.

RAMEY BEATS KELSO

MILWAUKEE, April 12.—Word just received from Sydney, Australia, says more than 12,000 excited fans saw Wesley Ramey, of Grand Rapids, Mich., defeat Jimmy Kelso, Australian lightweight champion, in 15 rounds at the Sydney Stadium. It was brains against brawn and gameness and the former won out. The defeat of Kelso killed what chance his friends hoped he had of winning the world lightweight championship. They may be rematched unless Kelso keeps his promise to retire. Speedy Dado, Los Angeles bantamweight, has just lost to Darkey Blandon, Negro holder of the Australian title, in 15 rounds here.

SOCCER RIVALS TO CLASH

The Heidelberg Soccer Club will face Gallatin in the first game of a three-game series for the Western Pennsylvania senior title at Greenlee Field next Sunday afternoon, with the kick-off scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

Added interest has been attached to the game since Harry Sickles and his boys defeated Curry, the defending champion, last Sunday.

It is true that Heidelberg does not have an outstanding player such as Buff Donnelli for Sickles to concentrate upon, but on the other hand the Heidelberg attack is perfect, and any player is likely to score. That is why the Green and Gold is hard to stop.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

MANOS, CLARK FACE TEST

An abbreviated quarter-final bill comprises this afternoon's activity in the annual Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U. senior doubles handball title tourney on the courts of the Keystone Athletic Club. Two tilts today will complete the competition in the bracket of eight and will pave the way for the semi-finals tomorrow and wind-up on Saturday.

Theos Manos and Curtis Clark, veteran Keystoners and defending champions, engage in their initial skirmish of the event at 4:30 o'clock today by taking on the powerful Y. M. H. A. outfit of Dave Olbum and Sam Gladstone. Manos and Clark drew a bye through round one and in meeting the Olbum-Gladstone combine plunge into stormy waters without opportunity to try out their sea legs. The verdict is far, far from being in the bag for the premiers.

The other fray is booked for 6 o'clock and calls for a tussle between the agile Keystone coalition of Bob Clark and M. P. Hinnebusch and the hard-hitting P. A. A. pair, Vin McGuinness and Eddie Roche.

Favorites rode through yesterday's contests. Bob Clark and Hinnebusch contrived to eliminate the Downtown Y crew of Steve Horvath and M. Y. Poling, 9-21, 21-17, 21-12. Evening jousts saw Lou Alman and Frank Altmar, Y. M. H. A. duo and second seeded contenders, advance at expense of the hard-fighting Y. M. C. A. team of Al McCabe and Bill Rohaly, 21-3, 21-9, and beheld the Keystone youngsters, Frank Koubek and Parker Smith, account for S. L. Burgwin and F. B. Ashcraft, hustling Westinghousers, by a tally of 19-21, 21-8, 21-17.

COUNTY GAME TONIGHT

Charleroi and the McCanns meet tonight at Charleroi in the opening game of the playoff series for the second half championship of the County League.

IMPORTANT NET MEETING SET FOR TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Robert C. Schmertz, new president of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association has hopped promptly into the thick of the responsibilities relinquished by his predecessor, J. Phillips Davis. Already Schmertz has called a meeting of his executive committee, ruling group under the new P. T. A. constitution. The pow-pow has been fixed for the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club at noon today and out of it should be derived some order from the chaos that concerns the First Division of the Inter-Club League.

Precisely what disposition will ultimately be made of the loop matter is conjectural. The upper sector was comprised a year ago of eight teams: P. A. A., Edgewood, Stanton Heights, Shannopin, Rockwood, Westinghouse, University Club, and College Avenue. Of this octet, only Stanton Heights, Rockwood, Westinghouse, and University Club loom as 1934 certainties. There appears some question as to whether or not the P. A. A. will support its champion outfit, though it is probable that the Winged Head difficulty will at length be solved without such radical result as the elimination of an entry that year in and year out has been a mainstay of the sport in this district.

The Edgewood Club squad apparently has disbanded though there is still a possibility that the Suburbanites may sponsor a troupe in the Second Division of the circuit. Shannopin has announced withdrawal due to dearth of talent, but this defection may be remedied by installation there of a crew lately assembled by John Brown, Mount Lebanon luminary, with the idea of placing a team at the Pittsburgh Country Club.

Meanwhile, College Avenue, ready and willing to cavort in Division One, is deterred by the fact that Belmont trimmed the Collegians in the inter-divisional playoff in 1933 and thereby copped the post of the East Enders in the select circle. There is plenty of sentiment in favor of retaining College Avenue if there is a vacancy in the speedier wheel.

To complicate the situation further, Stanton Heights, augmented by re-enforcements from Edgewood, desires to sponsor two combinations in the First Division. Pittsburgh Golf Club is considering the formation of a league contender and there is very serious talk of teams at the Edgeworth Club and the Westmoreland Country Club.

SMITH ON SIDELINES

ANDY VARIPAPA TO SHOW PIN WARES HERE

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI

Andy Varipapa, veteran tenpin bowler, of New York City, has been engaged to roll a series of exhibition matches against local bowlers at the Keystone Athletic Club and the Roxian alleys, McKees Rocks, Friday, April 20. He also will give a demonstration of fancy and trick shots of his own origin. The crack pinman will show at the K. A. C. at 8 o'clock, then make a hurried trip to McKees Rocks, where he will amuse the fans of that sector.

In a match game against Joe Falcaro, Varipapa finished his 30-game series with a 253 average. He has rolled perfect games on 25 occasions and has compiled records that will stand for some time. He finished with an average of 229 for 56 contests in an inter-city doubles match at New York in 1932 and the same year he established a world record exhibition average of 278 3-5 for five games on the Charles Fritz Academy alleys, New York, totaling 1,393 pins. Varipapa has rolled 23 consecutive strikes twice.

John Brannan, manager of the Roxian alleys, has selected Fred Schmied, the only bowler to roll a 300 score in the Metropolitan Tenpin League last year; James Shimer and Ralph Dillinger to oppose the star kegler. Val Meyer will probably be one of the local bowlers to roll against Varipapa on the Keystone A. C. alleys along with other pinmen.

The second annual tenpin sweepstakes tournament opens today on the Iroquois alleys, East Liberty, and continue until April 28. The defending champions in the singles, doubles and all-event classes will see action in the meet.

According to J. D. (Nip) Perry, tournament manager, this year's entries surpassed last year's mark by a large number. Bowlers from Syracuse, N. Y., Akron, Youngstown, Canton, O., Parkersburg and Wheeling, W. Va., Bradford, Erie, Ridgeway, Clairton, Donora Pa., in addition to a host of local star pinmen, including the E. M. Tucker team, are scheduled to roll in the annual classic.

LENORE KIGHT DETHRONED AS 100-YARD SWIM CHAMPION

HOMESTEAD ACE BEATEN IN A.A.U. MEET

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—Katherine Rawls, 15-year-old high school girl from Miami Beach, Fla., and Jack Medica, 19-year-old sophomore at the University of Washington, skimmed over the waters of the Lake Shore Athletic Club pool for new world records last night as the national women's A. A. U. indoor swimming championship opened.

The Florida mermaid, starting in where she left off with her sensational campaign of 1933, shattered her own mark in the 300-yard individual medley by 2.6 seconds as she routed her older and bigger rivals in the record-smashing time of 4:12.2. Medica, in a special attempt with half a dozen official clockers on the job, shattered the world mark in the 400-meters by 3.8 seconds.

SETS NEW MARK

Medica was clocked in the event at 4:43.2. The world's mark of 4:47 was established in 1932 by Jean Taris, of Rheims, France.

Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., who dazzled the swimming world last July by winning four free style championships in the National A. A. U. outdoor at New York, fell as the big bombardment for titles and records opened.

In direct contrast to Miss Rawls' easy victory, the battle for the 100-yard free style was a thriller from start to finish. Miss McKean took the lead at the outset, yielded to Miss Kight midway in the final lap, and then came again briskly to win by the narrowest of margins in 1:03.4.

MISS GORMAN THIRD

Miss Rawls, looking more like a girl just out of grammar school than a junior in high, wasn't extended a bit as she sped on to her new triumph. She took a comfortable lead in the breast stroke, swimming that specialty in 1:28, and held the margin all the way. Her elapsed time for the breast stroke, back stroke and free style respectively was 1:28, 2:56 and 4:12. With closer competition, she might have given the world mark a harder tumble than she did. June Burr, her teammate, was second and Johanna Gorman, a teammate of Miss Kight's at the Carnegie Library Club, finished third.

Medica announced later he would make official attempts during the meet for world marks in the 880, 900 and 1,000-yard free style events.

TARTAN GOLF CARD FILLED

Matches with Pitt, Duquesne, W. & J., and the Alumni are on the golf schedule of seven matches announced today for the Carnegie Tech linksman, who are to stage their home contests at the Pittsburgh Field Club. The competition with the Panthers, Dukes and Presidents will be on a home and home basis.

The Pitt golf schedule has been altered with two matches added to the slate and the dates of two other competitions changed. Detroit will be met at Detroit on April 21 instead of April 18, and the Tartans will oppose Pitt at the Panthers' home course, St. Clair, April 25 instead of April 21. W. & J., added to the Pitt card, will be met at the St. Clair Country Club on May 16 and at the Nemacolin Country Club on May 22. The Carnegie Tech schedule:

April 28—Duquesne at Field Club.
May 5—Pitt at Field Club.
May 8—W. & J. at Nemacolin C. C.
May 12—W. & J. at Field Club.
May 16—Duquesne at Highland C. C.
May 19—Alumni at Field Club.

Eight additional schools have notified Coach Carl Olson that their track coaches and members of their squads will be in attendance at the University of Pittsburgh's first annual track and field clinic at the Pitt Stadium Saturday.

The additions of Titusville, Cresson, South Brownsville, Leetsdale, Rural Valley, McKees Rocks, McKeesport and Blairsville raised the number of promised attendants to 45, an exceptionally good showing for the inaugural year.

Coach Olson announced yesterday that the meet between the Slippery Rock varsity and the Pitt second team, originally carded for the Slippery Rock track on May 2, had been shifted to the Pitt Stadium on the same date.

TOURNEY GAINS SEMI-FINALS

WHITE SULPHER SPRINGS, W. Va., April 12.—Semi-final matches in the annual Mason and Dixon amateur gold championship tournament are scheduled for competition today.

The tourney field was narrowed down to four men yesterday as the stars battled through some close competition, featured by a pair of extra-hole matches. Robert Lester, New York, Robert Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio; Arthur Lynch, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Dan Topping, Greenwich, Conn., advanced to the semi-final round.

Lynch, co-medalist, was forced to go 19 holes to defeat Clive Alvord, of Greenwich, winning out when he sank a six-foot putt for a birdie on the nineteenth. Topping and James Watts, Washington and Lee University player, waged a long hitting duel for 20 holes before the former won out.

The other two matches brought equally surprising results as Stranahan overwhelmed E. G. Livesay, of Columbus, O., the national left-handed golf champion, 6 and 4 and Lester eliminated John B. Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., twice winner of the Mason and Dixon tourney, 4 and 2.

RUTH TO WATCH INTENTIONAL PASS RULE

By BABE RUTH

They say there is nothing new in baseball, but I guess there is. And something new, something never before attempted, is about to be tried out in the Southern Association. I have recently spent more than a week in cities of that league, two days in Atlanta, two in Birmingham, two in Nashville, two in Chattanooga, and I heard considerable about this new wrinkle which they are going to try out.

It concerns the intentional pass and I am particularly interested in the trial. I believe I have received more intentional passes than anybody who ever played baseball, and for that reason this new plan holds particular interest for me. I have always been against it, not entirely for my own sake, but for other ball players as well, and for the spectators. After all they are the fellows who pay the freight and baseball couldn't get very far without them. I knew from the reception which they have given the intentional pass for years that they are against it.

NEW RULE ADOPTED

This is the rule which the Southern Association is to try out when their season gets under way April 17.

"If, in any inning after two outs have been made, the pitcher delivers four consecutive balls to the batter, or hits a batter with a pitched ball, or if the batter is interfered with by the catcher, before the pitcher throws at least one strike, the batter shall be entitled to first base and any and all base runners occupying bases shall be advanced two bases except, with a runner on first base, or a runner on first and third, or when the bases are full, each base runner shall be advanced only one base; and except that when second and third bases are both occupied by base runners, only the runner on third base shall score, and the runner on second base shall be advanced to third base."

That is the rule adopted at a meeting of the Southern Association. It is the first definite move by any organized league, as far as I have been able to find out, to put an end to the intentional pass. Naturally the umpire cannot determine with certainty when a pass is intentional or otherwise, so the rule is worded in such a way as to inflict the penalty when the batter is not permitted to hit.

I am quite sure that all baseball will follow with keen interest this effort of the Southern Association to remove one of the most objectionable features of baseball. I sincerely hope it works out all right. Nobody is against the intentional pass any more than I am. But I have figured this out from all angles and I don't think the real answer is to be found in any such a ruling.

It is going to be tough on the pitcher to be penalized that way when he is really trying to put the ball over, but cannot do it because his control is bad. It is going to be tough on the umpires if the fourth ball under such conditions is only an inch or two inside or outside. Such a ball could be hit by a batter, and the rule is planned with the idea of penalizing the pitcher who does not permit the better to hit the ball. At the same time the batter should be protected, and if the ball is only an inch outside or inside he should walk, whether or not that sends a runner in from second base.

FAVORS NEW RULE

I think the intentional pass could be killed in a more simple way. Why not permit the batter to stay at the plate—when conditions make an intentional pass desirable by the side in the field—until he hits the ball or strikes out. Let the manager decide when a player goes up whether he should stay up there until he hits, or whether he should accept an intentional pass.

Let him go to the plate and, after four consecutive balls are pitched he has the privilege of staying there or walking to first base. He need not declare himself until the four balls are pitched. Then the effort of the defending team to prevent him from hitting the ball is defeated. He can stay at the plate until he has the opportunity to hit.

That, I believe, would solve the problem better than the rule to be tried out in the Southern Association. At the same time I believe the league is entitled to great credit for the first progressive move to cure one of the really objectionable features of baseball—the intentional pass. After all the fan pays to see either team get full opportunity to hit.

STOEFEN QUITS PINEHURST NET PLAY

PINEHURST, N. C., April 12.—(AP.)—Tired from nine weeks of competition, Lester Stoeffen dropped out of singles play in the North and South tournament yesterday, defaulting in the second round to A. L. Bruneau, of Brooklyn.

The tall Californian, seeded third, told the tournament committee he was tired as a result of steady tournament play for the past two months and did not feel he should continue in the singles. He will play in the doubles, however, with Bryan Grant, the tiny Atlantan with whom he won the title here last year.

PEDEN AND ZACH WIN GRIND

CLEVELAND, April 12.—(AP.)—A Canadian and a Swiss wheeled around the oval at Public Hall in a furious hour of cycling late last night to receive the floral horseshoe in token of victory in Cleveland's second six-day bicycle race since the snow began flying last fall.

William (Torchy) Peden, of Victoria, B. C., and Fred Zach, of Switzerland, wound up after 144 hours of work at the pedals about 200 points ahead of their rivals who made life miserable for the leading combination during the final sprints.

Second was the team of Alfred Letourneur, France, and Henri Le Page, Montreal, even on laps with Peden and Zach but at a disadvantage in points. For a total of 2,452 miles the winners had seven laps on the field and 949 points. Letourneur and Le Page had seven laps but only 751 points.

This Pitt eleven was undefeated until it played Southern California in a Tournament of Roses postseason game. Luby was mentioned on many all-star teams. He played guard.

Jesse Quatse, a tackle ace, and Warren Heller, halfback, will be among other Pitt graduates with the local pros this year, their second in the National League.

TUCKERS BEATEN

The second place Fort Pitt team obtained revenge by blanking the leading E. M. Tuckers in a Metropolitan Tenpin League match last night on the former's alleys. Iron City won two out of three games from the Mucks and the Auditorium No. 1 team took a pair from the North Side Elks.

WHITAKER CLUB DROPS OUT OF CITY LOOP

The roster of the City Baseball League was reduced to five clubs last night when, at the regular meeting of the circuit held in the Hotel Henry, the Whitaker club notified President Everett Sweeny of its withdrawal from the circuit.

This action leaves Books, Dormont, Homewood, Parmelee and the Chelsea club still in the league. At the conclusion of the meeting, Sweeny stated that should another club be available it would be considered, but if not, the schedule will be drawn up with five clubs.

Squire Ackerman, sponsor of the Whitaker club, wanted the City League to permit his club to play in two leagues. This permission was not granted.

Sweeny was re-elected president and secretary, while F. P. Alger was retained as treasurer. Ossie Smythe, James Black, Calvin Bolster and league officers were chosen as the arbitration board. The season will open the second week in May.

WHO SAYS ALL GASOLINES ARE ALIKE?

Is there any real difference in gasolines? Of a dozen good brands, is any one really better than the others? For the first time in gasoline history, these questions are frankly answered by a series of amazing tests on famous American hills with 33 gasolines.

TO PROVE, once and for all, that there is a big difference in gasolines, Gulf travelled to 12 well-known hills—in New England, in the Middle Atlantic states, and in the South.

At each of these locations, we bought from 7 to 13 well-known gasolines from local service stations, including Gulf.

Each of these gasolines was then forced to propel a car and heavy load up a steep mountain grade until the motor stalled. The distance travelled by each gas determined its ranking in the test. NOW READ WHAT HAPPENED!

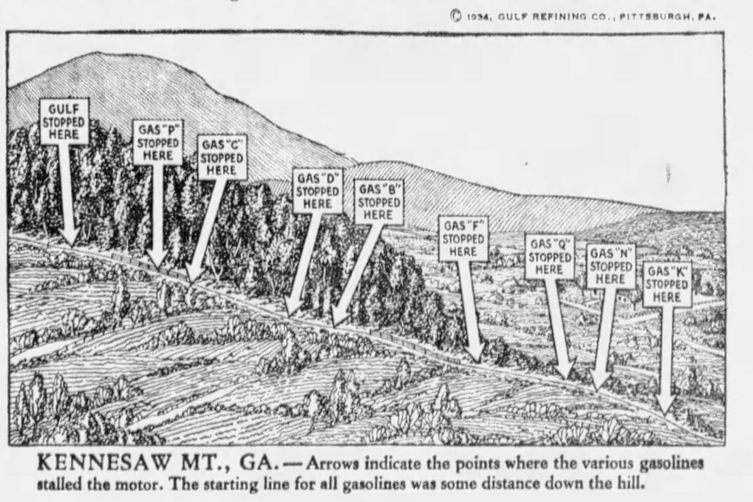
STANDING ROOM ONLY—In the shadow of Stone Mt., Ga., a borrowed Dodge hauls this 4200-lb. load up hill to test 12 gasolines. All gasolines, except a few "third grades," sold for about the same price as That Good Gulf.



KENNESAW MT., GA.—Arrows indicate the points where the various gasolines stalled the motor. The starting line for all gasolines was some distance down the hill.

GULF WINS MORE HILL TESTS THAN 32 OTHER GASOLINES COMBINED!

HOW 33 GASOLINES RANKED (IN ALL TESTS TO DATE)

All gasolines tested, except a few "third grade" brands, sold for approximately the same price as That Good Gulf. Each brand is denoted by a letter.

SPECIALTY LIST TAKES STOCK SPOTLIGHT

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Stock market specialties accounted for what little activity there was in today's session and price change generally seemed to be without any important meaning.

While the strike situation at Detroit was still highly indefinite, and Washington news was what might be called "spotty," speculative circles were encouraged by the strength of bonds, many of which reached new peaks for the past two years or more.

Silver and rubber futures moved up moderately, but cotton was barely steady and grains were inclined to drift lower. International dollar ates held to a narrow groove.

Activity in some of the rubber stocks accompanied rumors that an announcement regarding world restriction would be made soon by the Amsterdam conference. The amusement issues were a little livelier on indications that theater businessis continuing to improve. The stir in a few of the sugar shares was coincident with reports of increased earnings of some of the larger companies.

Unofficial estimates of carloadings for the week ended April 7, place the decline from the previous week at between 35,000 and 40,000 cars. The seasonal drop for the week would be around 20,000 The abnormal decrease, it was said, was caused largely by reduced coal shipments.

Buying of coal was exceptionally heavy in March in anticipation of the higher prices which went into effect April 1. Labor troubles in some fields also slowed down the movement of coal.

Continued gains in bank clearings in the principal cities of the United States indicated to financial analysts that recovery is still under way. Dun & Bradstreet reported clearnings for the week ended April 11, totaled $5,719,649,000, a gain of 74.1 over the aggregate of $3,284,999,000 in the same 1933 week. This was the largest increase for any week since January, 1932. The period last year, of course was one in which the banking situation was somewhat cloudy.

WHEAT CLOSES WEAK, DOWN

CHICAGO, April 12.—Liquidating sales of May holings of grain futures broadened out late today, with corn, oats and barley leading a consequent decline of prices.

Oats fell to within 1½ cents of the season's low price record, and barley was of about 2 cents. General desire was evident on the part of holders of nearby futures in all grains to liquidate, so as not to be forced to take delivery of cash grain in May.

Wheat closed weak, 1¼-1½c under yesterday's finish, May 85⅛-¼c, corn ¾-1⅞c down, oats 1⅛-1⅝c off and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

MARKET PRICES CONTINUE TO 'CREEP UP'

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The stock market continues to creep up. As long as its action continues of the creeping variety, it seems likely to move higher. No serious reaction is probable until speculation becomes more active and the public participates more largely. That would, of course, bring the usual excesses and the inevitable corrective reaction.

So it seems to hold one's position in sound stocks, and to add thereto moderately in cases where the price is reasonable with respect to earnings.

One should note, however, that a good many stocks are extremely high in price when judged by dividend yields. On this basis, the standard "averages," which mostly include the old-line leaders, are not only very high compared with past periods, but are far out of line with bonds.

They seem to reflect the abnormally low and artificial money rates.

AVOID 'HIGH FLIERS'

The kind of stock which the average man of small means should consider, however, is not of the "high-flier" type. Of course, he should also avoid the cheap cat-and-dog type, which is purely speculative and moves only on manipulation. But his problem is not one of mere liquidity. He wants reasonable safety, but he also wants a good return on his money, and assurance that any further depreciation in the dollar will be compensated by a rise in his stock.

While avoiding the cheap manipulative stocks, therefore, he may well look elsewhere than the rich man's favorites.

For example, the passing of the dividend by Nash Motors is an eye opener. This action appears to have been necessitated by high operating expenses, for the company sold many cars. Evidently NRA cut earnings, while the conservatism of the company in accumulating materials inventories (or inability to accumulate because of style changes) handicapped it in meeting inflated prices.

SOME STOCKS BENEFITED

On the other hand, Wilson preferred and A stocks and Armour preferred and A, have benefited by inventories and government policies in boosting prices.

New highs have recently been made by such respectable stocks as Beechnut, Glidden, Reynolds Metal, United Drug and the Wilson and Armour issues referred to.

As long as the market continues to creep, while bonds move up and the 10 or 15 most active stocks each day show net gains, the present trend will probably continue. The background for it lies in (1) easy money and inflation, (2) growing hope that the back of the new deal, considered as a radical scheme for a "planned economy," has been broken.

Should the administration decide to "crack down" again (as by demanding more "teeth" in the stock exchange bill), there would doubtless be a relapse. Otherwise a delayed "spring rise" will culminate in a speculative spurt, followed by reaction. Meanwhile, there are enough uncertainties to keep the rise a creeping one.

U. S. SEEKS BAN ON CUTTEN

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The government will seek to bar Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain trader, from doing business in any contract market in the United States.

The federal effort was mapped today by attorneys. It will be instituted at a hearing in Chicago May 14.

Secretary Wallace cited Cutten yesterday for violation of the Grain Futures Act. He charged the trader with conspiracy and collusion, with failure to make reports required under the act, with making false reports, and with having used "dummy firms" to conceal his true position on the Chicago market.

The charges covered Cutten's operations in 1930 and 1931. Wallace asserted he was short on 453 of the 582 days he had an open net position, and attained maximum short positions during 1930 of 7,525,000 bushels on June 24 and had a peak during the next year of 6,770,000 on May 10.

Bank of England.

LONDON, April 12.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows these changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 4,742,000; circulation decreased 1,675,000; bullion increased 66,000; other securities decreased 616,000; public deposits increased 3,728,000; other deposits decreased 7,084,000; notes reserve increased 1,750,000; government securities decreased 5,075,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 47.88, per cent, compared with 45.88 last week.

What is it which, ascending into unknown, finds that which was lost?
What is it that gathers together all the business changes of a community and brings them to those who would profit in them?

Chickie's Daughter

CHAPTER XLII.

She said sharply: 'I wonder whether Jane Carew or the German fraulein wins out."

"He's not thinking of marriage."

"The girls are. That's usually enough."

Kathleen went on talking. Kevin could get married. It wouldn't matter that he was just beginning. He had an income from the money his parents left him—about $150 a month. Jane Carew had a snug little fortune of her own.

Kathleen's words dropped absently into Pippin's thoughts. She didn't want to speculate about Kevin's future. She wanted to remain quiet and alone in that sweet moment when she had come near to him. A little fiery intoxication glowed yet in her heart.

Dreams of Kevin

She walked home. It was a clear November day as long ago when the tree dahlia, all lavender with flowers, seemed such a poem. She paused at the crest of the almost vertical Baker street hill and glanced down toward the Palace of Fine Arts. The pool gleamed darkly in the sun; the great dome and the trees had the dreamy abandoned look of an old world ruin. She wanted to laugh. He was fine; he was finer. She was afraid to dwell on Kevin's face. At any moment a tumult would sweep over and drown her thought. She couldn't let this happen.

She went up the steps. Old Jonathan swung open the door. He loomed above her, frowning: "Now see here, Pippin. This is no way for a young lady to act."

She looked at him in indignation and stooped to pick up the big white cat rubbing his face against her ankles. "What are you talking about?"

Then Pippin remembered. She and Gregg were having tea together at the St. Francis. They were to dance. She rushed up the stairs. Gregg was always furious if you kept him waiting. Silly feminine vanity! Just to show their power.

Gregg Angry

His blue eyes flashed and his jaw flung out. He said through his teeth: "It was your idea. This stupid afternoon dancing. But you got me into it. Get yourself ready pronto and come along!"

He looked very snappy in a smart blue suit and new necktie. He glanced into Pippin's face; saw its glow and the dream in her eyes.

He caught her wrist: "What's happened to you? Where have you been?"

"I was at Kathleen's."

Gregg dropped her hand. He looked suddenly pathetic.

"Did Kevin come home? That's what kept you so long?"

"Oh—well, hurry up," Pippin. It's long after th[illegible]

She changed her clothes quickly. Standing before her dresser, she paused with the comb half run through her hair. She recalled her own words. Why had she said that? Kevin gone off with "an old college flame." She sat down on the little stool and slowly wiped her face.

Gregg took her arm when she returned to the room. He gave her a sharp, sweet glance and observed: "You look great!"

Sees Kevin at Last

Kathleen talked about Kevin. On Tuesday she mentioned casually: "His doctor friends gave a stag last night. Jane is giving a dinner tonight. I was invited."

"They're older—sort of a closed clique. I'd be an outsider. Besides, I have a French quiz tomorrow. I don't want to flunk."

On Thursday Kevin went to work with David. Pippin knew she was waiting for Saturday; waiting eager and impatient. She would saunter into that little cubby hole. She would see him. He would come in and talk—chummy, lovable, carefree.

But Saturday he was at the hospital on an emergency and the following week she had to stay down for a rehearsal of the play. Three weeks passed . . .

It was after 6 on that third Saturday. She sat on the little stool before her table looking over notes in chesimtsry—a very stiff course. She was working a problem. She couldn't concentrate.

Then Kevin stood at her side. It was the first time she had seen him in his white uniform. He looked remote, admirable, like a young priest.

He said, with a faint teasing smile: "So you got back, did you?"

"From where?"

"Your trip to the moon for all I know. Been home nearly a month. Thought I'd see you before this. Studying very hard?"

"Yes. How are you? You like it here?"

"Very well, thank you. What are you doing? A problem? Can't you work that out?"

"No—not yet."

He pulled up a stool and glanced at her papers: "Let's see. I'm stale on this."

She told him how far she had gone. He went forward with the next step. Then she had an idea. Very soon the problem was solved.

"You're good, Kevin! I wouldn't have got that in days alone."

"Yes, you would. You were right at it." He looked at her dubiously. "I wonder why you're taking such punishing courses. You seem so unsuited to this hard grind."

"Why, Kevin, my dear, it was you who prevented me from becoming a gay, gaudy butterfly when I was headed that way. Haven't I turned out all right in your opinion?"

"Yes—you have."

She gave a little uncertain laugh: "Yet somehow, it's wrong, isn't it? You seem to think I'm neither fish, fowl nor good red herring."

Tells of Studies

"Don't have to? You think I'm only kidding myself that I mean to work? David doesn't think that. The harder I study the better he's pleased. Last year I got thin and homely. I got 10 units of 'A's.' When the hospital is finished and I keep up with the hard grind, David is giving me a job. Don't you DARE condemn it!"

"Why should I condemn it? I had no idea you were so determined. I pictured you in another role."

Pippin looked up with a puzzled: "What role? Oh, I see! Like Gregg, you fancied me in a home with a house full of children. I'm not planning it."

"You don't want love, any more? That 'large tidal wave and all the minor ripples.' That's what you used to say."

"I see you have a dangerous memory."

She kept her eyes down. She looked at Kevin's hand, the square palm and long, tapered fingers, beautiful with strength and personality. Like that picture of Albrecht Durer's—the two clasped hands, more haunting and expressive than any face.

She said with a sharp intake of breath: "I'll fall in love! incredibly, wildly in love, making a grand fool of myself. I'll marry and all the rest. I know it, of course. And want it! Even so, this time of studying won't be wasted. David says it will be a richness all my life. He thinks a woman should also be a person. Most men don't."

Visions Home Life

She had a sudden vision of herself giving up the work she had come to love and settling in a home, planning meals, raising children.

She closed her notebook with an explosive: "Kevin, you ought to be glad you're not a woman! It's hard to be worth while. Well—adieu and thanks for the roses you've scattered on the coffin of my young career!"

Kevin put his hand over hers: "Don't go. I've got tonight free. Let's grab a bite somewhere and see Jane Cowl in Romeo and Juliet. She's so lovely."

"Well—I hoped to get off. I wasn't sure. I bought the tickets and then forgot about it."

She guessed he intended taking some one else—perhaps Jane. It was pure accident she was asked. She didn't care.

She snatched a glance into Kevin's eyes and wondered why they seemed more beautiful than other eyes.

Now Go On

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN THE kilowatts are working and the merry evening is in full swing, a girl and her counterfeit complexion are on good terms. Strong sunlight isn't kind to faces that have lost the radiance of youth, and that's why little Smarty will provide herself with two different shades of rouge and lipstick medium tones for trotting along the boulevard, brighter tints for the dinner party and the dance. Middle-aged sisters must use restraint at all times; the faint flush makes for the more vivid countenance, the heavy stroke imparts a shadow of fatigue.

PURCHASE OF ALASKA, MILESTONE OF U. S. DEVELOPMENT

While the reconstruction work in the South went on, Secretary of State William H. Seward negotiated with Czar Alexander II. of Russia, the purchase of Alaska for $7,200,000 (1867). The Senate ratified the treaty with but two dissenting votes as an act of gratitude to Russia, which was considered the most friendly among the European powers to the Northern cause during the Civil War.

Ridiculed, "Seward's Folly," to buy the "Icebox" of 590,844 sq. mi. on the Pacific and Arctic oceans, proved brilliant statesmanship. The purchase price has been repaid a hundred times by mined gold and minerals, fur industry and fishery products of Alaska, which has great possibilities of further development. (U. S. Hist.)

THE SECOND FRENCH REVOLUTION—PEOPLE ON THE BARRICADES IN PARIS 1830

After the Congress of Vienna (1814-1815) upholding the "Divine Right" of rulers, outlawing liberalism, Misgoverned people started to revolt Europe followed the absolutist policies of the Austrian chancellor, Prince Clement Metternich, (Spain, Portugal, Naples, etc.), only to be crushed by the troops of the Allies (Austria, France, Prussia, Russia). The fire that finally consumed Metternichism started in Paris. King Louis XVIII, who was restored after Napoleon's "Hundred Days Reign," did not live up to his promise for liberal rule. "White terror" rose instead, with many executions of followers of Napoleon. Charles X, succeeding (1824) his brother, was still more reactionary. His violations of the French constitution aroused the people, who took to arms, repulsed the king's troops. Charles abdicated and fled to England (1830). (World History) Copyright by G. Cain 1892

CALCIUM, ONE OF THE ALKALINE EARTH METALS

ELAINE'S BODY TAKEN TO KING ARTHUR'S COURT—HER LAST WISH

"Lancelot and Elaine" (pub. 1859) is the sixth of Tennyson's "Idylls of the King." Lancelot, on his way to the "diamond jousts"—a yearly tournament for the crown jewels, eight of which the knight had won—stops at the castle of Astolat. Elaine, "Lily Maid of Astolat," is touched with great love for him. When wounded, she nurses him to health, confesses her love, which is not reciprocated by the guilty lover of the Queen Guinevere. The knight departs, Elaine dies broken hearted.

As she wished, her body, laid in state on a barge, is floated down the river—clutching a lily in one hand, the letter bearing her last message to Lancelot in the other—to Arthur's Court. The king, reading the message, orders a queenly burial for her. Guinevere is reassured of Lancelot's love, who remorsefully realizes his sin. (English Literature)

THE HUMAN SPLEEN (LIEN)

It lies beneath the diaphragm behind and to left of the stomach. It is covered by serous and fibrous coats; processes of the latter form frame work, which holds the spleen "pulp," composed of red and white cells in formation and destruction.

Spleen functions: 1, Form (like lymphatic glands) colorless blood corpuscles (leucocytes, lymphocytes). 2, Partakes in disintegration of wornout red cells and prepares new haemoglobin for the new red cells by salvaging the iron. 3, Changes waste products of protein metabolism to urea to be eliminated by kidneys. 4, Takes part in production of antibodies, develops resistance against bacterial infections. 5, Secretes hormone, which stimulates blood formation in marrow. Removal of spleen is not fatal; an overgrowth of lymphatic glands makes up for it. 52-III-A

Fair Sex Croaked Chivalry

That means the men. When speaking of gallantry, politeness and consideration, the gals never include themselves.

Only the men are supposed to sacrifice their comfort to excursion tickets and vehicular transportation. Now, let's see how the girls act toward each other.

When six women are trying to get on a street car did you ever see one step back? Nope, they all rush forward and jam the door like coffee beans in a grinder.

We watched them in a department store the other day. Strange thing, but no woman will hold a door open for another woman. She slams it quick. She's afraid that another girl will sail through on her efforts. When they are at a crowded counter nobody gives an inch. They spread their elbows like flying eagles.

She does not. With absolutely no warning she catapults herself through the crowd in front. She kicks her way out and takes three other people with her. If she looks back at all it's only to glare like a hollow tiger.

There is no place like a bank to get an idea of the wildcat courtesy and balance of the lady client. She marches right up to the head of the line and asks for a 1934 calendar.

You never saw a gal tip her hat to another dame. You never saw a deb stand up and give her seat to a dowager. Especially when she is seated on the lap of the dow's husband.

Two can play at that game. That business of Sir Walter using his cloak for linoleum is out. You must have fair play in all rackets. Like begets ditto. Ditto leads to et cetera. From then on it becomes miscellaneous.

We will be polite but the gals must also be chivalrous. And, while waiting for that much postponed millenium to drive up we shall continue to be our rough, manly old selves.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
It Is One of the Greatest Railroad Centers and Inland Ports

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Taxpayers!—NOW Is the Time to ORGANIZE

THE TIME has come for a nation-wide organization of taxpayers.

The country has gone mad in the quest for every stray dollar it can grab, pilfer or confiscate under the guise of a tax.

This is true not only of the nation but of virtually every state in the union, and every county, municipality and township.

Nothing more nauseating has occurred in Washington than the action of the Senate in passing a measure designed to do nothing less than—TO TAX TAXES!

Having screwed the income tax up to a point which the Senate dared not exceed, and feeling it could lay no further impost on WHAT A MAN POSSESSED, it now votes to levy a TAX ON WHAT HE PAID AS TAXES. The idea is like bleeding a man for his loss of blood, or shooting him for being shot.

No such grotesque or savage abuse of the taxing power, we venture to say, was ever known or attempted.

IT WILL occasion no surprise to learn that this disgraceful and rapacious drive at the purse of the common man is more than the House of Representatives can stomach, and there is a report that President Roosevelt views it with disapproval.

So daring and ingenious an extension of the taxing power carries it to an extreme hitherto unknown and even undreamed of.

It shows that government has become a menace,—some think an undisguised enemy—to the sober, thrifty and industrious elements in every community.

The property of the citizen is not safe. The fruits of his labor are subject to capture. His frugality mocks him. His footsteps are dogged by the tax gatherer, and the rifling of his pockets has become a governmental pastime.

THE TAXPAYERS OF THE COUNTRY ARE DEFENCELESS BECAUSE THEY ARE UNORGANIZED.

ORGANIZED, they could not only defend themselves, but they could save the country and its credit, and safeguard its future from the disastrous consequences of some of the wild and light headed experimentation going on in Washington.

We say—ORGANIZATION OF THE TAX PAYERS. WHY NOT?

Every DRIVE AGAINST THE TAXPAYER is organized and working systematically and with deeper and deeper inroads upon the dwindling resources, night and day.

Every conceivable theory and pretext for boring into the public treasury and laying hands on the money of the people IS ORGANIZED—politically organized, manned, officered, sustained by moneys which have accrued from former raids on the nation's taxpayers.

The final impact of these organized forays is upon the taxpayers, simply and solely because the taxpayers are unorganized!

The elected representatives of the people have shown that in the presence of an organized minority, all they will ever do is to curl up and acquiesce in the demands made of them, no matter how outrageous the demands, or how ruinous to the public interest compliance with them may prove.

THE ORGANIZATION we call for should be formed regardless of the political affiliations of its members.

In every community there are men capable of leadership,—men capable of taking in hand and carrying forward the simple steps which effective organization requires. The support which such men could command, would be great numerically, and in quality intelligent and effective.

Thus organized, the taxpayers of the country could speak to the weak kneed and flabby Senators and Representatives in the only language they understand—DEFEAT AT THE POLLS.

Defeat—blasting defeat—would be a just return for their selfish desertion of the public interest, the common welfare and their duty as representatives of the people.

THIS TASK of organizing the taxpayers of the country should be undertaken IMMEDIATELY.

From it there may grow the GENUINE PARTY OF RECOVERY for which millions of our people wait.

GOOD FAITH IN PUBLIC LIFE, GOOD FAITH IN PUBLIC AND PRIVATE DEBTS, SOUND JUDGMENT and ERECT PRINCIPLES, would soon return to strengthen and give order to American life.

Such an organization might well prove to be the turning point in these confused and rocking times—the turning to a better road, a clearer national outlook and a more rational and coherent purpose to guide our people.

Safety for County Wards

In protest against the county's delay in establishing a Juvenile Detention Home in which the children will be safe, A. L. Wills has resigned as superintendent of the home. He is unwilling to assume responsibility any longer for the Fifth avenue building in which the county's juvenile wards are at present housed—a building which is admittedly inadequate and which has been called "a fire trap."

There is a proposal before the County Commissioners to erect a new building with money to be borrowed from the federal government. Whether this can be secured is problematical, but in any event there should not be indefinite delay.

The Commissioners should act. To continue to keep the children in the Fifth avenue "fire trap" is indefensible.

Slaughter of Beavers

It Is to be Hoped the Dam Builders on Little Sewickley Creek Escaped.

Pennsylvania's first open season for trapping beavers since the animals were introduced in 1915 closed Tuesday. A Harrisburg dispatch indicates a belief on the part of some of the state's game officials that one-third of the beavers may have been killed. This, if true, is deplorable.

Beavers, plentiful in colonial times, had become extinct in Pennsylvania when the proposal was made that they be brought back as a desirable addition to our wild life. A few pairs were turned loose, and their descendants have multiplied rapidly.

The excuse for removing the ban on killing them was that they did damage in their dam building operations by cutting down trees and flooding farmers' fields.

Two former chairmen of the State Game Commission who live in this county, John M. Phillips and Ross Leffler, have been far from enthusiastic over the slaughter of the beavers, and we have sufficient confidence in the soundness of their judgment to share their doubts of the advisability of killing the interesting and industrious animals. Mr. Phillips' suggestion that the beavers that have been doing damage be trapped alive and released on mountain streams where they can do no damage has seemed to us the sensible solution of the problem.

It is to be hoped that the beavers on Little Sewickley Creek in this county, which delighted large galleries of spectators on summer evenings last year, and whose coming apparently was welcomed rather than resented by the owners of the property, for a wire fence was put up to keep visitors from disturbing them—it is to be hoped that they escaped.

Relief for Slum Dwellers

The Question of What Is to Become of Them Becomes of More Pressing Interest.

The Pittsburgh Housing Association, complying with the Sun-Telegraph's suggestion that it find out what becomes of the occupants of the slum dwellings which the city is demolishing as unsafe and insanitary, gives us the following report:

Eleven houses have thus far been razed—eight in the Hill District, two on the North Side, and one in East Liberty. Six of the houses have been vacant for some time. Each of the other five was occupied by only one person, a squatter—four men and one woman. The men have been removed to public shelters for homeless men; the woman, ill, has been committed to Mayview.

The question of slum replacement has apparently not become urgent so far as these first houses to go are concerned. But it will soon have to be answered, for scores of other dwellings have been condemned, and some of them are occupied by families who, if left to shift for themselves, will have no alternative because of their low income or lack of income but to seek refuge in other slums.

The Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board plans to look for better dwellings for these destitute families and to furnish them with enough money for one month's rent from funds privately contributed.

But what of the succeeding months?

Advancing Figures

(Copyright 1934.)

The relative figures showed that both publicly and privately financed building contracts awarded in the territory east of the Rockies vaulted from $96,716,000 in February of this year to $179,163,000 in March—an increase of $82,447,000.

The same authority announces that with Public Works funds a national survey is being rapidly completed showing the condition of millions of homes on which repairs and improvements may be properly financed by federal home loan agencies. And, besides, previous studies revealed that at least 750,000 new homes are needed throughout the country.

Slow to start, the movement is in progress—and the statistics for March are proof of what it means in terms of re-employment and of recovery.

I Have Found Happiness in Little Things

I HAVE FOUND HAPPINESS
IN LITTLE THINGS;
A child's quick laugh—
A puppy's wagging bark—
A warm light burning
On a rainy night—
Spring lines of green
Between great city stones—
Old books, old shoes,
A shabby, friendly chair—
A walk, through wind,
Beneath great, booming trees—
Some steaming soup
Served in a brown, nicked bowl—
Before an open fire—
The sudden kindness
Of a stranger's smile.
IN LITTLE THINGS.

* * *

It was not always so.
I was not always humble
In my quest for joy.
I was impatient, greedy.
Had tall, gilded plans,
And felt a frank contempt
For small delights.

* * *

"Such things," I thought,
"May do for simple souls.
"But I'm no plodding turtle
"Or contented cow.
"Life is so short,
"I want all that it holds
"Of risk and romance,
"Pleasure, power, pride.
"No beggars' crumbs
"Or shabby compromise
"For me. Why not?
"Am I not fit
"For grander ventures
"Than tame, common folk?"

* * *

So I cried once.
And stretched impatient hands
Toward all the glory
Of a glamorous world,
And felt them fill
With much that I had asked—
Romance, adventure,
Rainbow gleam of fame,
Power and pleasure.
Rich Life seemed to heap
All her bright treasure
In my greedy clutch!

But when I tried to hold it
It was gone!
Of all those gifts
Which Life had seemed to give,
Not one was real.
Not one stayed in my hand,
Or warmed my heart,
Or rooted in my life!
They were like faces
Seen within a dream
They were like voices
Lost within a storm.

* * *

Then what had I to show
For all the years—
The long, grim struggle
And the desperate risk?
Just some few simple joys
Which once I had despised!

* * *

Some memories—
My father's courage
And my mother's smile;
A tangled garden
In a little town;
The wind, the sun.
Hard work, good rest,
My laddie's love;
My husband's sympathy,
Dogs, babies,
Ploughing fields;
A house I built;
The smell of burning leaves
On autumn nights;
That dusk when God
Seemed walking with His stars.
Of all the struggling years,
These were the only things
That lasted—real.
The rest were faces
Seen within a dream
The rest were voices
Lost within a storm.

* * *

And so—
I have found happiness
In little things.
Thank God for all small tasks,
They, alone, are real.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 12.—There are no people so docile as the hardened New Yorkers. Years of roaming about in the clutch of the herd instinct give them the amiability, minus the bleat, of sheep. I have seen a lone cop with waves of his club keep a path clear in congested Times Square.

Manhattanese have learned that protesting takes too much out of them so they sway meekly at any wand of authority. A puckish psychographer, to test his theory, stood in the old Waldorf corridor an hour one day saying: "On your tiptoes, please." Everybody obeyed. No one asked why.

If a taxi blocks a street crossing, pedestrians walk around it without even an annoyed glance at the driver. The Manhattan humility is well expressed at fake auction sales where passersby are fairly pulled in and made to buy by brow-beating tactics that would incite a Donnybrook fair at the cross roads.

The rush hours of the subway offer another exhibit of meekness. Hired plug uglies in flying tackle formations sweep passengers off the platforms and into trains. Every day, year after year, clothes are torn and bodies bruised and rarely is there the faintest murmur.

New York's juvenile jargon, too, differs from that of the outland. A sling-shot is a beaner. And the game out yonder known as leap-frog is here "parr." Boys part over fire hydrants. The game known elsewhere as hop-skotch is potsy and the local cop's shield is still called a potsy after the flat wad of tin which kids flatten out to play the game.

Douglas Fairbanks seems pining for familiars from home in his London exile. It was at his importuning that his son, Doug. Jr., left the Hollywood scene to embark on a new career in the British capital. Recently Karl K. Kitchen was called over to spend several weeks as a house guest. And Tom Geraghty, long the Fairbanks' Friday, was summoned a month after the screen star left America and has been with him since.

Inspiration Point is Riverside Drive's sweep to its highest peak a short walk from the single span of the Washington Bridge. Friendly benches overloop the ripple of the Hudson and they are usually filled at twilight when the vanishing sun chiffons into a crumble of marigold. Washington Irving was stirred by the changing colors of the shrubbery clinging to the bold sheer of cliffs that are the Jersey palisades. At twilight they shimmer into a haze of heliotrope, breathless in friendly cower. And then as though the world were taking a deep breath there comes the plunge of night and a heaven asterisked in stars. No man can behold it all without a secret avowal to be a better boy.

Billy Rose doesn't have to be known longer by the designation "Fannie Brice's husband." This beaming little man caught the Broadway rebound from repeal with the biggest amusement money maker in town in shape of an Americanized version of a continental music hall. Now he will try to crack the hoodoo so long hovering over the Hammerstein Theater by converting it into a similar endeavor at cheaper prices. The Hammerstein, one of the costliest of the later crop of playhouses, has been mostly dark. Shrewd experimenters had their fling at the life pumps, but it always lapsed into another sinking spell.

Roosevelt Bridges Gap Between Facts, Politics

By James T. Williams, Jr.

The sure foundations of the state are laid in knowledge, not in ignorance; and every sneer at education, at culture, at book learning, which is the recorded wisdom of the experience of mankind, is the demagogue's sneer at intelligent liberty, inviting national degeneracy and ruin.—G. W. Curtis.

WHEN the Roosevelt administration now in power becomes history, the building of a much-needed bridge in the federal city will probably be given high place among the President's manifold achievements during his first year in the White House.

This is the bridge which Mr. Roosevelt has built to connect expert information with political experience in the solution of federal problems.

The run-of-the-mill politician has a contempt for the expert that is generally heartily reciprocated. The reason for this mutual hostility is easy to find.

The average politician keeps his ear so close to the ground that his prostrate posture would prevent the reading of a book or the digesting of a treatise on a public question, even if he possessed the inclination to get his facts straight before he started broadcasting his opinions.

Many an expert keeps his head so bowed over books and graphs that he has little time, and less inclination, to take soundings of public sentiment. He frequently mistakes for timidity in the legislator what is really a prudence born of experience in public life.

Just as the average politician frequently straggles far behind the procession and forfeits his chance to chart its course, so the average expert is apt to get too far ahead of the procession and proves equally unsuccessful as a guide.

Patronage Questions Prevent Research

THEN, too, the curse of patronage hangs over many Senators and Representatives in Congress, like a two-edged sword. It cuts them off from research that would lead to knowledge, and it cuts them off from contact with the vast majority of their constituents who still try to believe in representative government and would not squander a three-cent stamp in search of any personal favor that a Senator or Representative might be disposed to do for them.

As a result, the thinking members of both Houses, who come deliberately to their conclusions only after weighing the merits of a public question in the light of all the facts they can assemble, are few and far between.

For information regarding measures upon which they are called upon to vote, the majority of Democrats and Republicans in the Senate and in the House generally have to depend upon the propaganda furnished them by the sponsors or opponents of these proposals.

All this, Mr. Roosevelt came to know at first hand during the eight years that he served President Wilson as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. And what was true of federal legislation, he found to be true of state legislation during his two terms as Governor of New York.

* * *

Compromises Between Theory and Practice

EARLY in his first term as Governor, Mr. Roosevelt began to draw about him experts to whom he assigned the study of public problems, in preparation for his attempt to solve them. These experts frequently were put in direct contact with the chairmen and members of legislative committees at Albany. This association resulted in a remarkable record of progressive legislation, which distinguished Mr. Roosevelt's governorship.

Building this much-needed bridge, therefore, over which could be freely exchanged the information of the expert and the wisdom of the experienced legislator or administrator, was no new task for Mr. Roosevelt when he entered upon his presidency. The more this bridge is used in the federal city, the better it will be for public legislation and public administration.

Congress is reluctant to admit reliance on experts. And experts are reluctant to defer to political experience. But all sound legislation is the result of compromise. And the bridge which President Roosevelt has built in the federal city leads to those compromises between theory and practice which wise men willingly make to serve the public interest. "Knowledge is power," whether it be the knowledge that comes from the study of people or the study of books.

Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, Cancer Authority, Calls for More Women Workers in the Field of Medicine

By Edwin C. Hill

THE world of medicine is all ears when Joseph Colt Bloodgood rises to speak. For Dr. Bloodgood, professor of surgical pathology at Johns Hopkins, is known internationally as an authority on cancer, the result of 40 prominent years in his chosen field. And now, speaking in Ottawa, Dr. Bloodgood says:

"We need in all the civilized countries a larger number of women fundamentally trained in the medical science, not only as practitioners of medicine, in the specialties and general practices, but in laboratory positions, research work and in public health. My experience teaches me that women are taking to preventive medicine quicker than men."

This eminent gentleman's remarks call to mind two women who have reached the heights in the world which he would open wide for their sisters, and these two are Mme. Marie Curie, of Paris, and Miss Maude Slye, of Chicago.

Mme. Curie's story has been well told: how she, Marie Sklodowska, born the daughter of a doctor of Warsaw, in 1867, had to leave the country because of revolutionary activities—how she made her way to Paris, took a degree in science and married Dr. Pierre Curie—how together, in 1898, they discovered radium, and how, after Pierre was killed by a horse-drawn truck in 1906, she took his place as professor of chemistry in the university and won the Nobel Prize, as well as honors from all peoples.

Dr. Maude Slye, born in Minneapolis in 1879, has devoted the last quarter of a century to a study of, and a search after those known, unknown and infinitesimal particles which hold the secrets of life, death and heredity. In seclusion, and with the patience of the true scientist, she has lived these years in her laboratory in the University of Chicago and there has performed 116,000 mouse autopsies.

She may be little known to the public, but medicine and science know her for her invaluable work, and accords her the highest professional standing. As Dr. Bloodgood says, he speaks from experience in this testimony to women in science and medicine—the experience of almost half a century, and from it he draws another pithy observation which I quote:

ISN'T IT SO?

There are times when every girl worries for fear some man may commit suicide on her account.
